JUDGE ROAN REVERSES DECISION ON CONLEY TESTIMONY

WILSON ATTACKED FOR SENDING LIND ON MEXIC MISSION

Senator Clark of Wyoming Declares Something Else Must Be Done to Guarantee Adequate Protection

HUERTA NOT PLEASED WITH LIND'S COMING

Intimates He Will Refuse to Treat With Him—Lind Says He Would Not Accept Mexican Ambassadorship

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—President Wilson's action in sending former Governor John Lind to Mexico as a special emissary in the present situation was attacked in the senate today by Senator Clark, of Wyoming, who declared "something else must me done by the administration to guarantee adequate protection to Americans."

Senator Clark presented a resolution for an immediate investigation by the senate foreign relations committee of the condition of American citizens and American property in Mexico.

"This resolution is not introduced in a spirit of hostility to the administration or of criticism of the foreign relations committee," declared the senator. "But conditions are growing steadily worse in Mexico. Now we learn that Governor Lind has been sent there by President Wilson.

LIND TRIP INSIGNIFICANT.

"That does not satisfy. Mr. Lind does not go as the official representative of the United States. He does not go as an ambassador cloaked with authority to represent the United States. He cannot be appealed to by American citizens for protection. Some other steps are necessary to give to Americans and American property the protection they need and are demanding."

Senator Sheppard, of Texas, presented a summary of the strength o fthe constitutionalists' forces in Mexico. The report showed the constitutionalists number between 60,000 and 80,000 and that they are in possession of far more than half of Mexico.

AMERICANS IN DANGER.

"We are unable to get exact and definite information," replied Senator Clark, "about conditions in Mexico. Evidence still continues, however, to show that American property is being destroyed every day, that American citizenship is being dishonored, and even that officers of the American government are being shot down."

Today's official dispatches from Mexico contained no information of the five American officials to the Madero Lumber company, who are believed in El Paso

SENATOR LUKE LEA CALLS FOR A PROBE OF L. & N. RAILROAD

Introduces Resolution for the Commerce Commission to Investigate Its Control of N. C. & St. L.

PROBE MAY HAVE BEARING ON RE-LEASE OF W. & A.

Senator Hoke Smith Does Not Think, However, Such an Effect Would Be Adverse, but Perhaps Favorable

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 6.—Senator Luke Lea, of Tennessee, introduced today a resolution directing the interstate commerce commission to investigate and report to the senate all facts pertaining to the alleged ownership, or control, of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, and subsidiary lines, by the Louisville & Nashville. The purpose of the proposed investigation, according to Senator Lea, is to obtain information upon which the department of justice may base a prosecution for alleged violation of the Overman anti-trust law. He will call up his resolution at the first opportunity and expects it will pass without opposition. He stated that the investigation would require probably sixty days.

While Senator Lea's motive is to prevent the absorption of the Tennessee Central by the Louisville & Nashville, it is admittedly true that his move in the senate may have a very decided bearing on the releasing of the Western and Atlantic railroad by the state of Georgia to the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis company. It is true, also, that the control of the Georgia railroad by the Louisville & Nashville may be affected by the inquiry.

WON'T HURT W. & A.

Senator Hoke Smith gave it as his opinion, after reading the Lea resolution, that the proposed inquiry would not adversely affect the Western and Atlantic railroad. He said:

"While I haven't had time to study the provisions of Senator Lea's resolution carefully, his evident purpose is to force a dissolution of the Louisville and Nashville and the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis properties, if it is found they are in combination.

"I do not see how the dissolution of these properties can possibly injure the Western and Atlantic. On the contrary, a dissolution of the Louisville and Nashville and the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis might place these two companies in competition for the Western and Atlantic, and thereby en-

SIX DIE IN WRECK WHEN FREIGHT GOES THROUGH CULVERT

Engineer Farris, Firemen Shenell and Chanler, Brakeman Merrell and Two Negroes Are Killed

VICTIMS ARE AT BOTTOM OF HUGE MASS OF DEBRIS

Noonday Creek Washes Over Engine and Fourteen Cars Piled Up in Place Where Culvert Stood

Six people were killed in a railway wreck six miles north of Marietta about 1 o'clock Wednesday morning when Louisville and Nashville freight train No. 45, south bound, ran into a washout.

The dead are:

S. K. FARRIS, engineer, white.

CHARLES SHERNELL, fireman, white.

R. P. MERRELL, brakeman, white.

TOM CHANLER, fireman, white.

MIKE JACKSON, section hand, negro.

An unknown negro.

The engine and fourteen cars went end on end into a yawning chasm forty-five deep deep and extending thirty feet, where the Noonday creek had washed away its cement culvert and left the gap. Into this hole the cars piled one on top of the other, making a mass of debris that it will take twenty-four hours or more to clear up.

The bodies of the four members of the train crew are being sought for Wednesday in the mass of wreckage, but as they were in the engine and the rest of the wreck is piled on top of them, the task is difficult. The only body found is that of Mike Jackson. He was riding on the engine pilot, going a short distance from Noonday to his home. His body was found on the opsite side of the bank where the engine had hit the bank before falling to the bottom of the gap.

Before the embankment of the culvert gave way twenty feet of water had backed up. But the gap was there before the train came along. This is shown by the fact that hay in some of the cars is not wet. There is about three feet of water in the wreckage now.

The accident occurred on the Western and Atlantic railway over which the L. & N. runs.

Owing to the fact that the rest of the train was on the rear end of the train they escaped injury.

When the wreck occurred the train was going at its regular rate of speed of about fifteen miles an hour.

The wrecked train was south bound coming to Atlanta. The crew was made up at the railway division point at Etawah. This is the main line of the Western and Atlantic.

Atlanta to Have World's Fastest Auto Race Track Within 20 Minutes Ride From Heart of City

Organization of Atlanta Autodrome Association Perfected Wednesday by Election of Officers—Actual Work of Construction Will Begin Soon and World-Famed Speed Kings Should Be Racing Here in Few Months—To Make Speedway World's Most Noted

The Atlanta Autodrome association was organized Wednesday morning for the construction of the fastest automobile race track in the world, on Collier road, one-quarter of a mile from Peachtree road and only 20 minutes ride from the center of the city.

Work upon this track, which will surpass the "Pie Pan" in Los Angeles, and the great Brooklines track of Brooklines, England, will begin within a week, and will be completed within 45 days.

By October, possibly by November, Barney Oldfield, Burman and all the other great racers—men with international reputations—will come here to join in a great meet with which the track will be christened.

At that time, Atlanta will take prestige as possessor of the fastest track in the world; and as the city in which the new speed records of the racing cars will be set.

The meeting at which the immediate construction of this track, which is to exceed all others in speed, even the Pie Pan andP Brooklines, was held on Wednesday morning at the Transportation club.

OFFICERS CHOSEN.

Following are the officers who were elected as head of the association by which the automobile track will be built: John S. Cohen, president; George Hanson, first vice president; John Aldridge, second vice president; Frank Weldon, secretary and treasurer; Jack Prince, manager; Wylie West, publicity manager, and Thomas B. Felder, attorney.

Eighty acres of land will be contained within the inclosure of the track, and this land will be prepared into tennis courts and into other means of amusement which will make the autodrome a social center, in addition to the fastest automobile track in the world.

Colonel Thomas B. Felder has offered the donation of 120 acres adjacent to the autodrome, and this land may be put to use as a golf course.

Altogether the autodrome will be the most ambitious amusement plan yet undertaken in Atlanta. It will also be a means of advertising the city far and wide.

Brooklines, England, is known for its great race track, when Los Angeles is mentioned the Pie Pan is thought of. But the autodrome in Atlanta will be a faster track than any of these; the fastest track in the world, indeed, and it will advertise Atlanta in an even greater degree than the Pie Pan advertises Los Angeles or the great track at Brooklines advertises that part of England.

Jack Prince, who will build Atlanta's autodrome, also built the Pie Pan and fifteen others not quite so well known; and Jack says that the one here will surpass any of the other fifteen with the Pie Pan thrown in.

His seventeenth speed saucer is to be the fastest that he has ever put together. It is to be his big effort.

ONE MILE TRACK.

The length of the track is to be one mile, a triple radius track, as it is known to the racers; and at the turns it will be banked 45 degrees. The racing cars as they take these inclines will have to "stick" to the boards, hold on, as it were, cling to the sides to keep from slipping.

It is this arrangement that will make the track the fastest in the world—this and the fact that it will be built of boards and will be planned in the triple radius fashion, which means that it will be somewhat mashed in at the ends, will have abrupter turns, and longer straight distances.

The stands will seat many thousand people, the car service will be prompt and adequate, and the speed will give the racing world something new to think of, some records that heretofore never have been equaled.

As to the car service, an agreement has already been reached with the Georgia Railway and Power company by which a spur track will be built to the entrance of the autodrome, and will there make a loop in order that cars may arrive and leave swiftly.

AUGUSTA FIRE BURNS COTTON WORTH $100,000

Flames Spread Over Riverside Compress Before Office Safe Could Be Locked

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 6.—The Riverside Compress of Augusta burned early this afternoon, entailing a financial loss of $100,000 which includes 603 bales of cotton. The origin of the fire is unknown.

It was first discovered in four bales in a corner of the warehouse and before the office safes could be locked and the alarm sounded it had spread through the entire length and breadth of the warehouse and platform. In spite of the work of the department, which at first was futile so fiercely was the fire burning, the plant is a total loss and several negro houses around the plant are burning. This portion of the city is thickly populated and that the loss is not greater is considered remarkable.

Mr. Doughtery, of Augusta, is president of the Riverside Compress company. The compress had just been moved to make way for the levee.

CITY OFFICIALS PICNIC AT RIVER PUMP STATION

Zode Smith, general manager of the waterworks department, is so elated that the big Frank P. Rice pump at the river pumping station is once again in order, that he invited a number of city officials to celebrate the completion of the repairs Wednesday morning.

Mayor Woodward, members of the water department, and other officials were invited to a picnic dinner at the river station, and left the city at 12:20 for the feast.

After Tuesday the big pump will be running regularly.

CONLEY'S WHOLE TESTIMONY WILL BE ALLOWED TO STAY IN RECORD OF FRANK CASE

State Ready With Corroborating Witnesses, if Evidence Is Held to Be Admissable—Jim Conley Adds New and Sensational Feature to His Testimony, Declaring He Saw Frank Place Mary Phagan's Pocketbook in the Factory Safe

SOLICITOR DORSEY APPLAUDED IN COURT WHEN SUSTAINED BY RECORDS AFTER DISPUTE WITH ROSSER

Those Responsible for Applause Were Immediately Ejected From the Court Room—Dr. H. F. Harris Expected to Resume Stand During Afternoon—State Will Finish Presentation of Its Case by Thursday but Hardly Before

Judge L. S. Roan, presiding at the trial of Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the National Pencil factory, who is on trial charged with the murder of Mary Phagan, Wednesday afternoon reversed himself in his ruling made Tuesday striking out portions of Jim Conley's testimony. The judge made his ruling Tuesday but withheld announcing it to the jury until Wednesday. His reversal means that Conley's testimony that he acted in the capacity of a "lookout" for the accused superintendent on days prior to the day of the tragedy, and also his testimony accusing Frank of perversion remains in the testimony. It also means that Solicitor Dorsey will be allowed to present evidence corroborating the negro sweeper as to Frank's attitude toward him and his conduct in the negro's presence.

CONLEY ADDS NEW SENSATION.

Jim Conley, who left the witness stand at 11:10, after sixteen hours of direct and cross examination, added a sensational feature to his testimony Wednesday by the declaration that he saw Frank take the mesh bag or pocket book carried by Mary Phagan from the desk in his office and place it in the safe. So far as the public knows the mesh bag has never been found.

Over the protest of the attorneys for the defense, Solicitor Dorsey managed to get before the jury that Frank had refused to face his accuser Jim Conley when the detectives sought to arrange an interview at the tower.

For the first time since the trial has been in progress applause broke out in the court room when Solicitor Dorsey after a dispute with counsel for the defense over testimony given by Detective Scott, was sustained by the reading of the court stenographic notes. The defense had contended that Scott testified that Frank told him on April 28th about Mrs. White's having seen a negro near the foot of the stairs on the day of the tragedy. Although the defendant had given this information to the Pinkerton detectives on April 28, declared the solicitor, it was May 7 before the state's detectives knew about it. When the stenographer's report of Scott's testimony was read, sustaining the solicitor, applause broke forth in several parts of the court room at once. Those responsible for it were immediately ejected by the deputie.

Dr. H. F. Harris is expected to take tne stand Wednesday afternoon and finish his testimony. He will probably be under cross-examination for an hour or more. The state expects to finish the presentation of its case Thursday.

LARGE CROWD PRESENT.

Hardly half of the crowd that was waiting in the long line when the court room doors were opened, Wednesday morning, could gain admittance, the limited seating capacity being filled at once.

Leo M. Frank, the accused, breakfasted with his wife and mother in an ante room of the court. It was stated that the defendant had slept well overnight.

All was ready for court to convene several minutes in advance of 9 o'clock, the scheduled hour.

Before the jury entered, Mr. Rosser told the court that both sides had come prepared to discuss the question of ruling out certain portions of Conley's testimony. Judge Roan stated that he would hear that discussion at 2 o'clock. He did not care to hear it at the morning session.

"Your honor, we have some witnesses whom we want to put on the stand following Conley," objected the solicitor.

Attorneys interpreted Judge Roan's remarks on this to be that he would allow the corroborative testimony to proceed if it was at hand, and then would announce later his ruling on its admissibility after he had heard arguments at 2 o'clock.

CONLEY RESUMES STAND.

The jury was called in and the cross-examination of James Conley, the negro sweeper of Frank, resumed with Mr. Rosser conducting it.

Attorney Rosser made a demand on Solicitor Dorsey for the original of Conley's second affidavit. The solicitor was unable to furnish the original. Chief Lanford never had given it to him, he said, and he doubted the existence of a signed statement. Detective Starnes said he didn't think Conley signed that affidavit, although it was taken in the negro's words by a shorthand reporter.

Attorney Rosser read from an unsigned copy of the original statement, with the permission of the solicitor, both sides finally agreeing that this copy should be taken as the original. This statement was made by Conley to the police on May 24.

In it Conley said he arose between 9 and 9:30 o'clock on the day of the murder. He remembered the time because after he got up he went outside to get some water and looked at the clock on the Atlanta university. The affidavit continued, "This is my second and last statement. In my first statement I said I wrote the notes on Friday so I wouldn't be connected with the murder. I thought that if I said I went there Saturday they would accuse me of knowing about the murder." The affidavit recited Conley's alleged actions that day, which Conley since on the stand has admitted to be wrong recital.

The affidavit did not go into as much detail as Conley's testimony on the stand, and that testimony contradicted it in a number of details, Conley himself admitting that he lied. In it he said he bought six beers at various saloons on Peters street on his way to the Capital City laundry; that on his way to the laundry he met Frank at the corner of Nelson and Forsyth streets, and Frank told him to wait until he went to Montag Brothers and then he would go to the factory with him.

Conley's affidavit continued that he waited and then accompanied Frank to the factory. The statement continued to name the various people who entered and left the factory, telling virtually the same story as he does now on the witness stand. The statement told of writing the notes at Frank's dictation, but said nothing about knowing of the actual murder or having helped to conceal the body.

ANOTHER AFFIDAVIT.

Mr. Rosser picked up another affidavit made the following day by Conley, and read that. This document represented the negro as adding to his previous story statements about assisting in the disposal of the body. The story was principally the same as told on the witness stand, but varied in a number of details.

For instance, he said that Frank told him he picked up a girl and let her fall, instead of that Frank told him he had struck a girl too hard, as the negro testified Monday. Another discrepancy was that the negro said he was carrying the girl on his shoulder and that she slipped from his shoulder instead of that she was hanging about his knee in the bagging and that he dropped her deliberately, in order to get Frank to help him.

He ended this affidavit by saying that he had thought Frank was going to get out and help him, but that he then believed Frank was not going to help him and that he had decided to tell the whole truth.

The negro said on the stand, Wednesday, after the statement had been read, that he remembered making it and that it was his statement; that he could not remember its date or its sequence.

"Was this the last statement that they put in writing, Jim?" asked Mr. Rosser.

"I don't know," answered Conley. "I think they were all put in writing, except some things that I told the detectives."

Mr. Rosser resumed his cross-questioning of the negro.

"On Thursday, May 1, while you were working by Miss Rebecca Carson, didn't

"HE SHORE GOES AFTER YOU" SAYS CONLEY OF MR. ROSSER

Jim Made for a Newspaper and a Cigarette as Soon as He Left the Stand—He Is Interviewed Through Medium of His Attorney

Jim Conley wasn't garrulous after he left the witness stand Wednesday morning, and that's saying the least of it.

Perhaps Jim figured that he had done enough talking to last him a few weeks.

He went into the reporters' room first and sat down and heaved a sort of sigh. Then he picked up an edition of The Journal and commenced to read about himself.

A reporter turned from the telephone and said something to him, and thereupon a deputy sheriff, standing near, gave an imitation of a balloon ascension.

About that time William M. Smith, Conley's lawyer, stuck his head through the door. It was the first chance the lawyer had been allowed, since Conley went on the stand, to talk to him.

"Come over here, Jim," said Attorney Smith, and led the negro across the hall to a little ante-room.

Jim shucked off his coat as he crossed the hall, and made for a chair, stretched out his legs, and heaved another sort of a sigh. He sat there, gazing out the window, his eyes on the face of a brick wall some distance away.

A reporter came in.

"How about it, Bill," said he. "Let me talk to him?"

"Sorry, old man," said the lawyer, "but you see they're already trying to get some of you boys balled up about a story some time ago, when Conley was in jail. Jim, don't you say a word to anybody, do you hear?"

"All right," said the reporter. "Then you do the talking. Ask him what he thinks of Rosser."

Attorney Smith: "What do you think of Rosser, Jim?"

Jim gave a combination of snicker and a laugh. He waged his head expressively.

"He shore does go after you, don't he?" said Jim.

Reporter—"Ask him how he felt when he came off the stand."

Attorney Smith—"How do you feel, Jim?"

Jim—"I feel all right, sir, 'cept I'm kinder tired."

Reporter—"Ask him what he wanted while he was on the stand."

Attorney Smith—"What did you want most, Jim, while Rosser was grilling you?"

Jim, showing his white teeth, "Outside a wonderful when he was goin' to quit, I reckon I wanted to smoke most."

Attorney Smith—"Here, Jim, smoke this cigarette."

And Jim fired up and blew a cloud of blue smoke through the window.

Reporter—"Ask him how that tablet affected him. If it helped him any."

Attorney Smith—"How about the tablet they gave you, Jim?"

Jim—"I reckon it must a been calomel. I just tuk it and swallowed it, 'cause I knowed they wan't goin' to give me nuthin' to hurt me. It shore was bitter, too, white folks. It galled my tongue so I couldn't hardly talk for a minute, and then it went on down my throat and spread out, and burnt and galled. You see, I tuk it without no water or anything. Just dry so. I reckon it helped me, though."

WHITE MEN ROB TRAIN ENTERING BIRMINGHAM

Mail Clerks Handcuffed While Registered Packages Are Rifled of Contents

(By Associated Press.)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 6.—The mail car on the fast Louisville and Nashville train, No. 4, from New Orleans was robbed last night by two unknown white men. All of the registered mail was taken, but no estimate could be made of the amount secured.

The train reached Birmingham on time at 5:37, and two of the mail clerks, George Hooper and E. G. York, were found handcuffed so that the irons had to be filed from their wrists, while Chief Clerk Harry Everett had his thumbs securely tied together with heavy twine.

The robbers boarded the mail car at Calera. The clerks state that they were immediately covered with pistols and ordered to turn their faces to the wall. Everett looked around once and was fired upon, the shot striking the corner of the car near his head. The robbers jumped from the train at Fourteenth street in Birmingham.

Chief Clerk Everett says he has no idea how much of value there was in the registered mail, but that the men took it all. He says they were both short, slender men, but they did not get a good look at the robbers' faces.

Every police station was quickly notified and automobiles with detectives started in pursuit.

DECLARES NEGRO TOLD HIM HE HAD KILLED A GIRL—WAITING AS WITNESS

MINCEY READY TO SWEAR TO CONLEY AFFIDAVIT

BY RALPH SMITH.

W. H. Mincey, the man who has made an affidavit in which he swears that Jim Conley told him on April 26, the day Mary Phagan was murdered, that he had killed a girl that day, appeared at the court house Wednesday morning but did not go into the court room.

Mincey was seen by a Journal reporter as he stood across the street from the court house and watched the crowd seeking entrance. He declared that he was ready to take the witness stand and to back up his statement. When asked whether he had seen Conley since the day that he affirmed the negro confessed to him, he declined to answer.

Mincey says that he has been teaching school at New Salem, near Rising Town, in Jackson county, Ga., and that school adjourned in order to permit him to come to Atlanta to testify in the Frank case.

DR. C. C. GARRETT, WELL KNOWN PHYSICIAN, DEAD

Leading Practitioner and Educator of Lithia Springs, Dies at Age of 63

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

LITHIA SPRINGS, Ga., Aug. 6.—Dr. C. C. Garrett, aged 63, one of the foremost physicians of this section, died at his home here last night at 10 o'clock. He had been a practicing physician for more than thirty-eight years, being graduated at the Atlanta Medical college in 1874.

His service as house physician for the famous Sweet Water Park hotel during its existence made him one of the most widely known general practitioners in the state. He served twenty-four years on the Douglas county board of education, sixteen years of which he was chairman of that body. Aside from his professional, educational work in Douglas county received his closest attention. He took an active interest in the municipal affairs of this place. Since the formation of the town he served continuously as councilman or mayor.

The funeral services will be held at the home at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The interment will be at Douglasville immediately after. The following children survive him: Dr. T. G. Garrett, Austell; Mrs. W. M. Hay, Covington; Q. L. Garrett, Waycross; Misses Lillian and Lottie Garrett and S. A. Garrett, Lithia Springs, Ga.

CASUALTY BUSINESS IS SENT TO CHATTANOOGA

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 6.—H. D. Huffaker, president of the Interstate Life Insurance company, of this city, announced today that the local concern had purchased the Equitable Casualty company, of Atlanta, Ga.

Commenting on the above report, Judge John S. Candler said tonight that the Equitable Casualty company had simply reinsured its industrial business in Georgia with the Chattanooga company. Its other business had been reinsured in various companies, varying as to location and character.

Judge Candler said that the Equitable Casualty company by vote of its stockholders across two months ago had agreed to liquidate and retire from business. The transaction that followed, he said, were not sales of reinsurance of the company's business.

70,286,000 FEET OF LUMBER FOR SALE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Approximately 70,000,000 feet of Douglas fir, red cedar and western hemlock, and 286,000 feet of cedar poles, are offered for sale by the government to the highest bidder, who will be given five years in which to cut and remove the timber from the Olympic national forest, state of Washington. Stumpage prices may be readjusted by the chief forester in 1916, if lumber prices obtaining then warrant it. On one lot of the Douglas fir no price less than $2.00 will be considered, while on the second block $1.80 will be the minimum. Two dollars and $2.50 will be the minimum prices for the red cedar.

RAILROAD FREIGHT SCALES ARE REPORTED INACCURATE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Investigation of alleged irregularities and discrepancies in the weighing of freight has disclosed the imposition of unreasonable charges said to constitute as great a discrimination thought would a difference of freight rates.

In a report of an investigation issued today the interstate commerce commission declares that "a majority of the track scales now in use should at once be rebuilt in order to obtain reasonably accurate results."

Did This Family Deserve a Pension Increase? It Did!

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—What is regarded by the pension bureau as the history of one of the most remarkable families ever coming beneath its notice was contained in a letter received today from Dr. William Warren, of St. Joseph, Mo. The letter was in reply to one from the pension commissioner asking Dr. Warren for his family history, so that a readjustment in his pension might be made under the new law. Dr. Warren replied:

"I do not know whether there was a family record of the births of all my father's children, of whom there were twenty-five, by three wives, who were sisters, and of whom the first two wives were triplets and the third wife also was one of twins. My mother had triplets, three boys, of whom I was one. She had no other children. All the other wives' children were twins, in all, of the three wives, there were thirteen boys, all of whom were soldiers. All of the twenty-five children are dead but myself."

The veteran is seventy-six years old. He will get an increase in pension.

PEOPLE OF MANY STATES AT CARTERSVILLE MEETING

"Bob" Jones and "Gypsy" Smith Attract Crowds From Other Sections

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Aug. 6.—The greatest crowds seen in Cartersville since the death of Sam Jones are daily attending the evangelistic services now being held at the Sam Jones tabernacle by Rev. "Bob" Jones, of Montgomery, Ala., and "Gypsy" Smith, of England.

Interest throughout this section of the state is intense, and visitors are here from middle and south Georgia, North and South Carolina, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky, taking advantage of the special rates granted by all railroads leading into Cartersville. Ministers from many of the surrounding cities, including Atlanta and Chattanooga, have attended the services.

In his sermon Tuesday night "Gypsy" Smith scored the church members who are living shallow lives, stressing the fact that Christianity is not a vaudeville emotion. The Rev. Mr. Callahan, from the Hadley mission in New York, spoke on the life of Hadley, founder of the mission. Scores of conversions resulted from the sermons, and the meeting bids fair to be one of the greatest in the history of the tabernacle.

TAFT LOSES GAME IN INTERNATIONAL MATCH

(By Associated Press.)

QUEBEC, Quebec, Aug. 6.—Former President William H. Taft was a representative of his country in an informal international golf match on the links of the Murray Bay Golf club yesterday. He was pitted against F. P. Betts, K. C., of London, Ont., who defeated him on the eighteenth green by one down.

The Canadian won the team match by twelve holes. In addition to the former president, the American team included his brother, Charles P. Taft, C. P. Barlow, G. Tiffany, W. B. Roger, W. L. Breeze, G. I. Dixon, A. W. Martin, Ian Ely and C. W. Tillinghast.

Parisian Sage, the delightful and invigorating hair tonic, is a true scalp nourisher. It penetrates into the scalp, gets to the roots of the hair, kills the dandruff germs, and supplies the hair with just the kind of nourishment it needs to make it grow abundantly.

Since its introduction into America Parisian Sage has had an immense sale, and here are the reasons:

It does not contain any ingredient injurious to the hair or scalp.

It removes dandruff with one application.

It stops falling hair and itching of the scalp.

It cleanses, cools and invigorates the scalp.

It makes hair that is thin, dull, matted or stringy—soft, abundant and radiant with life. It not only saves the hair but gives it that incomparable gloss and beauty you desire.

Parisian Sage is delicately perfumed —not sticky or greasy—and comes in fifty cent bottles at druggists or toilet counters.

Get a bottle now—at once. Rub a little into the scalp—you will be surprised with the result. Delighted users pronounce Parisian Sage the best, most pleasant and invigorating hair dressing made. Be sure you get Parisian Sage.

MR. WILSON DETERMINED TO PASS CURRENCY BILL

Owen Declares Only Hitchcock and O'Gorman Are Opposed to Action Now

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—President Wilson today made it plain that he intends to stick to his determination to have a currency bill passed at the extra session.

Senator James told the president that the Democrats would put the bill through. Senator Hughes took a similar view. Senator Owen, chairman of the banking committee, said only Senators Hitchcock and O'Gorman were flatly opposed to legislation at this time. All the other Democrats but five were earnestly in favor of the legislation, he said, and they, though preferring to defer the task to the next session, would abide by the wishes of the president and the majority.

M'ADOO WORKS TO GET EVIDENCE ON BANKS

Wants to Substantiate Charge That New Yorkers Caused Bond Decline

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Secretary McAdoo quietly is working for evidence to sustain his charge that the recent sharp decline of United States 2 per cent bonds was due "almost wholly to what appears to be a campaign waged with every indication of concerted action on the part of a number of influential New York City banks to cause apprehension and uneasiness about these bonds, in order to help them in their efforts to defeat the currency bill."

FATAL INITIATION NOT VIGOROUS, SAYS MOOSE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 6.—Among the several witnesses before the coroner's jury today in the investigation of the deaths of Christopher Gustin and Ronald Kenny, who died during initiation at the meeting of Birmingham Lodge Loyal Order of Moose, July 24, while receiving the "branding" stunt, was David U. Williams, secretary of the lodge. He described the initiation and denied that the "razor" part of the stunt which gave the electrical shock was placed near the heart of the victims. He announced also that the work that night was not rougher than at any other time and that the same magnete which had been used before and in other lodges was used that night.

A VEGETABLE MADE $150,000

A young European singer who had suffered from indigestion, with the help of a famous French doctor (who had told him of a vegetable having marvelous digestive properties) made a sauce containing the vegetable which he used with his food and in the cooking. It was pronounced by the best cooks in Europe as a sauce unparalleled. The sauce was made by a company who had paid the singer for the wonderful recipe. So great and immediate has been the success of Waw-Waw that it is to be found in all parts of the world. It adds zest and piquancy when used in the cooking, and with soups, salads, hot and cold meats and fish. Waw-Waw (an obsolete South American word for vegetable) is purely vegetable. Miss Rita Jolivet, the wonderful actress writes: "The best sauce I have ever tasted and helps my digestion wonderfully." A 25-cent bottle from your local grocer will convince you how you will enjoy your food.

Tango and Turkey Trot Prove Boon To Chiropodists

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Clara S. Houston, of Chicago, who is credited by the national convention of chiropodists here as having the only perfect feet in America, told the members at last night's session that the turkey trot and tango dancing craze was proving a great boon to chiropodists.

"People are coming in droves," she said "complaining of their feet. The trouble is that the tango is calling a lot of muscles hitherto very little used into action and putting unaccustomed strains on the toes."

Summer Hints to Mothers Who 'Care'

Seasonable Advice on the Health of Children in Hot Weather

It is well that mothers be advised not to over-feed the children during the hot months. No one requires as much food in summer as in winter. Feed the children the lighter and more easily digested foods. See that the milk is cool and kept away from flies. Be careful that the fruit is ripe, and if the child begins to scratch the skin, indicating too much acid in the blood, deprive it of fruit for several days.

It is quite natural that under these conditions there will be some digestive disturbance, such as constipation, indigestion or summer diarrhoea. It may be accompanied by a cold or by eruptions of the skin. The timely remedy, and one which you can rely on for results, is a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin on retiring, and by morning the bowels will move and the trouble will vanish. The exceptional tonic ingredients in this remedy will tone the stomach and enrich the blood, and the child will feel its usual self again.

Many families like that of Mr. William Weber, 29 Edwin Place, Buffalo, N. Y., who uses it for foul breath and constipation, and Mrs. John Wallace, Scottsville, Ky., who finds it valuable to herself as well as her children, are never without it, keeping it for just such emergencies. You also can obtain a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents or one dollar of any druggist. Families which once use this pleasant-tasting laxative forever after discard cathartics, purgatives, salts and pills.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, postpaid, by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 418 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

Why don't you come on up to Hot Springs Arkansas, and enjoy a game of golf in the cool fresh breezes of these beautiful mountain heights?

Did you think Hot Springs was merely a famous health resort?

Not at all! Thousands come here for the summer pleasures alone. The golf grounds and tennis courts are unsurpassed, the hill drives and paths invite you to ride, drive and ramble along; and for those who just must fish, wherever they go, the picturesque Ouchita River is nearby.

Why not spend your vacation at this place where you can enjoy every summer pleasure, and be benefited by the world's most healing waters?

You would be surprised what little is asked for good board and how low the bath prices are fixed by the U. S. Government.

The Rock Island is the direct line to Hot Springs from Memphis. Four modernly equipped trains daily, leaving Memphis at 7:00 a. m., 9:45 a. m., 11:00 a. m. and 12:01 midnight. Trains from the southeast make direct connection in Memphis with these Rock Island trains to Hot Springs, Ark.

CHILD LABOR BILL IS REJECTED BY SENATE

Educational Requirement and Indigent Parent Clause Militated Against Measure

The state senate Tuesday afternoon defeated President J. Randolph Anderson's child labor bill by a vote of 19 to 15, thus putting an end to all probable legislation on child labor for the present session.

The bill raised the age limit from twelve years to thirteen years at the end of 1914 and to fourteen years at the end of 1915. In it was embodied an educational requirement and a clause against children under the age limit working even though they had indigent parents, two phases of the bill which helped largely to kill it.

President Anderson spoke for the bill, stating that it had the support of the Georgia Manufacturers' association. Senator Converse spoke for the bill, while Senators Stark, Turner and Spinks spoke against it.

The senate downed by a vote of 19 to 16 Senator Stark's bill allowing registration books to be kept open to within ninety days after election instead of closing six months before.

WILLIAMS' FUNERAL TO BE HELD ON THURSDAY

War Veteran and Capitalist Died at Peachtree Home After Long Illness

The funeral of Captain Jesse Williams, who died at his home, 478 Peachtree, Tuesday, will be held from the residence Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. President J. E. Dickey, of Emory college, will officiate, assisted by Bishop Warren Candler. The interment will follow in West View cemetery.

Captain Williams was seventy years of age and is survived by his wife, four sisters, Miss Hattie Taylor and Miss Edith Taylor, Mrs. James Ezzell and Mrs. Olive B. Parks, Mt. Olive, N. C., two brothers, George and Charles Williams, of Mt. Olive, N. C.

He was born in Wayne county, N. C., and was a student at the University of Virginia at the outbreak of the Civil war. He enlisted as a private in the Twentieth North Carolina, but later organized a company of his own and became captain. He held various commands with honor and distinction during the four years of warfare. In company with a few university students he witnessed the inauguration of President Abraham Lincoln.

Captain Williams moved to Atlanta from Savannah five years ago. In Savannah he operated one of the south's largest naval stores. He had extensive land and other interests throughout Florida and Georgia. He was president and principal owner of the Georgia, Florida and Alabama road.

He took great interest in education in the south. For years he was president of the board of trustees of Emory college and he had given two handsome buildings to this college. He was also a man of high religious principles and was a steward in the Trinity Methodist church.

Since coming to Atlanta five years ago Captain Williams has been in very bad health. He suffered a stroke of paralysis some time ago from which he never recovered.

To Cure Salt Rheum and Scaly Skin

A Most Effective Treatment, Quick in Results.

Salt rheum, scaly skin and other itching skin afflictions may be soothed by frequent applications of witch hazel. But the cure must come from the activity of the fine network of blood vessels that make up the skin formation. You should use S. S. S. for the blood. This splendid remedy is a marvel for salt rheum, eczema, lupus, psoriasis and scrofula. Ask at any drug store for a bottle of S. S. S., and you are then on the road to health. The action of this remarkable remedy is direct, positive, certain in its influence. It is one of those rare medical forces which act in the blood with the same degree of certainty that is found in all natural tendencies. The manner in which it dominates and controls the mysterious transference of the rich, red, pure arterial blood for the impaired blood is marvelous.

Out through every skin pore acids, germs and other blood impurities are forced in the form of invisible vapor. The lungs breathe it out, the liver is stimulated to consume a great proportion of impurities, the stomach and intestines cease to convey harmful germs into the blood; the bowels, kidneys, bladder and all emunctories of the body are marshaled into a fighting force to expel every vestige of impurities.

Get a bottle of this famous remedy today, and if your case is stubborn or peculiar, write to The Swift Specific Co., 158 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

Judge Roan Rules Out Most Damaging Testimony Given By Conley Against Leo Frank

Solicitor Dorsey in Vigorous Speech Protests Against Striking Evidence, Declaring He Has Witnesses to Corroborate the Negro and That Striking of Testimony Will Prevent His Getting Their Statements Before the Jury

Sustaining a motion made by the defense in the trial of Leo M. Frank, Judge L. S. Roan Tuesday afternoon announced that he would rule out all of Conley's testimony charging the accused superintendent with perversion, and the negro's testimony that he acted as a "lookout" for Frank on days previous to the murder. The judge ruled that Conley's testimony that he watched for the accused on the day of the tragedy would remain in the case.

Attorney Arnold entered the court about ten minutes late. Mr. Rosser had not arrived. Mr. Arnold asked that the jury be sent out, and stated that he had several motions to make. The jury went out. The first, he said, was a motion to exclude certain testimony from the record on the ground that it was wholly irrelevant, incompetent and immaterial. Mr. Arnold held a long typewritten document in his hands.

"We move, first," he said, "to exclude from the record all the testimony of Conley relative to watching for the defendant, and we withdraw our cross-examination on that subject."

Second, Mr. Arnold moved that a portion of the negro's testimony attacking Frank's character, to which objection was brought out through questions propounded by the solicitor, be ruled out.

Mr. Arnold concluded his argument by saying: "Before anything else is done, we move to exclude this from the record."

Judge Roan spoke up: "As I understand it, Mr. Arnold, what you want to withdraw is testimony about watching on other occasions."

Before this question was answered, Attorney Arnold turned to Mr. Hooper and showed him that part of Conley's evidence which the defense wished to exclude.

Attorney Hooper took the floor saying, "To allow this motion would be to trifle with the court. When they did not object at the time this evidence was introduced I believe they lost any ground that they had for an objection. If their objection had been entered at the time of the introduction of this testimony, I should say that the objection was well taken, but I do not think that they have a right to let testimony go into the records without protest, now to move for its total exclusion."

Mr. Rosser spoke, a deputy sheriff out for some law books.

FRANK BEGINS TO BREAK.

During the walk, Frank dropped his head, and his mother put her arm around his neck and patted him on the shoulder and whispered to his ear. He smiled faintly and looked around.

DORSEY PROTESTS.

Solicitor Dorsey addressed the court. "With all due honor," said he, "as an original proposition this evidence is admissible. They have waited too late to enter their objection."

Mr. Rosser interrupted.

"We move to rule it out because it is immaterial," said he, addressing both the court and the solicitor.

"If you've got any authority to back up your motion," retorted the solicitor, "trot it out."

"I never trot out anything in court," replied Mr. Rosser. "I've got too much respect for the court."

"Well, gallop it out, lope it out," said the solicitor. "It doesn't make any difference, just so you produce it."

"You wouldn't understand it if we did," snapped Mr. Rosser.

Solicitor Dorsey proceded, ignoring the last remark.

WILL CORROBORATE CONLEY.

"Your honor, just as a matter of fairness, I submit that it is not right to let this gentleman give this witness a most severe gruelling for two days, go into his character by cross-examination, and then come along and ask that certain portions of it be ruled out. They would step now from the bringing out witnesses to sustain Conley. We purpose to corroborate the testimony of this witness as to Frank's conduct. To grant the motion would be to cut us from introducing our corroborative evidence."

The solicitor announced that he has other witnesses waiting to corroborate Conley.

"IS IT FAIR?"

"Is it fair, your honor, after one, two, three, four, able counsel have sat here and let this evidence get into the record; after they have cross-examined the witness for two days and then wake up to the conclusion that it should be expunged from the record—is that a fair proposition?"

"The state's case will have been done great damage," continued the solicitor, "if now, after the defense has derived all the benefit it possibly can expect from cross-examination, these facts are cut out and we are not given an opportunity to put witnesses on the stand to show that this man Jim Conley has spoken the truth."

"Now the able counsel sees the terrific force of these transactions, and they would stop us from introducing them.

"I appeal to you, in the name of fairness and justice, to let counsel now see that objections, if they are to be entertained, must be timely.

"Why, your honor, they have gone into even the workings of the National Pencil factory, and showed this man Conley's habits there. A good deal of different men, and they have done so very properly, for it shows his connection with the defendant and is a part of the history of the crime.

WE HAVE CORROBORATION.

"I will tell your honor frankly now that we have witnesses to sustain this man.

"Any piece of evidence, any transaction, anything of his past conduct, to show his intent and purpose when he got this girl up there, is admissible. And it is largely by this that we are showing what this man did to murder little Mary Phagan. Anything to show his motive must be admissible. As to the distinct relevancy of this testimony, I cite as an instance the testimony of Dr. Hurt.

"This testimony which they would rule out goes right to the point and it will be corroborated. It goes largely to show who killed the girl.

"I beg of you to think twice before you rule out these powerful circumstances."

Solicitor Dorsey challenged the defense to produce any decision written within the past five years contrary to this principle.

"The courts are slow," said Mr. Dorsey. "Too slow to progress. But this one rule the courts have never changed.

"The importance of this testimony will be more manifest before we get further in this case."

MRS. FRANK WEEPS.

During Solicitor Dorsey's arraignment of Frank, Mrs. Frank, wife of the accused, arose from her seat and left the room. She went into an anteroom and remained several minutes. When she returned to the court, there were fresh tears in her eyes. She resumed her seat at her husband's side.

ARNOLD SPEAKS.

"There's no use making stump speeches here," said Mr. Arnold. "There's no use excited."

waxing so eloquent. I could do it, I guess, but I don't want to make my jury argument while it's so hot unless I have to."

Mr. Arnold termed the objectionable evidence "miserable, rotten, stuff," and went on to say that the defendant suffered outrageously by its admission into the records.

"The state admits that it is illegal evidence," said he. "The only ground that they want it retained on is that we didn't make timely objection. In a criminal case, you never can try a man for but one crime. That's the old Anglo-Saxon way. In France, and in Italy and in Germany, when a prisoner comes into court, he comes prepared to answer for his whole life. But it's not that way here. We only try a man for one crime. What is this proposition?"

JOINTS TO CONLEY.

"I sympathize with the little girl's parents as much as anybody, but I say it is just as much murder to attempt to convict Frank on this kind of the introduction of illegal and irrelevant evidence. This miserable wretch on the stand," pointing to Conley, "has told a glib parrot-like tale. He was schooled in it for two months, and I feel sorry for anybody that will swallow him. He has introduced another capital crime into this case—not that I believe a white man would believe a word he said, but this testimony has brought it in. A case of murder is a distinctly marked case, and as I understand it the state does not contend even that this is a premeditated case.

"The state has put this man on the stand, and they want to bolster up his outrageous tale with a lot of irrelevant matter."

Attorney Arnold attacked the superior court decisions cited by Solicitor Dorsey, contending that the decision was written in a case involving illegal sale of whiskey, not in a murder case. Murder, said he, is an entirely different matter, and is more serious than the illegal sale of cocaine.

DANGEROUS TESTIMONY.

"If this evidence is admitted we shall be estopped from investigating the murder and take up the investigation of two other cases and the cases he mentioned are not parallel with this.

"With this evidence before him, this jury, there is a likelihood of that body convicting this defendant on general principles. I am coming under a general rule when I say this ought to be ruled out."

"Your honor, how much confusion would be in the jury's mind! How much the issue would be clouded!" continued Mr. Arnold. "How unfair to this defendant in a day or two without notice and require him to answer such charges as these. It would necessitate the bringing of witnesses these days this villain has mentioned. We would have to call in every employe of the factory, and days and days to show how many other witnesses. If they can put such evidence as this in, we certainly can rebut it. This is illegal testimony, and they have done us an incalculable injury to let this suspicion get into the minds of the jury."

Judge Roan interrupted Mr. Arnold.

ROAN'S RULING ON FIRST POINT.

"Everything relating to the watching on the particular day, April 26, is relevant."

"Everything relating to that particular transaction is a part of this case," said Mr. Arnold. "We are not even objecting to what this witness says happened on that occasion or what was told him on the Friday before."

JUDGE'S RULING.

Judge Roan announced his ruling as follows:

"There is no doubt in my mind that this evidence was inadmissible as an original proposition, and I will rule it out all except as to the watching on that particular day."

Attorney Arnold requested the judge to postpone his decision until Wednesday, in order to give the state time to look up authorities bearing on the point in issue. The court refused to do this.

Judge Roan added, however, that he holds himself in readiness to reverse himself if he finds that he has ruled wrong.

"I have no pride about that matter," said the judge. "I wouldn't hesitate to reverse myself if I found I was wrong."

The jury was then brought back into court, and Attorney Rosser resumed his cross examination of Conley.

TRIAL IS RESUMED.

"You took that girl, rolled her on a sheet, wrapped her up and tied her like a bundle of clothes?" asked Attorney Rosser.

"Yes, sir," replied the negro.

"Was she covered up?"

"No, sir, the sheet didn't go all over the body."

"Well, what part of her body was covered up?"

The negro indicated on his own body that portion between the thighs and shoulders.

"Well, the head and feet were not covered up?"

"No, sir."

"You left her feet hanging out?"

"Yes, sir."

"How much?"

"I don't know."

"How much was her head hanging out?"

"I didn't pay any attention."

"And you tied that cloth around her, you pushed your arm through the knot and put her up on your shoulder?"

"Yes, sir."

"Her head was leaning back?"

HEAD HANGING OUT.

Mr. Rosser illustrated this by leaning his own head over the back of the chair. He held up his arm, too.

"Yes, sir, but her arms wasn't hanging back. They was tied up in there."

"How much was her feet hanging out?"

"I don't know, sir. I didn't pay any attention to that."

"She reached down just about to your knees, did she?"

Mr. Rosser illustrated, with the ends of the sack hanging over his shoulder, how the negro claimed to have carried the body.

"That's the way it was," said the negro. "And her head and her feet were out."

"You say she was so heavy that you dropped her?"

"I told Mr. Frank I dropped her because she was so heavy."

"Then she wasn't too heavy?"

"I don't know, sir. I told him she was too heavy because I wanted him to help me."

"Then you were lying to him, were you?"

"I don't know—I was so nervous and with those things?"

"No, sir, it was just about the furnace when I called to Mr. Frank."

"Mr. Frank was at the top of the ladder?"

"Yes, sir."

"How far is the furnace from the top of the ladder?"

"I don't know, sir."

"About 150 feet away, isn't it?"

"I don't know, sir."

"You had to talk loud enough for him to hear you, didn't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"When you took her down on the elevator, the front door was till unlocked?"

"I don't know sir."

"Well, didn't you say you left it unlocked when you went upstairs?"

"Well, it was still unlocked then when you went down into the basement?"

"It was, unless Mr. Frank went back and locked it."

"Did Mr. Frank have any chance to go back and lock it without you seeing him?"

"Yes, sir, when I went back to tie up the body, he was up at the front a good while by himself."

"Did the little girl have any scratches her face?"

BRUISE ON FACE.

"She had a bruise on her face."

"Was there any dirt on her face?"

"Yes, sir."

"On both sides?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did the dirst look like?"

"Just like dirt."

"Were there any other scratches, besides the bruise on her face?"

"No, sir."

"What was it you called to Mr. Frank from the basement when you were coming up toward the ladder?"

"I called to him and asked him what I must do with these things. And he told me just leave 'em there."

"Did Frank see you when you were falling to him?"

"I don't know whether he was looking at me or not."

"He'd gone up the ladder and was on the first floor, wasn't he?"

"I reckon so."

"When he was not in sight?"

"No, sir."

"He wasn't in the basement then?"

"No, sir."

"What did you have your hand when you called to him?"

"I had the cloth, the hat, the piece of ribbon and the shoes."

"That piece of ribbon Mr. Dorsey showed you yesterday?"

"No, sir."

"What kind of ribbon was it?"

"I don't know, sir."

"When you were talking to Black and Scott, telling them the whole truth, you didn't say anything about the hat and the ribbon and the shoe, did you?"

"If I didn't it was because they didn't ask me."

"You told them about the shoe and the hat, but not about the ribbon and the cloth?"

"I told them I pitched 'em on the boiler in front of the trash pile."

"Who ran the elevator up from the basement?"

"I did."

"Then Frank got on at the first floor?"

"Yes, sir."

"He was standing there in front of the elevator when you came up?"

FRANK FELL.

"Yes, sir, and he jumped on before the car stopped and fell against me."

"Did you tell Black and Scott, when you were telling them the whole truth, about Frank falling against you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Just as he got on the elevator he said, 'Gee, that's a hard job,' did he?"

"Yes, sir, that's about the time we was going up, between the first and the second floor."

"The motor and the elevator and the saw were all running?"

"Not the saw."

"The elevator has got machinery at the top of the building, hasn't it?"

"Yes, sir."

"There's a big wheel up there, ain't there?"

"Yes, sir."

"When the elevator goes down to the bottom, it hits the bottom hard, doesn't it?"

"No, sir, not hard."

"That wheel up in the top of the building over the elevator doesn't make much noise, does it?"

"No, sir, not much."

"And the motor doesn't make much noise?"

"No, sir, not much."

"Something like the buzzing of a June bug, eh?"

"Yes, sir."

"And the elevator hits the bottom lightly and doesn't make any noise?"

"No, sir, it doesn't make no noise."

"That's a silent elevator, isn't it?"

"I don't know what you mean by that."

"It don't make any noise."

"No, sir, not much."

"From the time you went up to get the cloth till you got ack on the upper floor from the basement, how long was it?"

CONFLICTING DETECTIVES.

"I don't remember."

"Didn't you tell Mr. Scott it was 30 minutes?"

"I'm sir I didn't, Mr. Scott asked me how long it was, and I told him I dndn't know, and he said 'Was it 30 minutes?' and I said I didn't know, and he said 'Well, I'll put it that way.'"

The negro denied that he had given the officers any specific statement of the interval.

"How long do you now say it was?"

"About four or five minutes."

"You say that from the time you looked at the clock until you left the factory?"

"It might have been about 20 minutes."

"You said yesterday, Jim, that you left about 1:30. Wouldn't that make 34 minutes from the time you looked at the clock?"

"I don't want sure about the time yesterday. I only know that after I went to the beer saloon and ate some sandwiches and then counted the money in the cigarette box, and went back and got a beer and looked at the clock, I saw it was 2:10."

IN THE WARDROBE.

"You said that while you was in the room you heard someone coming, didn't you?"

"No, sir, I said Mr. Frank said, 'Here comes Emma Freeman and Corinthia Hall.'"

"After you were put in the closet, you said you heard Miss Hall speak?"

"No, sir, I said I heard one lady speak."

"And you wrote three notes on white paper?"

"Yes, sir."

"And one on green?"

"Yes, sir."

"What was in those notes?"

"I don't remember."

"You say he didn't like the first two notes you wrote?"

"Yes, sir, then I wrote a long one on the white paper and then the one on the green paper."

"You couldn't have written those four notes to save your life in five minutes, could you?"

"I don't know about that?"

"Well, about how long did it take you?"

"About three and a half minutes."

"Then you sat ih the office and talked?"

"I was writing."

"Didn't you smoke, too?"

"Yes, sir, at the same time."

"You were sitting there smoking and writing, and Frank was sitting with his head back, looking at the ceiling and saying 'I have wealthy people in Brooklyn?'"

"He just said once," said the negro. "He should'a hang? I've got wealthy people in Brooklyn."

"Well, after you had been in the wardrobe, written the notes, and talked about an automobile for his wife, and money for your watch, how long do you suppose that took?"

"I don't know."

"Then Mr. Frank took a roll of greenbacks out of his pocket, did he?"

"Yes, sir."

CORRECTS LOSSER.

"There was $200 in it, you say?"

"No, sir, I don't say there was $200. I say Mr. Frank said there was $200 in it."

"Oh! And then you gave it back to him?"

"No, sir, not right then. He asked me for it later."

"Well—later."

"Yes, sir."

"Now in the first statement you never told about that, did you?"

"I don't remember."

"And in this first statement you didn't tell them anything about burning the body, either, did you?"

"I think not."

"Did you tell them before you went to jail or after you came back?"

"Afterwards."

"Well, who was the first man you told? Can you remember?"

"No, sir."

"Did you meet there a man who asked you about insurance?"

"No, sir."

Solicitor Dorsey objected. The name of the man should be stated, said he.

"W. H. Mincey," replied Mr. Rosser.

"Didn't he say you had promised to take mincey insurance?" asked Mr. Rosser.

"No, sir."

"Didn't he ask you your name, and didn't you say 'Conley?'"

"Nobody asked me my name that day."

"Didn't you say I can't talk to you today, you're in trouble?"

"No, sir."

"Didn't he say, 'What's the matter? Have you been in jail?' And didn't you say, 'No, but I'm expecting to go?'"

"No, sir."

"And didn't he say, 'What for?' And didn't you say, 'Murder?'"

"No, sir."

DENIES KILLING GIRL.

"Didn't you say, 'I killed a girl today?'"

"No, sir."

"Didn't he say, 'What did you kill her for,' and didn't you say, 'That's for you to find out?'"

"No, sir."

"Didn't you jump up and go around the house and say, 'I've killed one today—?'"

The negro interrupted:

"No, sir, I never said that to nobody."

"Well, didn't Mincey say, 'Well, that's enough. That's 365 a year?'"

Attorney Rosser questioned the negro next about a statement that he is supposed to have made to a Constitution reporter in the jail on May 21. Mr. Rosser read from a written sheet. The purport of it was that Hugh Dorsey had told Conley to go ahead and talk and tell the truth.

"No, sir, I didn't say that. I didn't know what Mr. Dorsey's first name was."

"Well, for your information, Jim, I'll tell you his first name was Hugh."

DEMANDS REPORTER'S NAME.

"Now, your honor, I think I've got a right to know what reporter this was. The rule is that when you are trying to impeach a witness, you've got to state the time, the person and the circumstance. If he asks this for the purpose of impeachment, I object to this going into the records." The solicitor cited an authority to back him up. Mr. Rosser said he didn't intend to do this, but that he impeachment, and that he didn't know the name of the reporter.

Attorney Rosser then questioned him about statements which he is supposed to have made to Harlee Branch and H. W. Rosss, Journal reporters, in the jail. The witnesses pointed out the reporters in court.

"Did you tell them that in your opinion, Mrs. Frank was murdered in a toilet room on the second floor and brought out into the metal room?"

"No, sir."

DENIES STATEMENTS.

"Did you tell them that she had been dead about fifteen minutes?"

"No, sir, I don't remember saying that."

"Didn't you tell them that a ribbon and a parasol and a piece of her skirt lay on the floor a few feet from her body?"

"No, sir."

"Didn't you tell them that it took at least thirty minutes to get the body downstairs?"

"No, sir."

Attorney Rosser asked some other questions. As H. W. Ross was leaving the court, Conley pointed him out as a man who had showed a newspaper to him.

"Didn't you walk away from them and wouldn't talk to them?"

Conley said, "Yes, sir, a little."

Attorney Rosser showed the negro a document. It was one of the several statements which Conley made to the police. Was you signed this, didn't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"That's your handwriting and your name in it, Jim Conley?"

"Yes, sir."

Mr. Rosser handed the paper to Mr. Arnold and requested him to read it to the jury. Mr. Arnold began. "This statement made by James Conley to Detectives Black and Scott, police barracks, April 29, 1913."

Before Attorney Arnold could read further, Solicitor Dorsey interrupted and announced to the court that he objected to a change of counsel.

Mr. Rosser grabbed the paper from Mr. Arnold's hands and said, "Oh, give it to me!" rather rudely. "Sit down, little Hugh!" Adjusting his glasses, he stated that he didn't know whether he would be able to read the document or not, because it was written by the detectives.

The statement said that Conley was employed as an elevator boy and roustabout at the factory for the past two years.

"Jim, you don't know what roustabout means, do you?" asked Mr. Rosser. The negro explained that it meant working at two different places.

Mr. Rosser read on till he came to the word "previous."

"What does previous mean?"

The negro admitted that he did not know.

"The man who put that over was a little previous himself, wasn't he, Jim?" The negro grinned.

Further along in the document, Mr. Rosser paused when he read "previous," several times, and emphasized each time with some humorous remark about it.

"On Saturday, April 26, 1913, I arose" —"What does 'arose' mean, Jim?"

"I don't know, sir."

"No, Jim, you don't know what arose means."

Mr. Rosser continued reading the statement.

The statement continued that the negro arose between 9 and 9:30 a. m., and had breakfast at 10:30 a. m.; left his house at 172 Rhodes street and went to Peters street, visiting a number of saloons between Fair and Haynes street on Peters street, bought half a pint of whisky from a negro and paid him 40 cents for it; visited the Butt-In saloon; at a board table in the back, saw three negroes shooting dice.

CRAPS, NOT DICE.

"You'd say craps, if you had a fair showing, wouldn't you, Jim?"

The witness admitted that he would. The statement proceeded that Conley joined them.

"You was shooting craps, eh?"

The statement continued that Conley won 90 cents, and bought some beer, and walked up the street and visited Early's beer saloon.

"Jim, you don't know what visited is, or what it means, do you?"

The negro said he didn't.

The statement proceeded that Conley purchased two beers and wine, paying 10 cents for it; that that was all the money Conley spent on Peters street; that he got back home at 2:30 p. m.

"Do you know what 'p. m.' means?"

"It means 2 o'clock."

The statement proceeded that he found L. Jones there; she asked if he had any money; he said yes, and gave her $1.50, $1 in greenbacks and the rest in silver. The statement showed that on Saturday afternoon the negro sent out and got 15 cents worth of bananas, and later he sent his little girl out for something to eat; that he stayed at home Saturday night and up to Sunday; that he went on Nichols street Sunday and returned shortly and spent the evening with his mother, and reported for work on April 28, Monday.

SECOND AFFIDAVIT.

Mr. Rosser took up a second affidavit dated May 24. The substance of this affidavit was that on Friday before the holiday, Sam Stanley, that is the afternoon, Frank met him on the fourth floor and told him to come to his office; that Frank asked if he could write, and gave him a scratch pad, from which he made "Dear Mother, a long tal black negro," he wrote that several times; then he wrote something under it. Frank took out a brown pad and wrote something himself; Mr. Frank asked him if he wanted to smoke and handed to him a box containing cigarettes that contained dope.

That he saw some money in the box, two $1 bills and 50 cents in it, and that Mr. Frank's attention was called to it when he handed it back; that Frank told him to keep it; that Frank asked about the night watchman, and asked him if he had ever seen the nightwatchman in the basement; that Frank laughed and jollied a little bit and said, "I have a wealthy people in Brooklyn. Why should I hang? That Frank hold up his head and looked at the corner of his eye when he said this; that Conley told him not to take out any more money on the watch; that Frank said, "Why, did you get a watch? That's big, fat wife of mine wants an automobile, but I won't buy it."

THIRD AFFIDAVIT.

Mr. Rosser started to read another affidavit and quickly remarked, "This is a copy. I want the original."

Attorney Arnold looked in his papers, and said, "I haven't the original. That copy is the only one I've ever had, and I don't know where the original is."

Attorney Rosser stated that he stopped and conferred with Mr. Arnold. Then he told the court that he didn't want to read anything but the original. Mr. Arnold said that he supposed he have the original, was not in court. Mr. Rosser told the court that he had nothing in motion to ask the witness except about the affidavits.

Judge Roan told the jury that it could go back to its room. The jury left.

WANTS TO VISIT CONLEY.

It was announced that Attorney William Smith, representing Conley, wanted to address the court. Attorney Smith announced that he would like to have the privilege of visiting Conley in his cell and attending to his physical needs if nothing more.

"I don't know," said he, "by what legal proceedings Conley was put in the Tower, but I'm not objecting to that. But I think that I ought to have a right as his counsel to see him and talk to him.

"I had considerable difficulty and unpleasantness in trying to get to him last night. I merely wanted him to have an opportunity to take a bath and to get some clean clothes to him. I had the clothes with me, and it was only after much trouble that I finally even got the clothes to him.

"Your honor, I think it is a reflection on counsel and upon Solicitor Dorsey, a man sworn to carry out the laws, to deny us admission to his cell. I don't see under the law why a man can be *placed in solitary confinement and de*nied to his lawyer. I never heard of it being done before."

Judge Roan replied that when he gave his orders Monday night he did so with consent of the state and the defense, and that Attorney Arnold said, "No, sir, I beg pardon of the court. I didn't consent to it. I simply didn't object to it. That was all. I wasn't consulted in the matter."

ARNOLD OBJECTS.

Attorney Arnold argued then. He said, "Well, I know how Conley says he doesn't know how Mr. Smith thinks himself his lawyer. He says his wife called Mr. Smith to his cell one day and that's all he knows about it. I'd like to ask the sheriff about this unpleasantness."

Attorney Smith spoke up and said that there was no unpleasantness except that he was blocked when he tries to get to Conley's cell at any hour.

Judge Roan asked: "Well, is there any objection to letting him see his attorney in his cell, if he wants to."

"Yes, I'll object to the responsibility of entering an objection," said Mr. Arnold. "I object because it shows that the state and his witness are in too close accord."

Solicitor Dorsey spoke again. "I am in close accord with the witness every time your honor would not say that in that capacity I would not have the right to interview him or any other witness put up by the state whenever I pleased. I choose. I haven't found it necessary to talk with him yet. But in such event I would ask your honor's permission, and grant me the permission. I do think, however, that his counsel should be allowed to talk with him."

WIY HE WANTS TO SEE HIM.

"What do you want to talk to him about?" inquired Attorney Arnold, of Mr. Smith.

The latter, addressing his remarks to the court, said: "This witness is almost under as much as an attack as is this defendant. I think that counsel should have the right to confer with him in order that I may protect his interests. I ought to have the right to confer with him as can be summoned to substantiate his statements. These I would furnish to the solicitor.

Attorney Arnold declared that Attorney Smith had been permitted to talk and to take part in the case. "If he's waited for two months to get this information from this witness, he certainly can wait a day or two longer."

Attorney Rosser spoke. "I don't think any one should be allowed to interview or to be denied to interview the witness over, be he a lawyer one thousand times over.

"I understand they want to give him a bath," said Mr. Arnold. "If Mr. Smith wants to give him a bath let him do it. Let him turn the hose on him if he wants to."

CAN COUNSEL NEGRO.

Solicitor Dorsey: "I'm not asking permission to talk with this negro. If I do find it necessary to talk with him, I will ask your honor's permission, and will expect you to grant it. It cannot be denied that I would have that right. I am not trying to do anything I ought not to do."

"No," sneered Mr. Rosser, "but I don't think you would hesitate to do a lot of things."

Judge Roan ruled that Attorney Smith could confer with his client to safeguard the negro's interests.

Attorney Arnold took an exception to the ruling, and the exception was noted in the records.

Court then adjourned, at 5:40, until 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

SOLICITOR DORSEY IS APPLAUDED WHEN COURT SUSTAINS HIM

she say 'they haven't got you yet, Jim?' and didn't you say 'No, I haven't done anything?' and didn't she say 'No, neither has Mr. Frank?' And didn't you say 'No, I know Mr. Frank is just as innocent as you are?'"

DENIES ADMISSIONS.

Conley said that he did not remember the conversation.

"And didn't she say 'When they find the murderer, it will be that negro who was sitting by the elevator when Mrs. White went up?' And then didn't you duck your head and leave right quick?"

"No, sir," said the negro.

"Jim, when you were working by Miss Mary Rich, didn't she say 'Jim, you committed this crime?' And didn't you say 'No'm, I didn't,' and shoot out of the room?"

"No, sir."

"Didn't this conversation occur between you and Miss Rebecca Carson on the fourth floor of the pencil factory on April 28? She asked you where were you on Saturday. You said 'I can't swear to that. I was drunk all day.' And downhill, who was there, spoke up and said 'I can swear where I was.' And you remarked again 'I can't swear about where I was. I was drunk all day.'"

ANOTHER DENIAL.

"I didn't say that," answered the witness.

"Didn't you have a conversation with Mr. Herbert Schiff in the shipping room on April 28, where you were hiding behind some boxes? Didn't he ask you what you were doing there? You said you was scared of the crowd and that paid give a million dollars then if you was a white man?"

"No, sir, that ain't what I said. I said I'd like to be a white man so I could go downstairs."

"Well, didn't this conversation occur between you and Miss Dora Small on April 28 at the factory? You asked Miss Small if they get out another extra, do you want me to get you one?' She answered 'Yes, get me one.' And when you saw her reading the paper, and before she was through, didn't you ask her what it said? And didn't she say 'Mr. Frank is as innocent as you are?' And you said 'He certainly is innocent then, for I wasn't nowhere near the factory that day?'"

The negro denied the conversation.

"Well, Jim, you know McCrary, don't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, didn't he come down to the station house and talk with you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Didn't you ask him if he remembered seeing you at the pencil factory on that Saturday? And didn't you try to remind him of things that you said occurred then? And didn't you tell him you talked with him that day? And didn't he say he didn't remember seeing you there?"

The negro said he talked with McCrary at the station house, but the conversation wasn't just like Mr. Rosser said it.

"Didn't this conversation occur between you and Miss Julia Fuss, Wednesday, April 30, at the factory? You asked Miss Fuss if she had got another extra, and when she said no, you asked her when she got one to let you see it. And you asked her what did she think of it. You told her you didn't think Mr. Frank did it. And she said she didn't think anybody who had good sense would have done it. And you said to her that Mr. Frank was as innocent as the angels in heaven?"

"I never said that," said the negro.

The long cross examination of Conley by Attorney Rosser, begun Monday morning, ended there.

DORSEY ON RE-DIRECT.

Solicitor Dorsey took the witness on the re-direct examination.

"And you mean when you say you were in prison? And where were you in prison?"

"I was at police headquarters."

"Were you ever in jail."

"Yes, sir, once, since I've been held this time?"

"Well, what were you in headquarters about?"

Mr. Rosser objected, insisting that the negro should be in writing, and that they were the best evidence of what he was there for. Judge Roan did not rule, and Mr. Dorsey proceeded.

"Well, what were you in police headquarters for?"

"I was washing my shirt back there and they came and arrested me."

"And you never was in jail before April 26?"

"No, sir."

"Well, tell us what you were in headquarters for?"

Attorney Rosser objected again, declaring that the charges in writing made the best evidence and that they should be produced.

"I'm not after the charges. I don't care anything about the charges. I want to know what he was doing that caused him to be put in."

POINT CONTESTED.

Mr. Rosser insisted on his objection. Solicitor Dorsey addressed the court.

"Your honor, you don't take official cognizance of the police station?"

"Yes, you do, your honor," declared Mr. Arnold, jumping up. "You can't take this negro's statement in explanation of what he was arrested for at different times. They'll all tell you, if you ask them, that they were sent up for nothing."

"It's a poor rule, your honor, that doesn't work both ways," said the solicitor. "If they are going to insist on this objection, and your honor is going to sustain them, can't we exclude all evidence about this negro having been arrested at all at any time?"

Mr. Rosser remarked something sotto voce to the solicitor.

"I thought so," said Mr. Dorsey, and proceeded.

"Well, Jim, when was the first time you were arrested?"

"When I was a small boy."

"What for?"

FORMER ARRESTS.

"Throwing rocks."

"What were you arrested for the next time?"

"Fighting with some colored boys."

"The next time?"

"I was charged with drinking and disorderly conduct."

"The next time?"

"Fighting with another colored fellow."

"Did you ever fight with a white man, Jim?"

"No, sir."

"Well, what was the cause for these other arrests?"

"Fighting and drinking and disorderly."

"Were you ever in the county jail before this Frank affair came up?"

"No, sir."

"When was it you were put in the county jail?"

"I don't remember."

"Was it before or after you went through the factory and showed how you carried the body?"

"I don't remember that."

"Well, while you were in jail, did you try to see Mr. Frank?"

Mr. Rosser objected. The question said he, was leading and immaterial. Judge Roan held that it was leading, but not immaterial. Mr. Dorsey changed its form.

The negro said that the detectives wanted him to see Frank, but couldn't get him to him. The answer was ruled out.

"When was the last time you saw Frank?"

"That Thursday when he came over to the station house, going up in court."

"Was that before or after you had talked?"

"Before."

"What did he do?"

NEARLY FELL FROM STAND.

"As he passed by my cell, he just looked and bowed and smiled."

The solicitor had the negro point out on the digram the washstand near the office. As the negro was moving his chair, he nearly fell off the witness stand. The solicitor had him point out also the desks in the office where he claims to have sat and where he says Frank sat when they wrote the notes.

The solicitor asked him to describe Frank's manner while the notes were being written. He said Frank was "trembling and nervous, and rubbing his hands together." The negro squirmed in his seat to illustrate how Frank was nervous. "What did Frank do about a pencil?" asked the solicitor.

"He took the pencil and showed me how to rub out a letter."

"What letter on what word?"

"The 's' on negroes."

The negro declared that a person could sit at Frank's desk and look at the stairway leading to the third floor.

The solicitor had him point out on the diagram the place where he claims Frank talked to him on the fourth floor Friday. The negro pointed on the diagram also to the spot where he claims Frank spoke to him Tuesday after the crime and told him to be a good boy.

"How far from the water cooler was it that you dropped the body?" asked the solicitor.

"I don't know, sir, but it was between the dressing room and the water cooler."

FRANK HAD POCKETBOOK.

"Did you ever see Mary Phagan's pocketbook after you came from the basement?"

"Yes, sir, it was on Mr. Frank's desk."

"What became of it?"

"I saw Mr. Frank put it in his safe."

"How long had you been in jail before you wrote for the detectives?"

"Ten or fifteen days."

"After Frank called you and you went back toward the body, did he have time to go down and lock the inner doors before you spoke to him again?"

Answering a question, the negro showed on the diagram where he claims to have been standing when he looked at the clock and saw that the hour was 4 minutes to 1.

The solicitor asked him to describe the character of the screams he heard.

The question was ruled out by the court.

"Who has talked to you longer—Black, Scott, Campbell, myself, or Mr. Rosser here?"

The court held that he could not draw a comparison between conversations inside and outside the court room.

"What is the longest time that all of the detectives and the state's lawyers have talked to you?"

The negro said that he didn't remember, but that once Mr. Scott started talking to him at a quarter to 11 and was not through until dark.

HOW HE LEFT BODY.

"How many backs were around there where you got that cloth that you wrapped the body up in, or like that gunny sack?" The solicitor pointed to a gunny sack near the witness stand.

"There was some there. I don't know how many."

"Now, Jim, was moving this body a hard job?"

"It was pretty hard for me."

"Show on this diagram where Frank was when he held up his hands and said 'sh-h-h'!"

Conley pointed out to the head of the stairs on the second floor.

"Tell the jury in what position you left the body in the basement."

Conley got down from the chair and lay on the floor in front of the jury. He lay on his left side, with his left arm extended under his body and his right arm almost parallel with his body. His head touched the floor. Conley then illustrated the direction of the head and feet, illustrating his testimony of Monday on this point.

The solicitor picked up the photograph of the scene which he exhibited to the negro Monday without securing the negro's identification of it.

"Do you recognize this now?"

"Yes, sir, that's where we left the body."

Attorney Rosser jumped to his feet. "So you know what it is now, do you?" he demanded. "How did you find out?"

"Well, I must have looked at it good. I see it now."

"Now tell the jury in detail what you did after you looked at the clock at 4 minutes to 1," directed the solicitor.

ROSSER OBJECTS TO DETAIL.

Attorney Rosser objected on the ground that the detail had been gone into fully. Solicitor Dorsey, addressing the court, contended that he should be allowed to ask the witness questions about this.

"Mr. Rosser," said he, "has asked minutely about the actions of the witness after 4 minutes to 1. This was for the purpose of drawing certain inferences for the purpose of a final argument to the jury. I want the witness to tell this so the jury will understand the matter. Mr. Rosser has drawn his deductions, or has extracted statements from the witness according to his deductions. Now I do not believe it is any more than fair for us to question him along the line of our deductions."

Attorney Rosser: "I want to know a single instance where we have laid any foundations for inference. There ought to be some decency about this rule."

Judge Roan sustained Mr. Rosser.

"Where did Frank wash his hands?" Conley pointed to the sink indicated on the diagram, behind the elevator on the second floor.

"When did he wash there?"

"I don't know when, except that he washed there when he came back up from the basement."

Solicitor Dorsey picked up the notes found beside the body of Mary Phagan and asked Conley, "Did you write on any other color of paper than this, when you wrote these notes that day?"

"No, sir, no other," said the negro.

"Where do they use this kind of paper, Jim?"

PROMISED CONLEY A TRIP.

"I don't know—I know he had some of it on his desk."

"You said something about green paper, yesterday, didn't you, Jim? Did you write on any green paper?"

"No, sir, the tablet was green."

"What was said by Frank about you going to Brooklyn?"

"He didn't say nothing about my going to Brooklyn. He said if I got caught he would get me out on bond and send me away from here."

"Did you ever have any conversation with this W. H. Mincey?"

"Only one time at the station house, when Mr. Black and some other detective brought him down there."

"Is that the only time you ever saw him?"

"The only time in my life."

CONLEY RECOGNIZES REPORTERS.

"The night you were put in jail, what did you say to these newspaper men?"

Attorney Rosser objected to the question. The solicitor would have to point out the newspaper men, said he.

The solicitor pointed out Harllee Branch and H. W. Ross, Journal reporters, and asked, "What did you say to these two?"

There was objection. The enforcement of the rule was asked by the defense, and the two newspaper men were sent out of court for a moment.

"What did they offer you?" asked the solicitor.

LAWYERS CLASH IN BIG BATTLE OVER TESTIMONY OF JIM CONLEY

"Well, those two there didn't offer me anything."

"What did these two newspaper men talk to you about?"

"I disremember," said the negro. "We stood at the door and talked."

"Did they offer you anything?"

Mr. Rosser objected on the ground that the negro already had said he did not remember anything and that the question was leading. Judge Roan sustained Mr. Rosser.

"During Monday and Tuesday, at the factory, were you nervous?"

"No, sir."

"Why?"

Mr. Rosser objected. Judge Roan sustained him.

WHAT HE SAID TO SCHIFF.

"What did you say to Schiff the day the factory closed down?"

"Well," said the negro, "somebody said something about the crowd out in front of the factory after the whistle had blown, and I went and looked out of the window and came back into the shipping room and said 'There sure is a crowd.' And somebody said 'I wish I had brought my pistol.' And I loked up and laughed and said 'I wish I was a white man. I'd go out.' Mr. Schiff says 'I don't see why you want to be a white man. They've got Mr. Frank locked up."

The negro explained that there were a number of people in the room and that he was not hiding.

"Who could have heard this?" asked Mr. Dorsey.

"Mr. Darley and Mr. Schiff and Mr. Wade Campbell and the negro that worked there."

"Did Darley and Schiff know that you would write?"

The question was ruled out on objection by Mr. Rosser.

"Do you know how to write the word 'luxury' (the name of a brand of pencil)?"

Mr. Rosser objected, but the question was allowed.

"Yes, sir." He had to write it on papers and bring them to Frank. He had to do a good deal of writing, and Mr. Frank furnished him with a pad, he said.

ROSSER AGAIN TAKES HIM.

Mr. Rosser cross-examined the negro again.

"Why didn't you tell Black and Scott about the mesh bag?"

"I don't think they asked me."

"When did you first tell any detective about it?"

"I don't remember."

"Did you tell any detectives before you went to jail?"

The negro said he didn't know.

"Why didn't you tell Black and Scott that Frank said he would get you out on bond and get you away if you kept your mouth shut?"

"I did tell them," said Conley. He couldn't remember when.

"You didn't see the handkerchief, did you?"

"I don't think I did."

"Didn't you tell the detectives anything about it?"

"I don't remember."

FRANK PUT PURSE IN SAFE.

"Did you see Mr. Frank put the bag in the safe and lock the safe?"

"I didn't see him turn the knob. He shut the door."

"Did you ever tell Mr. Dorsey about this?"

"Yes, sir. I told him a long time ago, after I left the mill."

"Mr. Dorsey went to see you seven times, four at the station house and three at his office. How long did he stay at any one time?"

The negro couldn't remember, but said that some times at the office he had to wait a long time before Mr. Dorsey could talk to him.

"Did he write down what you were saying?"

The negro said he couldn't remember distinctly, but once there was another man in the office writing. Mr. Dorsey wrote down things when he talked to him at the station house.

"Didn't the detectives give you long siftings on May 27, 28, 29 and 31? And didn't Dorsey have you for more than four hours on the 31st?"

He had me until after dark. I don't know how long it was."

"And Dorsey had you again on June 4, 5, Starnes on June 5 and 6, Starnes on June 15, Campbell on June 25, Dorsey, Campbell and Starnes on July 3, Dorsey and Hooper on July 12; Starnes and Campbell on July 16?"

Conley said he talked to these people at various times but could not recall the dates.

"How long did you look after the pencil boxes at the factory?"

"More than a year."

"All those boxes had names on them, didn't they, showing what kind of pencils were put up in them?"

"Yes, sir."

WOULDN'T KNOW LUXURY.

"You had one box named 'Luxury,' didn't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Would you know luxury if you saw it?"

"No, sir."

"You've been writing this and furnishing the writing to Mr. Frank for a whole year, haven't you? You said he knew you could write?"

"Yes, sir."

Mr. Rosser had the negro recount the various brands on the boxes.

"Would you write plain, Jim?"

"I don't know, sir."

"Well, how did you write those lists?"

"I did my best."

"You say one of the boxes was labeled 'Uncle Remus?'"

"Yes, sir."

SPELLING BEE.

"Spell 'Uncle Remus'."

"O-n-e r-i-m-e-s," spelled the negro.

"Now spell luxury for the jury. Spell it like you wrote it on the lists."

"L-u-s-t-r-i-s," spelled the negro, verbally.

"You sent those lists to Frank that way?"

"Yes, sir."

"How did he make out what you meant?"

"He had some trouble with the first ones, but he learned how I wrote the different names."

"He called your attention to the way you misspelled 'luxury,' didn't he?"

"Yes, sir."

"You say you've got a box there named 'Thomas Jefferson.' Spell 'Thomas Jefferson' for the jury."

"I always spelled it 'T-o-m J-e-f-f,'" said the negro.

"You've got another brand named George Washington. Spell George Washington."

"J-o-e W-i-s-h-i-t-o-n," spelled the negro, verbally.

"In addition to these lists, you have written orders for Mr. Frank to take money out of your wages when you borrowed it, haven't you?"

"I wrote the notes to borrow the money. I didn't say anything about taking it out of my wages."

"You wrote these notes before April 26?"

"What would you say in some of these orders?"

"I'd write please let me have 50 cents or 75 cents—or whatever I wanted."

WASN'T HIDING.

"And you wouldn't say take it out of your wages?"

"No, sir."

"Weren't there some big boxes in the room where Schiff caught you hiding, the Monday after the murder?"

"I wasn't hiding," said the negro, "and there wasn't any big boxes there." The witness indicated some books in court as being about the size of the largest boxes in the room where he is supposed to have been hiding.

"You said that Darley and Campbell and the shipping clerk and a colored boy could have heard your talk with Schiff."

"Yes, sir, I think they could."

"When you went in the office, you say Mr. Frank asked you if you could write, and you said 'I can write a little?'"

"Yes, sir, that's what he said."

"Well, if you had been writing for him a year, why did he have to ask you if you could write?"

"I don't know sir."

"Mr. Hooper and Mr. Dorsey were with you in another place besides the station house and Mr. Dorsey's office, weren't they?"

"Yes, sir at the jail."

"They stayed with you about three or four hours, too, didn't they?"

"I don't know sir."

"When was that?"

"I disremember."

DESCRIBES POCKETBOOK.

Mr. Dorsey took up the witness again. "Jim, describe that pocketbook," said the solicitor.

"It was wire-ish looking pocketbook, like the ladies carry, light colored, and had little chains on it for the ladies to hold to."

"Jim, didn't you have anything to copy the names of those boxes from?"

"No, sir."

"Well, the boxes were there, with the names on them where you could see them."

"Yes, sir."

"Why did you do this writing?"

"For Mr. Frank, so as to tell him what boxes was needed, and how many."

Mr. Rosser took him again.

"Didn't Schiff have charge of the boxes?"

"Yes, sir."

CONLEY EXCUSED.

"Tell me how large that pocketbook was."

"I couldn't tell—I saw it ther on the table."

Urged by Mr. Rosser, he indicated about five inches as the length of the pocketbook. He wouldn't say how wide it was. He didn't know."

Conley was excused from the stand at this juncture, at 11:10 o'clock.

As Conley passed the state's table, Mr. Hooper gave him half of a plug of tobacco, which the negro received gratefully. As he left the court room, the negro told a deputy sheriff in charge of him that he was feeling all right. He asked for a cigarette, which one of the newspaper men gave to him. Then he sat in the press room for a few minutes with the deputy, and read the newspapers and smoked.

A short recess was taken by the court. When court resumed, Solicitor Dorsey offered in evidence the flashlight photograph of the scene where Mary Phagan's body was found.

A blank yellow order book containing leaves similar to one on which one of the notes was written; the scratchpad from which Conley says Frank tore the sheets that he wrote on; and the notes that Conley says he wrote, and which were found by the side of the body, were entered in evidence by the state without objection on the part of the defense. The two notes were read to the jury by Solicitor Dorsey.

DALTON CALLED.

C. B. Dalton was called to the witness stand. Attorney Rosser held a whispered consultation with the judge, and Solicitor Dorsey joined them, and it was decided not to hear Dalton's testimony until after the judge had decided finally whether or not he would rule out the portions of Conley's testimony which the defense seeks to strike from the records. It was understood that should the judge finally rule against the state, the solicitor would attempt anyway to get Dalton's testimony before the jury, and Mr. Rosser is expected to object.

At the end of this conference, Dalton was excused from the stand and returned to the witness room on the floor above.

Mrs. Arthur White was called as the next witness.

James Conley was brought into the room once more, from the ante-room where he had been taken, and confronted Mrs. White.

"Mrs. White, look at this man," said the solicitor. "Can you state who he is?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you ever see him before?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where?"

"At police headquarters."

MRS. WHITE NOT POSITIVE.

"Did you ever see him before that time, at police headquarters?"

"I won't say positively."

"How can she compare with the man you say you saw sitting on the box on the first floor?"

Attorney Rosser objected to the question as a leading one. Judge Roan allowed it after its construction had been changed slightly by the solicitor.

Conley was told to put on his hat, and after he had done so Mrs. White replied that he looked more like the negro whom she saw beside the elevator in the factory, than anyone whom she had seen since.

"Did you, after April 26 was it when you saw this man at police headquarters?"

"It was about a month afterward, I guess."

"Now tell the jury what happened at the police station."

ROSSER IS SUSTAINED.

Attorney Rosser objected on the ground that his client was not bound by anything that happened at the police station, inasmuch as he was not represented there. Solicitor Dorsey replied, "Well, Mr. Scott, the Pinkerton detective, was present as your representative." Attorney Rosser exclaimed, "Mr. Scott does not represent this man," pointing to Frank. Judge Roan sustained the objection of Mr. Rosser.

"Now, your honor, I want to show why Mrs. White says this man looks more like him than any other," said the solicitor.

Attorney Rosser objected on the ground that the negro was not dressed in court as he was then. Judge Roan sustained Mr. Rosser.

"Describe to the jury how the man you saw was dressed," said the solicitor.

"He was just about the size of this man, and he looked black to me. He was sitting in a dark place, but I think he had on dark clothes. I don't know whether he was bareheaded or not."

"Mrs. White, Wade Campbell is your brother, and Arthur White is your husband. They are both connected with the pencil factory. When did you first tell them about seeing this negro?"

Attorney Rosser objected, and Judge Roan asked the solicitor how he considered that material. The solicitor explained, "We want to show that she told this to her husband and her brother within two days and we want to show that the detectives at the police station didn't get this information until later than that."

REASON FOR QUESTION.

Mr. Rosser renewed his objection, and Solicitor Dorsey argued again. "It is already in evidence to show that Detective Scott was told about this by Frank two days after the body was found. Now I want to show that the city detectives did not know about it until the 7th of May."

Mr. Dorsey called for the record of Scott's testimony. He knew he was right, said he.

"If you are, it's the first time you've been right about anything," said Mr. Rosser.

"Yes, and I want the record and I want to show that on Monday, April 28, Leo M. Frank knew that Mrs. White said there was a negro by the elevator, and that it took the detectives working for the state of Georgia until May 7 to find it out. By that I mean the detectives working for the state—not the detectives working for the National Pencil company."

The lawyers wrangled for several moments. The court stenographer entered and handed a typewritten manuscript to Attorney Arnold.

DORSEY IS APPLAUDED.

"Here, I want it," said Mr. Dorsey. "I'll give it to you in a minute," said Mr. Arnold. Attorney Rosser looked over the record, and finally he said, "Yes, you're right about it. It's in here."

Applause broke out in three parts of the court room. The applauders were ejected quickly from the court.

Mr. Rosser arose to argue, then, that the matter was immaterial. It didn't matter when the state learned about it, said he.

Solicitor Dorsey contended that he had a right to show that City Detective Rosser and the other detectives didn't know about it until May 7.

Judge Roan ruled that he could ask the witness when she next told about seeing the negro.

Mrs. White said she was not positive, but thought she next told it on May 7.

Mr. Rosser cross-examined the witness.

"You never declined to tell anyone about this, did you?"

"No, sir."

"Nobody ever asked you to keep it a secret, did they?"

"No, sir."

MANGUM IS CALLED.

When you spoke to Wade Campbell, didn't you tell him you saw the negro as you went up?"

"No, he is mistaken if he says that I did."

"Did you say the first time that you heard voices on the steps?"

"I might have said that the first time I went into the factory I heard voices, but I didn't see anyone."

Sheriff C. W. Mangum was sworn as the next witness.

"Were you present at the jail when Conley went down there from the factory?"

"Yes, he was with another party."

"You were present and overheard a conversation about having Conley confront Frank?"

DORSEY WINS POINT.

Attorney Rosser objected to this as irrelevant, and hearsay. In arguing it, Mr. Dorsey said: "Your honor, never in the history of the white race has a white man charged with so foul a crime by a negro refused to meet his accuser face to face. We want to show that this defendant refused to meet this ignorant negro who was making the charge against him."

Mr. Rosser interrupted several times, Judge Roan conceding that Mr. Dorsey could argue his point. Judge Roan ruled in favor of the state, and the question was repeated.

The witness said he was present.

"Go ahead and tell about it."

Sheriff Mangum said that Chief Beavers, Chief Lanford, Pinkerton Detective Scott and Jim Conley, the negro, came to the jail together. There were two or three of Frank's friends at the door on the landing just in front of the cell. The officers didn't want to stop there because they did not care for these friends of the accused to see them. Chief Beavers asked the sheriff if they, the incoming party, could see Frank, stating that they wanted Conley to confront Frank and tell his story.

FRANK REFUSED AUDIENCE.

"I went to Mr. Frank and told him what Chief Beavers requested. I told him he could see them if he wanted to. He refused, saying that his attorney was not there and there was nobody to listen to what might be said."

Mr. Rosser: "Frank evidently knew them?"

"Yes, sir," replied the sheriff.

Solicitor Dorsey: "How do you know whether Frank knew them or not?"

"Well, I had seen in the papers where he had been over to police station and where he had talked with them."

The solicitor moved to order testimony on that point out of the records, and the court ruled it out.

Sheriff Mangum was excused. The solicitor called for Mrs. J. W. Coleman, mother of Mary Phagan. She did not answer, and the solicitor called for George Epps, the newsboy. He did not answer. The solicitor then made a statement to the court.

JURY SENT OUT.

"Your honor, we have two propositions which we wish to submit," said the solicitor, "but in doing so we must put up Epps and Dalton. I know the defense will object to this testimony. It is connected with some that is already in the record and to which they have objected.

"I would like to suggest that inasmuch as this prospective testimony has a direct bearing on the subject matter at issue, you now decide as to the admissibility of that evidence.

"Your honor, the state has only one other witness besides these. He is Dr. H. F. Harris, and we cannot get him here before 2 p. m."

Judge Roan ordered the jury out.

"I want you lawyers now to give me the law," said Judge Roan to counsel. "Read the law to me without too much discussion."

Solicitor Dorsey addressed the court. "I have three propositions to argue. In the first place, we don't want any evidence ruled out with relation to Frank's previous customs or his connections with Conley.

"Second, we want to put up witnesses to corroborate Conley's testimony.

FRANK PINCHED MARY?

"And third, we want to put up George Epps to testify that on the day Mary Phagan was murdered, as she was on the way to the pencil factory, she told Epps that Frank had pinched her and teased her and that she was afraid of him."

Judge Roan said: "Now let me hear the law on this without too much argument."

"I don't suppose there is any authority needed," said he, "in arguing the admissibility of George Epps' testimony. I don't suppose there is a court in the world that would want to hear any authority on that. It's plain, hearsay evidence." Mr. Arnold read an excerpt from some decision, however, tending to support his objection to the admissibility of that evidence."

He argued the second proposition stated by Solicitor Dorsey.

"There is nothing relevant to this case in the negro watching for Frank on previous occasions. Your honor correlated to the issue. Your honor concedes its irrelevance." Mr. Arnold cited a number of authorities to support his orgument on this matter.

"I shouldn't argue the orginal admissibility of this evidence, because Mr. Hooper agreed with me yesterday that it was illegal testimony."

HOOPER INTERRUPTS.

Mr. Hooper interrupted. "The defense keeps insisting that I agreed yesterday that this shouldn't have been entered. I want to make myself clear on the subject. I was misunderstood. I said that their objection to the admissibility of this evidence might have been well taken if it had been entered at the time that the testimony was admitted. But I did not commit myself at all."

Attorney Arnold proceeded, characterizing the state's position as a bold attempt to prove that the negro watched for Frank on other occasions. The failure to object at the time of introduction did not mean that they could not later move to have it stricken from the record. He cited a number of decisions from courts in other states, sustaining judges who had stricken evidence after it was admitted and in some cases after the witnesses had been cross-questioned about it.

He said that the defense had been unable to find a case in Georgia where the testimony was stricken after a witness had been cross examined. He supposed this was the first case in the state where that point had arisen, said he.

ARNOLD ARGUES FROM CHAIR.

Attorney Arnold paused. "I'm so hot and faint I feel unable to go much longer." He did not appear to be very faint. He sat down and asked for a glass of water. "Well, that's all right," said Judge Roan, "you can just remain in your seat and proceed."

"That's all right," said Mr. Arnold. "If I am permitted to sit down, I can go on all right."

Mr. Arnold continued his citation of authorities. He concluded with specific reading of a number of authorities which declared that it was always order for the judge, even on his own motion, to withdraw illegal and irrelevant testimony.

Solicitor Dorsey resumed. He stated that he wanted to speak about the failure of the defendant to ask that this evidence be stricken in time. "I could easily see," said he, "that if Conley's evidence goes without corroboration, it will be beneficial to the defendant. Now it is the law that you can put questions to tell of the witness' relations with the accused, social or otherwise. And that is exactly what Conley did.

IMPORTANT POINT.

"The defendant, on cross-examination, even went into Conley's relations with others in the factory, and I didn't object because they had that right. Now, I say that this is a material and a powerful fact illustrating the probability of Conley's story. I saw, second, that they went into detail on it and drew it out, and now they haven't the right to throw it overboard."

Mr. Arnold interrupted to say that he had some other authorities which he had forgotten to read and which he should read before te solicitor finished. He then read excerpts from text books on criminal law.

Mr. Dorsey concluded his argument. The solicitor produced a number of decisions to support his contention. He contended that the evidence was admissible as an original proposition. Judge Roan interrupted him with a question indicating that the judge thought the question was one affecting the character of the defendant. The solicitor promptly declared that it was not, that it had a very important bearing on the bearing and conduct of the accused in relation with the witness, and was connected directly with the case.

Judge Roan interrupted again. "Mr. Dorsey, you understand this is a vital question in this case, concerning the proper administration of the law. I desire to do the right thing with fairness to all parties."

DORSEY FEARS NONE.

"Your honor, if I convict this man I want to hold him," said the solicitor. "I'm not afraid of the higher court reversing your honor on that proposition. I want to say right now that he was not thinking about that at all.

The solicitor contended that the defense had slept over its right in letting the evidence, even if it was inadmissible, get into the records without objection; that it had cross-examined the witness on portions of it for hours.

"And, now, when they find something they don't want, they are trying to get it out," said he. "They had a right to, and did sift Conley to bring out the relationship existing between him and Frank. This evidence, your honor, established the fact that Frank had full confidence in Conley and was willing to trust him on a lookout for him on such occasions."

*Judge Roan announced an adjourn*ment at this point until 2 o'clock.

MOTHER AND SON DIE AS TRAIN HITS AUTOMOBILE

Machine Occupied by Entire Family Stops on Railroad Tracks

An account of the accident in which his wife and ten-year-old son met their death when a Southern passenger train ran into his automobile one mile north of McDonough Tuesday afternoon, was given to The Journal by J. D. Heard, a native of Vienna, Ga., within a few hours after the accident, which was one of the most horrible in the history of the state.

"We were coming to Atlanta to see the motor races and return tomorrow morning.

"We were going about twenty-five miles an hour just outside McDonough, when we reached a hill, going downgrade. When we had nearly reached the bottom my wife exclaimed, 'Yonder comes a train!'

"Just at the foot of the hill was the railway on an embankment about twenty feet high, and the train was coming out a cut about seventy yards away.

"I threw on the emergency brakes as quickly as I could, but the impetus of the car carried it up the embankment.

"When we were on the tracks, the car stopped.

I cried, 'For God's sake, jump!'

"The engine was several yards away, and I leaped out on the near side to try to get around in time to pull Emma and Lindon out of the way. But the train was coming too fast.

Mr. Heard broke completely down, as he had almost done before. But in a few minutes he finished.

"The engine hit the car like a hammer striking a tack. I found my boy fifty feet up the track, caught in the cowcatcher. My wife was hit in the head and thrown fifteen feet down the track.'

The bodies were placed on the train and brought to Atlanta, where they were prepared for burial, and at 8:30 taken to Vienna on the Central of Georgia.

Mr. Heard is a member of the banking firm of J. D. Heard, and is better known as J. D. Heard, Jr., as it was only recently his father, Senator Heard died.

His wife, Mrs. Emma Lashley Heard, was thirty-one years of age, and the daughter of J. J. Lashley, a prominent business man of Vienna.

ENGINEER TALKS.

The engineer of the Southern passenger train, J. L. Mable, gave the following account of the accident:

"I was running twenty-five miles an hour when I first saw the automobile about one hundred yards ahead of me. He had plenty of time to get by the crossing first as he was going at a speed equal to mine and was only thirty yards from the track.

"But for some reason he slowed up, his engine stopped and the car came to a dead standstill immediately across the track when I was ten yards away.

"I threw on my air brakes, which were working well, but they did not stop the engine before it struck the car.

"I saw the man leap from the car. I was going about the same rate of speed when we struck as before. I know of nothing I could have done to prevent the accident."

able the state to drive even a better bargain if the Western and Atlantic is to be released. The Georgia railroad does not come in competition with either the Louisville and Nashville or the N., C. & St. L., and it does not seem to me that it will be seriously affected by the inquiry or any action by the department of justice."

WHAT LEA PROPOSES.

"I did not have the control of the Western and Atlantic railroad by the N., C. & St. L. in mind when I prepared my resolution, said Senator Lea today. "But if I understand the situation, I am confident that the scope of my resolution is broad enough to include the control of the state road by the N., C. & St. L.

"I drafted this resolution several months ago, but I have been waiting before introducing it to ascertain whether it would be possible and practical for the interstate commerce commission to obtain the information sought for, and only within the last few days have I been advised that the proposed investigation and report were practicable.

"As soon as the information sought for in the resolution is obtained I will present it to the department of justice for such action as it may desire to take. There is much fear expressed that the Tennessee Central railroad—the only independent railway in middle Tennessee—may be absorbed by the Louisville and Nashville railroad, but the question is not whether the Louisville and Nashville will be permitted to acquire the Tennessee Central, but whether it will be permitted to maintain its ownership of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway and its lease of the Nashville and Decatur railroad."

SUBSTANCE OF RESOLUTION.

The Lea resolution contains nine sections, providing as follows:

First—The amount of stocks, bonds and other securities of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis owned or controlled by the Louisville and Nashville.

Second—What other railroad or railroads in the territory served by the L. & N. and the N., C. & St. L. have been purchased, leased, controlled or arrangements entered into for the purpose of control either by the L. & N. or the N., C. & St. L.

In this section that contains the section which, in the opinion of Senator Lea, the commission will investigate not only the present lease of the N., C. & St. L. by the N. & St. L., but the following negotiations between the state legislature and the lessee for the purchase of the property.

Third—Whether the N., C. & St. L. and the L. & N. serve the same territory, in whole or in part, and whether, under separate ownership, they would be competitive lines to various points in their territories.

Fourth—Any and all fact or facts tending to show that the present relations between the L. & N. and the N., C. & St. L. have a tendency to restrict competition, and maintain fixed rates.

The fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth sections relate to the terms of the lease of the Nashville and Decatur road by the L. & N.

Section nine calls for the number of free annual passes and the number of trip passes issued by the L. & N. and the N., C. & St. L. since January 1, 1911, to members of legislative bodies and other public officials.

The provisions of the ninth section would not, of course, apply to Georgia, as under a law, no passes are issued within the state to legislative or other public officials.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY

THEATRES

(Criticisms of initial performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater managements.)

FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
GRAND—Motion Pictures.
BIJOU—Tabloid Musical Comedy.

It is a remarkable fact that this week's bill at the Forsyth, though without a headliner, something that has not been recorded before in the busy theater's career of three years, can still be classed with the best entertainment yet seen here in vaudeville. Every act is tested thoroughly before engaged for the week, and the booking managers have certainly made no mistake, for each of them has been given a unanimous indorsement.

Annie Kent, who is a big favorite in New York, has a novelty offering that is going to be decidedly popular. Miss Kent is a comedienne of the present school. She tells a number of very interesting stories, and exhibits dances that win applause. She makes a character change in front of the audience that is next to wonderful, and her switch from a debutante makeup to an east side character is a transformation worth seeing.

Everett's Monkey Hippodrome is startling in that these monkeys have been so thoroughly trained that from the time they start their performance until the end there is no human being on the stage. They do all manner of acrobatic stunts without a word of command, or without a signal of any sort.

Freeman and Dunham in a series of absolutely new songs have become very popular, and the pair always are all registering in a splendid fashion.

Next week's features will be Ralph Herz, musical comedy comedian, and William Weston and company in a big novelty.

Predictions made before the establishment of the Grand with moving pictures that the house would eventually become decidedly popular with this form of entertainment might have been made stronger, for it is a fact that hundreds of people are daily attending the photoplays presented in the big house, and gradually these people are learning that they must come earlier to be sure of seats. The Grand is roomy, safe, cool, clean and comfortable, and all these things, coupled with a magnificent picture service, make the result that had been predicted.

The pictures shown at the Grand are equal to the very best seen anywhere, and superior in a great many ways to the offerings in other places. Each day there is an exhibition of genuine first run releases, and in addition, until Thursday, there will be four reels of "Zigomar," an intensely thrilling melodrama. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the feature will be "Balaoo," the demon baboon, which is declared to be the most remarkable picture that has yet been made.

The schedule of performances is from 2:30 until 5:15, and from 8:30 until 10:15 each day, and 10 cents is the admission at all times.

RAILWAY AGENTS HOLD 15TH ANNUAL MEETING

About one hundred representatives of the Southern Railway Agents' association are in session today at the Georgian Terrace, the meeting being the fifteenth annual convention of the association.

Mayor Woodward and Wilmer L. Moore, president of the chamber of commerce, delivered addresses of welcome Wednesday morning at the opening session.

The delegates will be in session until Friday.

Addresses by railway officials, roll call, enrollment of new members and reports occupied the session of the day, and the programs are concerned with matters of interest to railway men.

C. G. Walker is president of the association; E. J. Coffey, vice president; D. L. Bryan, treasurer, and W. J. Townsend, treasurer.

The executive committee is composed of J. M. Fagan, chairman; W. D. Post and O. L. McKay.

A Physician's Faith in Eckman's Alterative

"Have used Eckman's Alterative in several cases of tubercular glands of the neck with excellent results every time. In one case it cost me $30, for the girl was put on it only until she could arrange to be operated, and in a short time an operation was not needed. I suppose your records are just as fine as of old. You know my faith in it."

(Original of this physician's letter on file.)

Eckman's Alterative is effective in other forms. Read what Mrs. Garvin says:

Idaho Falls, Idaho.

"Gentlemen: I have gained twenty-two pounds since last February, and my baby is in perfect health. I have been waiting since she was born to see how I would get along. I am now doing all my work, have been ever since she was four weeks old, and I am steadily gaining. I do not cough or raise anything at all, so I think I am completely cured of Lung Trouble."

SENATE VOTES DOWN ALL W. & A. ROAD BILLS

Spent Five Minutes in Legislation and One Hour in Trying to Adjourn

The sum total of legislation accomplished by the state senate Wednesday morning was the passage of three local bills, on which five minutes time was expended.

Of the three-hour session the senate expended one hour and fifty minutes in killing all bills relating to the Western and Atlantic railroad, and one hour in discussing the momentous question as to whether or not the senate should adjourn.

During the discussion of the latter question Senator C. E. McGregor stated that he was convinced that "the less the legislature met, the better it would be for the state of Georgia."

The resolution of Senator Sweat providing for a commission to investigate the status of the Western and Atlantic railroad came up shortly after the senate convened. Eight amendments were offered to it.

The amendments passed were: Senator Dickey's limiting the time of investigation to fifty days; Senator Mitchell's raising the number of members on the commission; Senator Tarver's striking out the paragraph citing the pay the commission should receive on the ground that the rate could not appropriate, and Senator Tarver's providing that the commission should consist only the release of the road.

The original resolution had a number of paragraphs which provided that the commission be authorized to consider the extension of the road to the sea. By the amendment of Senator Tarver all these were stricken and the commission was authorized only to consider the release of the road.

When the vot was called those who favored the original voted against the amended resolution for the reason that it killed all attempts to extend the road to the port of St. Marys or any other coast port. As a result, the entire resolution was voted down, 23 to 18.

Immediately at the conclusion of the vote on the Sweat resolution, Senator Harrell moved that when the senate adjourned it should adjourn until 10 o'clock Thursday morning, thus cutting off the usual afternoon session Wednesday.

This motion led to a discussion which lasted until 1 o'clock, when the senate stood automatically adjourned, to meet again at 3 in the afternoon.

Some senators wanted to meet in the afternoon so as to accomplish legislation. Others claimed that there were not enough to form a quorum at the afternoon sessions, and that the time was needed for committee meetings.

President Anderson caused the rule to be read in regard to sending the sergeant-at-arms for senators in order that a quorum might be obtained, and just after the senate finally did adjourn made a short speech urging all members to come in the afternoon. There seemed to be some doubt in the minds of the senators as to whether there would be a quorum at the afternoon session.

The senate took five minutes for an executive session, during which the following nominations from the governor were confirmed:

Alonzo C. Stone, to be judge of the city court of Monroe for a term of four years, beginning August 17, 1913.

H. G. Nowell, to be solicitor of the city court of Monroe for a term of four years from August 17, 1913.

WALTER COOPER TO MAKE LONG TOUR OF EUROPE

W. G. Cooper, secretary of the chamber of commerce, will sail Tuesday for a three months' tour of Europe. He will leave Atlanta Thursday, going Thursday to Washington, and from there he will go to Baltimore, where he will take one of the slow steamers across.

He will land at Bremen and will travel along the Rhine, after which he will go to Belgium, Switzerland and other countreis.

While abroad Mr. Cooper will visit several noted commercial museums, and will secure ideas in connection with such exhibits that will prove interesting to the Atlanta chamber.

During Mr. Cooper's absence W. H. Leahy will act as secretary.

M'ADOO NOW READY TO MEET SOUTHERN BANKERS

Many Respond to Invtation to Discuss Proposed $50,000,000 Distribution

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Secretary McAdoo's invitation to southern bankers to attend a conference at the treasury department tomorrow to discuss the proposed distribution of $50,000,000 of government funds to help move crops, mas met with almost unanimous response. Only a few instances have the banks or clearing house associations notified the department that no representatives would be sent and then it was stated they believed their cities would be fairly treated in the proposed distribution.

Preparations for the reception of the bankers have been completed. It is proposed now to hold the conference in the office of Assistant Secretary Williams who with Secretary McAdoo and R. B. Dasiam, chief of the division of public moneys, will attend the conference. Assistant Secretary Williams said that so far seventy-five bankers from southern cities had accepted the secretary's invitation and that his offices might be too small for the conference.

Protests from a number of cities in the south, west and far west have been here received by letter and telegram because they would not be included in the proposed distribution of funds. It was indicated at the department that the list would not be increased, however, although Lexington, Ky.; Duluth, Minn., and Fort Worth, Tex., were added today. It was explained they were included in the original list, but were omitted when it was made public.

Exceptional Reductions in Men's Apparel

For TWENTY DOLLARS: Any Suit in the house, be it fancy or plain color, is an exceptional reduction when qualities such as we show here are to be had. They are all the Atterbury System, Fifth Ave. make.

ONE DOLLAR TWENTY-FIVE for shirts, any shirt, every shirt, except dress shirts and silk negligees, is another one of those exceptional reductions which are never offered except at this shop. At this price you have the choice of starched cuff styles or French fold cuff shirts of most beautiful patterns and very fine grades.

ODD TROUSERS have been reduced very much in price, varying according to grades from $3.75 up to $6.50 for the finest trousers in our shop.

STRAW HATS have been reduced to pretty nearly half, and our straw styles are not to be confused with hats made up during late season for the purpose of being sold at reductions. Our best grades and most desirable styles, including Bangkoks and Panamas, are all included.

NECKWEAR at 30c, 60c, 90c, $1.20 is made up from grades in this manner: The thirty-cent variety is derived from the former fifty-cent collection---including wash ties, and a beautiful range at that. The sixty-cent ties sold heretofore at a dollar. The ninety-cent ties fetched a dollar fifty before the first of August, and those we offer at one twenty were the truly admired ones---those which brought two fifty and three and three fifty prior to this announcement.

"ONYX" HOSIERY, which is the only brand of hosiery we sell, has been reduced in this manner: 50c grade 30c, $1.00 grade 60c, $1.50 grade 90c, $2 grade $1.20. In this collection of hosiery you will find the most desirable plain colors as well as clocked designs and fancies in both silk-lisle and pure silks.

UNDERWEAR, with the exception of a special lot of broken sizes which we offer at half price, is to be had at a reduction of twenty-five per cent---regardless.

PAJAMAS we are selling at a greater reduction, like this: $1.50 grade $1, $2.00 grade $1.25, $2.50 grade $1.50, $3 grade $2, $4 grade $2.75, $5 grade $3.25. Another exceptional price scale for exceptional merchandise.

All the seasonable wearables are reduced. None of the unseasonable wearables are ever reduced except for specific and legitimate reasons.

We conduct these sales for the same reason, perhaps that you would, were you in this business--and maybe on the same plan.

During the year we never offer bargains because people who look for real merchandise know better than to expect them. But with the prestige all good stores naturally enjoy it is essential to progress that stocks be kept in prime condition every month of the year.

With the greatest care and conservatism no store can end the season with empty shelves.

It must, however, begin the new season with new wearables.

It is an endless chain.

Hence these exceptional reductions.

The City's Vital Need Of Ample Water Supply.

Atlanta has just emerged from a crisis that warns Council of the imperative need of ampler facilities for the public water supply. Some thirty days ago the main pump at the river station became disabled and, as a matter of necessity, was shut down for repairs. During all that time the city's welfare so far as water is concerned was dependent on machinery which, had it suffered the slightest accident, would have left the community with less than half the volume of water consumed each day under normal conditions.

The perils of such a situation are really fearful to contemplate. Aside from the discomforts to the individual home and the impediments to industry and business, so serious a shortage in the water supply might become a menace to property and health and to life itself. What if fire should break out when the main pump was not operating and the others, too, were unavailable! The mere possibility or thought of such an occurrence should stir Council to the promptest action possible.

Manager Smith, of the waterworks department, has repeatedly urged the need of more adequate safeguards against emergencies which might arise. He declares that an additional capacity of twenty million gallons at each station is essential to the public's security. This would call for an estimated expenditure of between two hundred and fifty and three hundred thousand dollars. But whatever the cost may be it is not to be weighed against the tragic risk to which continued neglect of this matter will expose the people's well-being.

Without a sufficient water supply, proof against all emergencies, the city's most vital interests are at stake. Sanitation, property and life should no longer be jeopardized.

The melancholy days will come when the swimming days are over.

Spare a Moment's Time For This Important Bill.

All right-thinking people will rejoice in the prospect that the laws of Georgia are soon to be purged of that monstrous statute which denies a mother any legal right to the custody of her child. The bill to this end which was recently introduced by Representatives Smith, of Fulton, and Olive, of Richmond, has been favorably reported after a careful hearing by the General Judiciary committee of the House. Legislative as well as popular sentiment is apparently so united in support of this measure that its enactment is virtually assured, if it is given its due place on the calendar.

Indeed, there seems to be no difference of opinion as to the wisdom and justice of recognizing by law the rights of a mother to her children. Prominent superior court judges in different parts of the State have urged legislation of this character. The rank and file of representative attorneys are equally earnest in their indorsement of such a measure; and as for the attitude of the public generally, it is one of eager insistence that the present inhuman law be changed.

In these circumstances, the Legislature should take particular pains to dispose of this important issue before the end of its current session. The pending bill is in every respect a well-considered one. It has the committee's approval, based upon a thorough examination. Its passage will consume appreciably no time either in the House or the Senate, for, it is not the kind of measure that will provoke debate. It will not stand in the way of any other business or delay the progress of any other bill.

Surely, then, the Legislature will spare a few minutes of its time to relieve this State of the shame it now suffers from its present cruel law against the rights of motherhood.

The small boy also looks forward with dread to the melancholy days.

Sometimes a woman listens to a man's talk so she will be ready to start in when he pauses for breath.

If a girl is in love with a young man in her home town she is afraid to remain away long when she has occasion to visit friends in another town.

The Chinese rebellion is on its last legs, the Balkan war is tottering, Mexico is in a fair way to become peaceful, and there is no row about the crematory.

This Would Make Atlanta World Famous.

If it be true that the growth of a single blade of grass is as wonderful as the history of any empire that ever rose or fell, how absorbingly interesting would it be to follow stage by stage the development and the wide human uses of a plant like cotton, to trace its unfolding power from seed to snowy harvest, to watch its myriad transformations into raiment and food and its thousand journeys through the trade and life of the world! Men have traveled to distant lands to see things much less marvelous and have pored over shelffuls of books with far less profit.

One of the most engaging enterprises ever conceived is that of establishing a complete and permanent exhibition of cotton and cotton products in the new Chamber of Commerce building, where it will be open to visitors the year around and will prove a distinctive advertisement not only for Atlanta but for the entire South. This plan has suggested itself in connection with the permanent display of Atlanta-made goods that is to be established in the near future.

It is proposed to devote an entire floor of the Chamber of Commerce building to the cotton industry in its manifold phases. One section of the exhibit will show how cotton is grown. Another will set forth its manufacture; and so in turn each product and by-product of cotton will be illustrated in their amazing variety of uses. Cotton hulls alone are more broadly valuable today than was the lint itself twenty years ago. Cotton seed, with their rich oils for commercial and table supplies, are the foundation of a vast and comparatively new field of industry. This plant is, indeed, more wonderful than any which ever grew in a wizard's garden.

An exhibit demonstrating all these uses and processes would become one of the great show-places of the South. It would be the only attraction of its kind in the world. To Southern people themselves, it would be a revelation; and to visitors from other sections, it would appeal more keenly than any other form of entertainment or education they could be offered.

The members of the Georgia Cotton Seed Crushers' Association and kindred interests are supporting this project with such hearty enthusiasm that its success is virtually assured. Such funds as are necessary to carry the enterprise to completion will be an investment rather than a donation, an investment for the progress of Atlanta and the South, and for all the interests that are directly or indirectly concerned.

The Mexican Macbeth.

Huerta of Mexico is a miniature Macbeth.

In his last tottering hours, he swaggers most defiantly and wears his gaudiest trappings.

Despised by the rank and file of his countrymen for his treacherous and uncivilized course toward a rightfully elected President, forsaken by most of the army over which he once held sway and by many of his personal followers, he is hemmed in the capital with little or no authority except over immediately adjacent districts.

Yet, this is the Huerta who scorns the good offices of the United States and declares that he will not recognize or treat with Ex-Governor Lind whom President Wilson expects to send to Mexico as the administration's special representative.

If the present drift of affairs continues a little longer, Huerta will treat with no one simply for the reason that he will be fairly on the path to the Everlasting Bonfire.

If he is determined to press his rash policy to a finish, he will soon be paying the penalty of that "vaulting ambition which o'erleaps itself."

Sober Mexican citizens have hoped to effect an amicable understanding among the factions now at war, their plan being the voluntary retirement of Huerta in favor or some non-partisan statesman who would serve as provisional president until a regular election could be held.

But the would-be dictator will hear to no such peaceful project.

"Our sovereignty," he says with a royal emphasis of the word, must be maintained at all hazards. The doughty general evidently means to die with his boots on.

In so far as the interests and duties of the United States in this matter are concerned, they are being ably directed by the administration.

Lazy men would rather find fault than find work.

THE STORY OF SALT

By Frederic J. Haskin

In the earliest history of man salt was looked upon as one of the luxuries of life. Before Lot's wife was turned into a Pillar of Salt, this product was recognized as a valuable commodity. The woman was punished for looking backward, but at least she was transformed into the most coveted substance of that period. Salt has been really the forerunner of civilization. Little of it is used by the savage. As primitive man acquired a taste for salt and the means of gratifying it, his fiercest instincts vanished and his gentler emotions began to dominate him. With the early tribes salt was so difficult to obtain that the saying "He eateth my salt" was equivalent to saying he is rich. A piece of gold might purchase only the smallest cake of salt. Salt was so valued that a man who had eaten the salt of another was honor bound to be loyal to him. Consequently, while a man might accept unsalted bread from his enemy, he was bound to become his friend if he ate his salt.

• • •

John MacGregor, the pioneer canoeist, was captured by an Arab tribe upon the upper Jordan river. He was taken with his canoe before the old shaykh whose tent was near. As they parleyed, MacGregor opened a pocket box of fine salt and offered a pinch to the shaykh who, having never seen salt so fine and white, accepted it thinking it was sugar. As he tasted it MacGregor put a pinch into his own mouth and laughingly slapped the old man upon the back. He was free. Even the other Arabs laughed when they understood that their chief had eaten salt with the captive under his own tent. MacGregor and his canoe were escorted back to the river in triumph. The Arab chief was now bound to favor him by the covenant of salt, the strongest bond of his nation.

• • •

The increased wealth of the world has developed an increased demand for salt, and fortunately for the comfort of the human race there seems to be no lack in the salt resources of the world. It is to be found everywhere, although not always in a form or quantity to be readily utilized. The salt production of the world is estimated at 15,000,000 tons annually, of which the United States produces nearly a third. Next to this country Russia is the greatest salt producer of the world, although the industry has not been much exploited and the methods of securing it are most primitive. Russia contains five great salt lakes which are believed to comprise the greatest salt district in the world. Their output might be multiplied by the use of modern machinery.

• • •

Great Britain comes after Russia in the value of its salt product. The English salt industry is controlled by a great union which includes practically all of the salt operators. Most English salt is obtained from natural brine by modern scientific process and its quality is recognized throughout the world. Much of the German salt comes from native mines owned by the government or by members of the nobility. The government does not exercise a monopoly in the salt industry, but the product manufactured by private firms is subject to a taxation. In Italy salt manufacture is under the direction of the government, with the exception of that produced in Sicily. Salt is such a luxury in Italy that the poorer people use it sparingly, even in seasoning their food. In Holland the salt is not controlled by the government, and thirty-three salt refineries produce for domestic use about 128,000,000 pounds annually. Until recently no foreign salt was allowed in China. Now a small importation is permitted for the use of the foreign residents who find the coarse native salt unfit for table use. The Japanese government controls the salt industry in that country.

• • •

About 35,000,000 barrels of salt are produced annually in the United States, the value of which is nearly $9,000,000. This includes five grades known in trade as table or dairy common fine, common coarse, packer's and solar. Most of this comes from fifteen states. New York being recognized as the leading salt state with Michigan second. The government record of the New York salt product combines it with that of Louisiana. The amount for the two states exceeds 11,000,000 barrels valued at $2,500,000. Michigan's salt yield last year approximated 10,000,000 barrels, so that she may head the list of the next salt report. The recent development of the salt industry in Louisiana has already given an estimated yield of 2,000,000 barrels which leaves only 9,000,000 for New York.

• • •

The salt resources of Louisiana are now controlled by two rival corporations, each of whom insists upon preserving a strict secrecy regarding its output. If the salt production of the state were given either corporation its own production could readily know the amount produced by the rival firm. It is the policy of the government officials who compile reports to preserve all trade confidences. Consequently, while elaborate descriptions are given regarding the methods of salt mining prevalent in Louisiana, no figures as to its output are obtainable.

• • •

The New York salt industry is the oldest in this country. Syracuse has been a salt center since 1797. Wells in that locality are sunk as deep as 300 feet, and the brine pumped from them is manufactured into salt either by solar or artificial evaporation. In Louisiana the salt is mined after the most efficient methods known to modern science. The location of the first shaft of the larger mine was made in 1898. By 1912 a 600-foot level had been reached. Mining is carried on there by blasting out masses of rock salt on the level with the floor and then cutting down layer by layer. The drills are worked by compressed air furnished from a power house outside. The mine is lighted by electric light and contains a ventilating equipment. The salt is conveyed to the shaft in small cars drawn by mules over a narrow gauge steel track similar to those used in northern coal mines. The capacity of this mine is said to be 750 tons per ten-hour day.

• • •

Salt is distributed in two forms, in brine such as is found in the Syracuse salt wells, and in rocks, such as are mined in Louisiana. Sometimes both forms are found in the same or in adjoining localities. The Michigan industry produces salt from each of these two sources. In addition to mining rock salt in Michigan, artificial brine is made by bringing fresh water in contact with it. When the water has become saturated with salt it is brought to the surface and evaporated. Natural brine also occurs plentifully in some parts of Michigan. In Ohio the natural bring pools are sufficient to make it the third salt state of this country.

• • •

The salt resources of Utah are most interesting. Great Salt Lake is approximately 2,250 square miles in area. Excepting the Dead Sea, it is believed to be the densest body of water in the world. Its water is five or six times as salty as sea water. This salt is obtained by solar evaporation. Until recently rather primitive methods were used, but considerable improvement is now being made. Two active seasons are required for Utah salt production. The pumping season begins in May when the water from the lake is pumped into great wooden flumes which carry it to the ponds a mile or more away. About 7,000 or 8,000 gallons a minute are pumped during a ten-hour day. There are three sets of ponds. The settling pond is the first into which the water is run, and it remains here about ten days. All cinders and foreign substances are removed and its salty strength highly increased. It is transferred then to the stock pond where it remains about ten days more. Here its salinity has increased to about 26 per cent, after which it is drawn off into the harvest pond.

Southern Christian Citizenship Conference

The greatest marvel of the last century is the unprecedented development of the material side of civilization. There has been no corresponding moral and intellectual growth. Dr. Alfred Russel Wallace, in a recent book on "Social Environment and Moral Progress," says: "Our whole system of society is rotten from top to bottom, and the social environment is the worst the world has ever seen." Among the subjects that he mentions are adulteration, bribery, insanitary dwellings, gambling, prostitution, alcoholism, suicide, etc.

"The multiplied and closer relations into which we have been thrust have created new problems which the popular intelligence does not understand, and new obligations which the popular conscience does not accept." The greatest need of the times—a generic need which includes every desirable reform, moral, social, political and industrial, is the promotion of good citizenship and the education of public opinion and of the popular conscience.

We have missed great opportunities in not utilizing the public school system of the country to build character, and to aid in making good and honorable men and women. A recent writer predicts that some day it will be recognized that the state must in self-protection undertake the moral training of its children or its citizenship will deteriorate below the line of safety. It is more important, he says, to make citizens than scholars and artisans.

The Civic League of America stands for good citizenship, the cultivation and expression of healthy public sentiment, diffusion of knowledge and promulgation of truth for righteous civil government, promotion of universal prosperity, social service, sound morality and the common good.

The situation demands strenuous and well directed action; and with the objects of the league properly carried out reform along these lines can be speedily implanted on the thought of the nation as the most important issue before the American people today.

Much work has already been done, and it is desired to continue operations through public lectures, conferences and conventions; through field secretaries, and the distinguished body of men upon whom the league will be able to draw for discussion of subjects pertinent to this movement; through press bulletins, leaflets and pamphlets, and through civic league members, and the co-operation of public-spirited citizens in every community.

For some time past arrangements have been going forward for the Southern Christian Citizenship conference to be held under the auspices of the Civic League of America, at the Atlanta auditorium, September 18, 20 and 21. The program of proceedings, general discussion and addresses from speakers of national reputation will be announced in due time, and a large attendance is anticipated.

The Kind of a Woman a Man Likes; Robert Hitchens Gives His Opinion

Men like all kinds of women, says Robert Hichens in the July Strand Magazine. There are ugly men who adore beautiful women, but there are also handsome men who worship at the shrines of women who are quite unlike Helen of Troy. Many good men have loved, and will love, bad women. Who has not seen bad men devoted to saintly women? On the other hand, the dwarf is often captivated by the large-framed woman whose head approaches the ceiling? I have known deaf women beloved by talkative men; lame women cherished by men who were agile; stupid women thought sensible, or even clever, by men who were brilliant; affected women solemnly admired by the most natural of men; girls who turned the heads of grandfathers, and old women who lured mere boys to their feet.

Effeminate men often seek "mannY" women, while the delicate woman who never leaves the sofa attracts the Nimrod and the hunter of big game. The man who does not know "God Save the King" when he hears it as often as not marries the woman who is "mad about Wagner," and the man who never goes to churches chooses as his helpmate the devout woman who visits a "district" and teaches in Sunday school. All kinds of women are liked—and all are loved by men. Why not? For where is the man who cannot find one woman—if not two—to think him what he probably thinks himself, the most perfect man in the world—until the honeymoon is waning?

Measuring a Plant's Drink

When we cut flowers we put them in water to keep them fresh. Like human beings, they can exist for long periods on water alone, as the liquid forms a considerable portion of their bulk. The drinking *capabilities of plants vary a great deal, and at a re*cent scientific exhibition held at Surbiton, England, some ingenious devices were shown to register the different actions of plant life. The apparatus consists of a twin glass tube with a coiled formation at the base. The flower is placed through a cork into the water in the upper end of the branch tube, and the lower end, which is inserted in a vessel filled with water, is lifted out and replaced, thus allowing an air bubble to enter the tube. As the plant drinks the water the bubble is forced along the coiled glass tube at fresh water enters behind it, and the amount taken by the flower is, of course, the quantity behind the air lobe.—From the July Strand.

A Batch of Smiles

"Now, Thomas," said the foreman of the construction gang to a green hand who had just been put on the job, "keep your eyes open. When you see a train coming throw down your tools and jump off the track. Run like blazes."

"Sure!" said Thomas, and began to swing his pick. In a few minutes the Empire State Express came whirling along. Thomas threw down his pick and started up the track ahead of the train as fast as he could run. The train overtook him and tossed him into the ditch. Badly shaken up he was taken to the hospital, where the foreman visited him.

"You blithering idiot," said the foreman. "Didn't I tell you to take care and get out of the way? Why didn't you run up the side of the hill?"

"Up the side of the hill is it, sor?" said Thomas through the bandages on his face. "Up the side of the hill? Be the powers, I couldn't bate it on the level, let alone runnin' uphill!"—Everybody's.

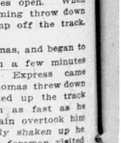
There was no doubt about the fact that Jack MacFaddy was a Scotsman. Last year, when journeying to the country on an important errand, he left his purse, containing nearly $500 in gold and silver, at the railway station from which he started.



He telegraphed the fact on his arrival and the purse was kept till his return a month later.

It was a young clerk who handed Jackie Mac F. his wee purse with the "spondies" as he set foot out of the train, and certain wild hopes were making that young man's heart beat a trifle unevenly.

But our canny Scot counted his money unheeding, and when he'd finished he looked up long and suspiciously at the young man.

"I-sn't it right, sir?" stammered the latter, in bewilderment.

"Richt—richt! It's richt enough, but where's the interest, mon?" was MacFaddy's stern retort.

MAY TAKE LIQUOR BILL FROM THE COMMITTEE

H. M. DuBose Says Action in Deferring It Violated Legislative Pledge

Editor The Journal: It was both a natural and a logical desire of the people of Georgia to have a statute enacted by the present general assembly making available to the officers of the state the full provisions of the Webb-Kenyon bill recently passed by congress. This plan, well matured, and indorsed by those charged to speak for the organized moral sentiment of the people, was presented to both houses of the general assembly, assurances having been given that it should have a full and untrammeled hearing before both the senate and the house.

In the senate a bill embodying this plan in the main, and fairly satisfactory to the representatives of the prohibition forces, was introduced and carried with only three dissident votes. This will was framed entirely with a view to securing to the state the benefits of the measure passed by congress for the relief of the laws of interstate commerce rules. It was what the people had a right to expect of the legislature, and what an overwhelming majority of the members of the legislature have declared in private conversation, and otherwise, to be proper, just and demanded by the situation.

This was evidenced by the action of the state senate and its almost unanimous indorsement of the measure. The sentiment in the lower house was known to be nearly, if not quite, as one-sided. It is also known that a majority of Georgia congressmen, and the two United States senators expected this action, and some congressmen are reported to have advised it. But in the face of this pronounced attitude of the people and the majority of their representatives, this needed and hope-inspiring legislation has been blocked in the lower house o fthe assembly.

The senate bill was referred, in due time, and through a proper process, to the house, but instead of being placed before the house for a vote of its members, the thing the people had every reason to expect would be done, it has been bottled up in the committee, and that in a way that has been declared to be irregular, if not unlawful. This extraordinary procedure consisted of having the senate bill referred to a subcommittee of three members who were to report the bill to the next session of the legislature.

This committee thus set up an astounding precedent by summarily recommending that the measure be deferred for one year, and refusing it a hearing on its merits.

Not only the majority of the lower house, as we believe, but the representatives and the friends in general of the temperance cause in the state feel outraged at this action, which they regard as a betrayal of the trust of the people, a clear disregard of pledges made and an effort to perpetuate the outrages being committed against the people of Georgia by the lawless whisky combine in other states. An effort will be made to prize the bill out of the hands of this unfriendly committee and get it squarely before the house. The technicalities in the way of such action are many, and the hope that it can be done is not strong.

But whatever the final result, the people will know how this has happened, and with whatl indifference they must watch the cause of righteousness and the interests of their homes, as also their liberties and their right to be represented by their servants.

It is important for the people to know, and it is justice t ouall concerned that they should know that six members of the committee voted to report the bill to the house and stood stoutly for such action.

COUNCILMAN HUMPHREY PREDICTS PROSPERITY

Back From West, He Says the Prospects Are Better Than Ever

According to W. G. Humphrey, chairman of the finance committee of council, who has just returned from a trip through the middle west, the financial prospects of the country are bright, "better than ever before," and the eyes of the nation are turned toward the south.

"It is the coming section," declared Chairman Humphrey, "and the men of the middle west have quit speculating about its future prosperity."

There is plenty of money in the north and east also, said he, and it is ready to move, which means good times ahead for the farmers, merchants and bankers of the country.

METAL WORKERS' ROW TO PROLONG CONVENTION

Referendum and Recall By-Law Causes Faction Fight. To Remain Next Week

The general convention of the Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance met on the third day of its session Wednesday morning at 9:30 and immediately resumed the discussion over the report of the credentials committee in regard to contested delegations.

This fight over the seating of delegates will probably cause the convention to run into next week, as officials of the organization say there is five days' work on the calendar after the convention enters into its regular executive session.

The cause of the dispute over delegates is said to result from the proposed introduction of a bylaw in favor of the referendum and recall of officers, and to be between the factions divided over the proposed new by-law. The remainder of the convention's time will be devoted to the business of the organiaztion in a closed executive session.

On Tuesday evening the visiting delegates were entertained with a barbecue at White City by the Atlanta local.

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS IN PUBLISHING BUSINESS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

FORT VALLEY, Ga., Aug. 6.—The report of the publishing work of the denomination was the feature of this morning's business session of the Georgia Conference of Seventh Day Adventists.

This report showed that the publishing work of the denomination has grown from one small printing house worth $652, printing two periodicals in one langhage in 1852, to thirty-nine publishing houses, worth $1,175,090, printing 126 periodicals in seventy-one languages in 1912.

The sales for the past eight years amounted to $10,437,000. The sales for 1912 alone amounted to $1,836,527.

GEORGIA AND HER POLITICS

House Members Grow Uneasy When Filibuster Gains Impetus.

The filibuster precipitated in the house Tuesday morning by the resolution of Representative Kidd, of Baker, in which he charged the temperance committee with usurpation of power, while taken as more or less of a joke during the morning, assumed alarming proportions during the afternoon when Representatives Shelby Myrick and Herman C. Shuptrine, of Chatham, joined with the leader, Representative Eli Wohlwender of Muscogee, and succeeded in holding the floor until 5 o'clock, the set hour of adjournment.

When the house reconvened at 3 o'clock and the two members of the Chatham delegation joined with Mr. Wohlwender, thus giving the attack impetus, the majority of the members became uneasy in the fear that important matters already set as special orders might be knocked into a cocked hat.

Representatives J. E. Sheppard, of Sumter, and Harry Wright, of Floyd, made an effort to take the floor from the speaker who had held it for three hours, but failed. And so the day was effectually killed without the ghost of a chance being given to matters of vital interest to the state.

Representative Burney, of Morgan, when the house was in a state of general disorder, said ,"Mr. Speaker, I would like to know where we are?"

"I would advise the gentleman from Morgan that we are in the midst of debate," answered Speaker Burwell.

Attack on Dr. Soule Both Unfortunate And Without Foundation—Exchange.

Among the many commentaries in Georgia newspapers relative to the recent attack on Dr. A. M. Soule, president of the State Agricultural college, is the following from the Quitman Free Press, which is in thorough accord with the general sentiment throughout the state:

"The attack on Dr. Soule, dean of the agricultural college, was extremely unfortunate, and as was shown afterward, entirely without foundation. It seems that he was made the subject of this attack by one political faction because of his leanings to another faction.

"At this time agricultural development is extremely important to this state. Dr. Soule is recognized among those who really know as being one of the leading men in the country in his line of work. When he came to the state university to take charge of the agricultural college several years ago the student body numbered less than seventy-five. It has now become one of the most important parts of the college and the extension work among the farmers has become a vital influence in practical farming. If anybody has to give way in this controversy between Dr. Soule and the politicians, let it be the politicians. We need Dr. Soule."

Jesup Sentinel Pays Tribute to Fish and Game Commissioner Mercer.

In its last issue the Jesup Sentinel pays the following tribute to Jesse E. Mercer, state game and fish commissioner:

"Hon. J. E. Mercer, state fish and game warden, has certainly made good in this position. He has been fearless in dealing with offenders and thorough in the handling of the affairs of this office.

"It was a new position and one requiring a lot of diligence and insight to handle. Since under its supervision is the protection of all game and fish from the oyster beds of Glynn to the birds of Georgia's mountain counties in Towns county. Mr. Mercer has just been in this place long enough to know his work and we think it would be decidedly unwise to appoint a new warden now."

It's Better Than Pounding On the Desk, at Any Rate.

Senator Fred Kea, of the Sixteenth, has a trick of gesture that is beginning to acquire fame in the legislature. Senator Kea is seldom on his feet, and generally his voice is heard in a motion for the "ayes and nays," or for adjournment.

But no matter what he says he prefaces his remarks to the chair with his right hand outstretched and his body strained forward.

"The Senator of the Outstretched Hand," is what one fellow-member called him the other day, and it looks like the nickname is going to stick.

Senator Sweet Would Change System of Registering Titles.

Senator J. L. Sweat, of the Fifth, has introduced a bill in the senate known as the "Torrens land title system" bill, indorsed last year by a commission appointed to look into the matter of Georgia land titles by the legislature of 1904.

The bill, if passed, will not go into effect in any county of the state until first adopted by the people. Even then it is not compulsory. According to the bill, a system or registering titles is substituted for our present system of registering deeds. The true title is ascertained and registered. Lands bought under the measure become a quick asset to be sold, or pledged for a loan.

Under the present system any number of different titles to the same land, including forged and fraudulent deeds, may be recorded, says Senator Sweat, and from an examination of the records it is impossible to tell who is the real owner. The Torrens system will create one source of title and one only, and that a responsible source, he declares.

You Couldn't Get a Nickel Extra Past That Senate.

The only amendment Senator John T. Allen offered to the appropriations bill when it came to the senate was for $2,-100, yet it was voted down. The amendment, as proposed by him, was to raise the amount appropriated for printing the records of the superior court.

"In the past," said Senator Allen, "the amount for this purpose has always been $10,000 or so much thereof as may be necessary. In the present bill it is but $7,500, which, I think, must be an inadvertent mistake."

Senator McNeil told the senate that it seemed only consistent to vote down Senator Allen's amendment in accordance with the others. When the roll was called Senator Allen's voice was the only one heard in support of the amendment.

"I have to reconsider," he shouted, laughing, and the other senators joined in the merriment, but not in the vote.

offered his aid in preparing the way for the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which meets here from December 29, 1913, to January 3, 1914.

Mr. McCallie has received a letter in answer to one he wrote to Dr. Robert L. Ogden, of the University of Tennessee, who has been appointed temporary secretary of the association, to promote the coming convention. Dr. Ogden wrote to thank Mr. McCallie for his proffered help.

The scientific body which has chosen Atlanta for its next meeting is the largest of its kind in the country. This is the second time in its history that it has met in the south, a convention taking place in New Orleans several years ago.

It is composed of a great many affiliate societies, and will bring to Atlanta the greatest men of science in the United States today.

Perhaps the Senators Had Eaten Too Many P'aches.

It is not always the merits of a bill which decide its fate in the legislature, but very often its fate hangs on the rather uncertain humor of the assembly. At least this is true of the senate. If the senate is in a jolly mood all is well for the bill; but if the senate has a grouch, look out, Mr. Measure.

The senate was in a bad humor Thursday. One of the members thought so anyway. It was just after the senate had voted down his pet bill with savage joy. The senator looked sulky and growled:

"This senate would hang a man in two seconds today, I believe," he muttered to himself.

$30 000 Appropriated for Home for Girls.

The appropriations committee of the house, Tuesday afternoon, accepted the recommendation of its subcommittee and accordingly appropriated $30,000 for the establishment and maintenance of a home for wayward girls under sixteen years of age.

Marion Jackson and other leaders of the Men and Religoin Forward Movement, interested in prison reform were present at the hearing which was called for the purpose of considering the bill of Representative Jones, of Coweta.

During the meting Chairman Crawford Wheatley, of Sumter, arose to a point of personal privilege in reply to recent "bulletins" of the Forward Movement leaders.

"I came here," said Mr. Wheatley, "with my mind made up to champion the cause for this home. My purpose in tabling the bill was to save it from being killed outright and not to defeat the proposition. But I have this to say of the authors of the Men and Religion Forward bulletins, that they have done more to defeat their bill than every one else put together. I can only say that the words of Christ. 'Father forgive them, for they know not what they do,' is applicable to the authors of the bulletins."

Mr. Methvin, vice chairman, of the committee, also paid his compliments to the authors of the bulletin. "I favor this bill," he said, "in spite of the tactics used by some of its advocates rather than because of them. I deny the right of any society or individual to question the motives of this committee. The question before us has not been whether or not we would like to support the measure, but one where the money for the purpose was coming from."

TAX ON AUTOMOBILES IS FAVORED BY HOUSE

Bill Providing for Yearly Special Tax Is Passed When Filibuster Ends

The automobile tax bill of the ways and means committee, introduced by Chairman L. R. Akin, of Glynn, passed the house Wednesday morning by the vote of 107 to 64.

The bill, which was on the calendar for Tuesday was forced to wait for a da yowingt o the long filibuster against on rec ecemf wy cmfwy cmfwyy oo o the l b resolution which came to an end on reconvenement Wednesday when ruled out of order by the chair.

The bill increases the tax on automobiles from $2 for the life the car to $5 per year. Before put on its passage a number of amendments to the bill wer eintroduced ,all being lost save that of Speaker Pro Tem McMichael, providing that the reenue from the additional tax be used for the upkeep of the country roads.

It is estimated that th ereturns from this tax, should the senate pass the bill, would be over $100,000 annually.

After the filibuster was ended most of the morning session of the house was taken up in debate on the bill introduced by Speaker Burwell, of Hancock, to apply half of the ad valorem tax to the school fund.

The ad valorem tax is five mills and the two and one-half mills that Speaker Burwell would give to the school fund would be no more than that fund is now getting but it would be much more sure.

Speaker Burwell introduced the bill at the insistence of Governor Slaton and it will have to be as an amendment to the state constitution.

Besides Speaker Burwell, Representative Fullbright, of Burke, and Representative Stovall, of Elbert, spoke in favor of the bill. Representative Wright, of Floyd, spoke in opposition to its passing.

The vote on this bill which is known as the administration measure will in all probability be taken at Wednesday afternoon's session. One hundred and twenty-three votes are necessary for the bill to pass the house.

When the feet perspire abnormally, poisonous exudations clog the pores and retard circulation, and thea the fiendish nerves begin to torture you, Jacobs' Foot Relief gives instant relief because it draws out the poisonous matter. It soothes and rests the feet, stops the scalding, aching and burning sensations and prevents unhealthy sweating. Just a little tablet to be dissolved in the foot bath, but it drives away all foot misery. A Foot Relief Bath at night means comfortable walking next day. Large box 18c, by mail 20c.

Jacobs' Foot Comfort in powder form to be sprinkled into shoes and stockings, to prevent excessive perspiration, keeps the feet comfortable. 15c, by mail 17c.—(Advt.)

Mrs. Atkinson's Guests

A lovely event of Thursday afternoon will be the bridge tea at which Mrs. Spencer Atkinson will entertain in honor of her young guest, Miss Virginia Harrison, of Brunswick.

Invited to meet Miss Harrison are Misses Penelope and Frances Clarke, Miss Katherine Richardson, Miss Edith Dunson, Miss Adrienne Battey, Miss Ruth Northen, Misses Edith and Antoinette Kirkpatrick, Miss Emma Kate Camorous, Miss Annie Lee McKenzie, Miss Margaret Hawkins, Miss Ruth Stallings, Miss Mary Murray, of Alabama; Miss Mary Hines, Miss Virginia Lipscomb, Miss Sarah Rawson, Miss Cobbie Vaughan, Miss Nancy Prince, Miss Mary Helen Moody and Miss Ruth Aiken and Miss Winnie McKinnon, of Brunswick.

To Visitors

Miss Lalah Tipton entertained at a matinee party this afternoon at the Forsyth in honor of Miss Eva Marie Beattie, of New York, who is visiting Miss Marie Norris, and for Miss Minnie Fambrough, of Boston, the guest of Mrs. William Fambrough.

Friday two young women will be entertained at an evening party at which Miss Alline Perryman will be hostess.

To House Party

A number of visitors who are being delightfully entertained are Miss Gladys Tappan, of White Plains; Miss Mattie Cheaves, of Montezuma; Miss Zaretta Estes, Miss Merle Hayes, of Decatur, and Miss Mary Wolcott, of Boston, Ga., who are the guests of Mrs. Robert Hayes, at her home on Cleburne avenue.

Forty guests were invited by their hostess to an al fresco party last evening. Friday evening they will share honors with Miss Norris' guest, Miss Beattie, and Miss Fambrough, who is visiting Mrs. Fambrough.

Thursday evening Miss Willie Bell Mauck will entertain for Mrs. Hayes' guests.

Morning Bridge

Mrs. Bert A. Loveman will entertain at bridge Thursday morning in honor of a number of visitors, the affair to include twelve guests.

Nix-Glenn

A morning wedding was that of Miss Ava Lee Nix and Mr. W. H. Glenn, which took place Wednesday at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother in West End, the couple leaving at once for St. Simons for a stay of ten days.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Glenn will be at home at 739 West Peachtree street.

To Meet Miss Hazen

Miss Helen Jones was hostess this afternoon at a delightful little tea at the Piedmont club, Miss Mildred Hazen, of New Jersey, the guest of Miss Mignon McCarty, being the honor guest.

Tea was served from a flower bright table on the terrace, the guests including a number of young women who have met Miss Hazen on her previous visits in Atlanta.

Lawn Party to Visitors

A trio of attractive visitors were the honor guests at the lawn party given Tuesday evening by Miss Ann Patterson at her home on West Peachtree street.

The honor guests were Miss Anna Lowry Eason, of Tennessee, who is with Miss Emma Lowry Freeman; Miss Blanche Devine, of Carters, who is the guest of Miss Carrie Blount, and Miss Dorothy Brown, of New York, who is visiting Miss Dorothy Dillon.

Japanese lanterns formed the lovely decoration of the trees shaded lawn, punch being served under a great Japanese parasol by Miss Archie Newman, of Selma, and Miss Isabelle Wright.

Invited to meet the young visitors were a number of the college set.

To Miss Klump

Miss Eddie Lee and Louise Terrell entertained Tuesday morning at heartdice in honor of their visitor, Miss Alma Klump, of Columbus. The house was decorated with plants.

The prize, silver slipper buckles, was won by Miss Clara Sullivan, and the consolation, a set of blue bird pins, was cut by Miss Eva Owens. The guest of honor was presented a silver hat pin.

Miss Lucy Terrell and Miss Dorothy Henson served punch.

Among those present were Miss Alma Klump, Miss Pauline Hill, Miss Miriam Orr, Miss Eva Owen, Miss Georgia Bede, Miss Mable Rock, Miss Dona Jene Benson, Miss Faye Slaughter, Miss Clara Sullivan and Miss Virginia Rodgers.

Mr. R. A. Garner entertained at a dinner party Monday in honor of Miss Klump, other guests including Miss Sullivan, Miss Terrell, Mr. Archie Mitchell and Mr. Lane Mitchell.

This evening they will be given a motor party and a fish fry at the river, Miss Lewis Carrol will give a matinee party at the Forsyth Friday and Mrs. O. L. Jernigan will give a swimming party at East Lake, and Miss Rubie McGaugh will also be among those entertaining for them next week.

To Miss McJunkin

An enjoyable occasion was the theater party Monday evening at the Forsyth in honor of Miss Rebekah McJunkin, of Dallas, Tex., the guest of Misses Helen and Annie Spencer.

The party incluedd Miss McJunkin, Misses Spencer, Mr. Harold N. Cooledge, Mr. H. G. aWlker and Mr. W. Vaughn Crowley.

To Perry Adair

Perry Adair was given a pleasant surprise party Tuesday evening at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Adair, the occasion being his fifteenth birthday.

About forty young people were invited and dancing was enjoyed.

A buffet supper was served during the evening.

Debnam-Estes

Miss Lucile Estes and Mr. Walter Macon Debnam were married Tuesday afternoon at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. E. E. Griggs on Euclid avenue, Dr. J. B. Robins officiating.

Mrs. Edna Johnson was maid of honor and Mr. J. L. Karner was best man.

The house presented a most attractive appearance with graceful decorations of palms, ferns and flowers, and the ceremony was one of lovely simplicity.

The bride wore a traveling costume of brown charmeuse with hat, gloves and shoes to match and her flowers were bride roses.

An informal reception followed the ceremony. Mrs. B. M. Estes, Mrs. J. B. Moncrief, Mrs. Thomas J. Smith, Mrs. Jerome Jones, Mrs. N. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Pearl Terry and Miss Bonnie Smith assisted Mrs. Griggs in receiving and entertaining.

Mr. and Mrs. Debnam left during the evening for Raleigh, N. C., and later will go to Wrightsville Beach.

Miss Bennett's Luncheon

Miss Irene Bennett entertained at luncheon today in compliment to Miss Eva Beattie, of New York, the guest of Miss Marie Norris.

Summer flowers formed the decorations for the pretty table.

The party included Miss Beattie, Miss Norris, Miss Pauline Randall, Miss Mary Andrews, Miss Aline Perryman, Miss Annie Griffin, Miss Annie Saunders and Miss Janie Zachry.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

THORNTON W. BURGESS.

(Copyright, 1913, by J. J. Lloyd.)

Danny Meadow Mouse waited until all the rest of Peter Rabbit's friends had left the old briar patch after paying their respects to Peter and Mrs. Peter. He waited for two reasons, did Danny Meadow Mouse. In the first place he had seen old Granny Fox and Reddy Fox hanging about a little way off, and though they had disappeared after a while Danny had an idea that they were not far away, but were hiding so that they might catch him on his way home. Of course, he hadn't the slightest intention of giving them the chance. He had made up his mind to ask Peter if he might spend the night in a corner of the old briar patch, and he was very sure that Peter would say he might, for he and Peter are very good friends, very good friends indeed.

The second reason Danny had for waiting was this very friendship. You see, Peter had been away from the Green Meadows so long that Danny felt sure he couldn't know all about how things were there now, and so he wanted to warn Peter that the Green Meadows were not nearly as safe as before Old Man Coyote had come there to live. So Danny waited, and when all the rest of the callers had left he called Peter to one side where little Mrs. Peter couldn't hear. Danny stood up on his hind legs so as to whisper in one of Peter's ears.

"Do you know that Old Man Coyote is the most dangerous enemy we have, Peter Rabbit? Do yuo know that?"

Peter Rabbit shook his head. "I don't believe that, Danny," said he. "His terrible voice has frightened you so that you just think him as bad as he sounds. "Why, Old Man Coyote is a friend of Mine!" Then he told Danny how Old Man Coyote had done him a good turn in the Old Pasture in return for a good turn Peter had once done him, and how he said that he always paid his debts.

Danny Meadow Mouse looked doubtful. "What else did he say?" he demanded.

"Nothin, excepting that we were even now," replied Peter.

"Ha!" said Danny Meadow Mouse. The way he said it made Peter turn to look at him sharply. "Ha!" said Danny again. "If you are even why you don't him anything, and he doesn't owe you anything. Watch out, Peter Rabbit! Watch out! I would stick pretty close to the old briar patch with Mrs. Peter if I were you. I would indeed. You used to think old Granny Fox pretty smart, but Old Man Coyote is smarter. Yes, sir, he is smarter! And every one of the rest of us has got to be smarter than ever before to keep out of his clutches. Watch out, Peter Rabbit, if you and Old Man Coyote are even! Now, if you don't mind, I'll curl up in my old hiding place for the night. I really don't dare go back home tonight."

Of course Peter told Danny Meadow Mouse that he was welcome to spend the night in the old briar patch, and thanked Danny for his warning as he bade him good night. But Peter never carries his trouble with him for long, and by the time he had rejoined little Mrs. Peter he was very much inclined to laugh at Danny's fear.

"What did that funny little Meadow Mouse have to say?" asked Mrs. Peter.

Peter told her and then added: "But I don't believe we have anything to fear from Old Man Coyote. You know he is my friend."

"But I don't know that he is mine!" replied little Mrs. Peter, and the way she said it made Peter look at her anxiously. "I believe Danny Meadow Mouse is right," she continued. "Oh, Peter, you will yatch out, won't you?"

And Peter promised her that he would.

Fairy Scene at the Battlement of Cox College

An al fresco party at the historic battlement of Cox College, whose stern and warlike features the Virginia creeper, Boston ivy and the beautiful begonia vine have transformed into a veritable bower of beauty and recreation.

The campus of Cox College is well known for its interesting historical features, and the groups of happy girls at their play offer a striking contrast to the stern realities of the war of '65 when signals were flashed from the same tall oaks on the campus where now the girlish games and laughter reign supreme.

Rev. C. W. Bryan, D. D., of China, who lectured to the students last fall, said: "Of the 17 colleges I have visited, I consider Cox College with its ideal location, beautiful campus, splendid buildings and equipment, to be the best."

Cox College maintains a thorough course in the Academy as well as the College. Fifteen units are required for college entrance.

The book of views from which the above scene was taken, and the annual catalogue are now ready for distribution and will be furnished to those interested in the higher education of woman on application to Cox College and Conservatory, College Park, Ga.

To Miss Haddon

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

There is no falling off in the fashion for paste jewelry. This does not preclude the wearing of wonderful real gems at the same time.

You will see well dressed women out in the evening with low gowns of tulle or lace, strung with necklaces of German rhinestones and Brunhilde belts of rhinestones, cut steel, and translucent beads.

To all this array of imitation jewelry will be added a rope of pearls, a string of diamonds, a corsage piece of finer gems, and maybe diamonds in the hair. No wonder a woman glitters. Some of them this season look like the fairy queens in pantomime. One expects a gauze curtain to fall in front while they disappear.

It is the fashion to shine by any borrowed light and if you haven't got enough jewelry to do it, then buy strings of them by the yard and sew them to the gown. The effect is not as stride as the description.

One reason for the good result is the excellence of so called French jewelry. It is by no means inexpensive. The cheapest kind of paste jewelry is tawdry and should never be worn, but the high class of work which is made of a composition metal skilfully designed, and semi-precious stones and beads that do not pretend to be more than they are, is acceptable.

STRINGS OF BRILLIANTS.

Worth of Paris has always used rhinestones and cared a lot for them. Many of his gowns owed their magnificent appearance to his skilful use of brilliants. He never used any but the best kind and had many of them set especially for the house of Worth, and his leadership kept the fashion alive.

Today it is in full swing. Everyone cannot afford such luxury. The shops, however, sell very many varieties of brilliants and a woman can get them for any price she chooses to pay. She should be warned against the tawdry kind which are badly set and are cloudy in appearance. They do not add to any gown's appearance.

Strings of them are used on tulle and lace bodices, not for the afternoon, but for the evening. They are attached by an invisible thread to all the edges by you can see how especially effective they would be against the neck, giving a long line from shoulder to waist, back and front.

They also serve a useful purpose in catching the sleeve drapery to the arm. In the case of a long wing sleeve made of lace or tulle, for instance, there may be a bracelet of these rhinestones set on black velvet and in this fashion the drapery is made more graceful because it is a better setting for the bare arms.

When a woman is making over an evening gown for mid-season use she will find these strings of brilliants very helpful in finishing the edges of short sleeves, or of raw tulle which she cannot hem.

Belts of Jewelry.

The shops are offering artistic pieces of brilliant head work, usually cut steel or jet, which may be used for wide girdles, and if a woman can afford less than a yard of this she can convert an old gown into an exceedingly good looking new one.

The trimming is placed high on the figure and it is often placed upward in points so the effect may not be too thick or solid. There are also beaded trimmings with one edge on the selvedge and the other arranged in battlements. The latter run well up toward the bust and hold their shape the folds of tulle which now go around, and up and down, the figure.

This crosswise method of managing thin drapery is fashionable and effective for it holds the figure securely in place as a brassiere does.

The one thing that every woman should learn in the use of jewels, real or false, is their color relation to a gown. One should be as careful about this as about harmonizing hats to frocks, and yet the majority of women wear any jewelry they happen to possess at all times and with all costumes.

Temptation of Abihu

Copyright, 1913, by W. Wenger.

"Pete Gram's done gone and left Cesty wid dem eight moufs, includin' de newbawn un, a gapin' around huh bed like young crows fuh feeds, and luck off wid ole Dasdemony Brakebone! What you t'ink o' dat, Bi?"

Aunt Aurora Wonder's family had all left her early by the marriage route, except her son, Abihu, who up to his thirty-fifth year had remained that anomaly among negroes, a bachelor. Bi was a black, thick-set negro, who in his youth was accounted a dullard, but the glazed eye and the slow manner concealed a remarkable business sagacity.

When he was fifteen and a white liveryman of the town presented him with a skin-and-bone equine, with a diseased hoof, gibes fell upon Abihu. But in two months he had cured the horse's foot, got a winter's supply of hay and grain from various farmers by obtaining permission to harvest the oats, the barley and the grass left in fence corners by the binder and the mower. He hauled, he peddled, he watched for opportunities, and he worked incessantly. At thirty-nine he owned several houses and lots besides the ultramarine blue five-room cottage in which he and his mother lived on the outskirts of Varneyville. In addition, he had money in the bank.

"Whut you a strivin' and a savin' fuh, Bi?" asked Prescott Denny, his friend, married twenty years and blessed with a black quiverful. "No chillun to fill her nothin', and yoah ma a gittin' her $8 a month pension reg'lar as de sun."

And Abihu had answered: "I's savin' gin de time ebbuh comes when I has 'casion and sore need fuh money. When dat time comes I wants to be prepared!"

Abihu generally listened without comment to his mother's gossip, but this March evening the hammer held above the "half-soling" last on which was one of Rory's No. 10s fell to the floor and his cavernous mouth flew open.

"Gone off wid ole Dasdy Brakebone?" he managed to say, when he got his thick lips set together.

"Yes, wid ole Dasdy," gloated Rory. "Wid ole Dasdy, a 'oman ole as I is, nigh on fo'ty!"

"Who seed 'em a gwine and what scuse'd Pete give fuh leavin' Cesty?"

Rory rorted like something bovine. "Scuse! Pooty acuse he had! He tole Bruh Thankful Calico dat de reason he was leavin' Alcestis huh baby was a white chile! Oh, Lawd God, Bi, de young un's hide's blackern de linin' o' Pete's ongodly heart! Bruh Thankful, he wuz cuttin' crost Mistuh Sid Evans' oats stubble field on his way back fom de palsonage fum gwine to see ole Sanphiry Appleby whut's sick on the coolin' board wid de yaller janders, and he met 'em facin'. Dasdy had hold o' one end huh trunk and Pete had hold he yuther end. Dey wuz a totin' hit out to town wha' dey cocht a train!"

Bi had resumed cobbling. "Huccome Pete to git on Dandy's trail?" he asked slowly and with apparent indifference.

"Cesty engaged dat black heifer for hur nuss woman de day foah dat last young sukin' niggah was sont on huh," Rory enlightened him, "and, bless God, foah Cesty could set up Dasdy's cocht Pete, De world's gittin' mont'ous wicked, Bi!"

"Cesty, she nuvvah did wanta marry Pete, nohow," mused Abihu, half to himself. "Unc' Norman and Aunt S'manthy, huh pup and mammy, dey jest de same as made huh marry him."

Rory snorted again. "What's Cesty keerin' er not keerin' fuh Pete got to do wid fillin' dem eight little insides? I bet she's a mournin' dis minnit case he's left huh."

That evening Abihu took the road that led to Black Cloud Hill, where lived the major portion of the blacks of Varneyville. When he came to a small one-roomed cabin, with a loft above, a little remote from the other cabins of the hill, he paused, and, creeping up near the window, peeped cautiously into the room.

Under a ragged quilt in one corner slept six little negroes—Dishy, Lively, and Molly Gram, aged eight, seven and six, and Nimrod, Asher and Jehu, aged four, three and two years. In a broken-armed rocker "Lovey Catherine," aged nine; Cesty's first born, held on her lap "Lasty," a very black infant of two weeks, and made some changes in its attire. On the bed near the hearth lay the battered little negro woman of twenty-six, no older than ten years had been the apple of Abihu's eye and the secret love of his heart. Two of her front teeth were out, her shoulders were stooped and her cheeks hollowed in, but despite these signs of wear Alcestis, mother of the eight and deserted wife of Peter Gram, was pleasing and attractive.

Presently when "Lovey Cathun" went outside to the well the woman raised two thin despairing arms. "I ain't nuvah done nothin' fuh Pete to treat me dat away!" she cried aloud. "Ef I'd married Bi like I wanted to, and not listened to muh and pap, I wouldn't a been lyin' here like dis a mournin'. Bi'd a been heah wid me a waitin' on me tender."

Abihu turned away. "Ef I ever has a chance," he muttered wrathfully, "I'se gwine knock dat Pete Gram into kingdom come! Dat's what I's gwine do!"

When six months had passed Alcestis, in monthly receipt of money "off de county," with her four oldest at service as "waiting maids" for their "vitties and close," and her laundry business flourishing, recovered her spirits and took on a second bloom.

Bi did not seem to expose himself to temptation, but he fell into the habit of stopping mornings to chat a moment with the little grass widow who sang over her tubs and to drop in evenings to Cesty's garden patch or to bring her presents of roasting ears and cymblings from his cornfield.

Then suddenly he realized he wanted to Marry Cesty. "Less us git marrit, Cesty," he said to her one evening. "I been a lovin' you sence poh Pete marrit you."

For an instant Cesty's eyes glowed like living gems, then a cloud went over them. "I—I loves you, too, Bi," she confessed, wistfully, and gin I wuz free I'd marry you, but I—I's a marrit woman, Bi."

Bi smiled reassuringly. "A revorce'd come mighty easy to you, Cesty. I'd be proud to put up de $20 dat'd git you one."

"But I's a follower o' de good book, Bi," Cesty faltered, "and dat say dem dat God hab jined togethuh let no man put asunder, and hit say him dat marries a revorced woman commits a vile sin."

"De white uns des 'nit, and what's right fuh a white pusson hain't wrong fuh a nigsah, I reckon," protested Bi.

But Cesty shook her head and was adamant to persuasion.

A month later Abihu met Cesty, attired in a white dress and amber beads, walking with Curd Riggins, a recent widower of Black Cloud Hill, who owned his home and a flourishing business of raising Duroc hogs.

Jealousy took hold of Bi and shook him. Cesty loved him, and because he could not bear to go near her since she had told him she could not marry him she was making company of other men! With the darkness of Egypt in his soul he went about his labors. Late one evening, coming home from Plummit, a town four miles from Varneyville, he started across the railroad bridge.

Near its middle he stumbled over a human figure. He turned it over and beheld the face of Peter Gram, in stolid, drunken slumber.

In the twinkling of an eye a mighty temptation came to Abihu. If Peter were out of the way Cesty would marry him. Why not let him lie there on the rails and go home? Suppose he "fell off the footbridge? Who would know? And the evening freight train was due at 10!

He took a step backward. Then the warm summer air turned to a freezing wind. The cold sweat broke out on him, and his knees sank out in the cinders.

"Mussiful God, fuhgive dis black hearted niggah dis sin!" He lifted the prostrate ungainly form and carried it to an old shop some distance from the track, where he planned it inside and fastened the door. "He'll be safe dontel mawnin'," he thought, "den he'll weck up sober!"

Very soberly Bi went about his work all week, then the news reached Varneyville that Peter Gram was dead. While drunk he had fallen from the Plummit railroad bridge and been drowned in the deep water below before any one could rescue him, the dove before.

For a month Bi kept out of Cesty's sight, then he could endure it no longer. "Would it be scandalizin' you, ef I wuz to axe you to marry me dis soon after Pete's takin' away?" he asked her, anxiously. "My heart is a bustin', Cesty."

"Da wouldn't be no scandilization in dat question to noboo," Cesty assured him. "Me and you can safe marry now widout sin! Praise God we kin!"

"Praise God we kin!" echoed Bi, remembering.

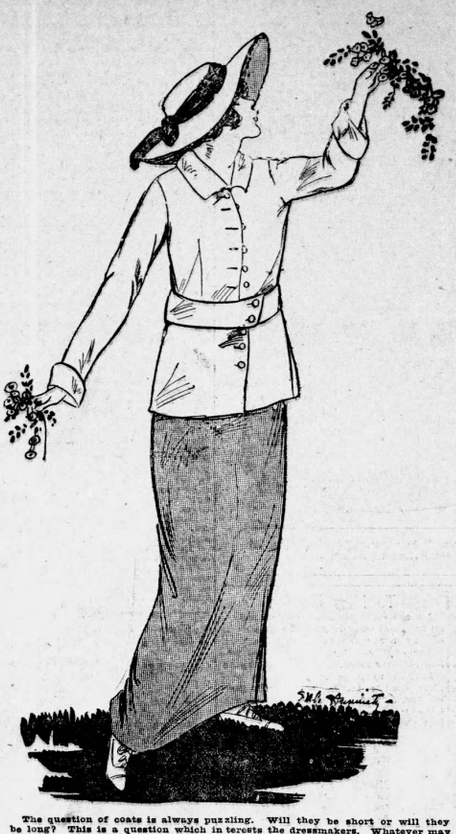
THE QUESTION OF COATS



The question of coats is always puzzling. Will they be short or will they be long? This is a question which interests the dressmakers. Whatever may happen when cold weather comes, short coats are still the fashion. The one illustrated is of white chinchilla with white pearl buttons, wide belt and rolling turnback collar and cuffs.

Are Advertisements Truthful?
They are. First, because ninety per cent of business men are honorable men.
Second:—All advertisers have learned that it does not pay to fool the public.
Third:—Newspapers like The Journal keep a strict censorship of their advertising columns and exclude fraudulent advertisements.
Merchants who advertise are building not for today but for the future. They expect to be in business for the years to come.
They know they can only live by service.
When they advertise a thing they must have the goods, and the goods must be exactly as represented or it would be fatal.
There are no merchants in Atlanta so deserving of your patronage than those who advertise in The Journal.

RENEWED BULL SUPPORT CAUSED RISE IN COTTON

Market in New York Closed 11 to 15 Points Higher than Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Influenced by better cables than expected, and the failure of the weather map to show precipitation in the southwest, the cotton market opened steady at an advance of 3 to 5 points. There was only a light scattering demand, as largely for shorts as for trade account, and prices soon turned under selling induced by favorable cables reported Liverpool steady, with the continent a moderate buyer, but house with foreign connections had cotton for sale here.

The forecast for generally fair weather in the western belt and detailed weather reports showing dry, hot conditions during the past twenty-four hours, gave the market a firmer tone and prices at midday were about 12 to 14 points net higher.

After showing a net advance of 14 to 15 points, the market eased off a few points under realizing during the early afternoon.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 6.—Cotton futures opened steady at an advance of 3 to 5 points on good cables and continued dry weather in the western half of the cotton region. Shorts were inclined to cover their cotton, especially after the forecast of fair weather for the western belt was posted. Only moderate buying for long account made its appearance. Crop accounts from Texas were unfavorable, as they reported damage by drouth and heat. At the end of the first half hour the business prices were $ to 9 points over yesterday's close.

The market had a very steady tone through all the morning session. Buying at times was free with shorts the best bidders. Bulls still held back from pressing sales on the heat and drouth in the western states of the belt gave them. Reports from various sections of Texas and Oklahoma were nothing short of sensational and the less conservative bulls began to claim that it was impossible to possibly see either state to raise a large crop. At noon the trading months were 15 to 16 points over yesterday's final figures.

Saving and Investing

A Bulle and Rakruptcy.

BY JOHN M. OSBISON

Australia has a population of about 4,750,000, and the Government Savings Bank of Australia has more than 1,600,000 depositors—one account for every three persons—men, women and children—in the commonwealth.

On sums from $5 up to $1,500 this government bank pays interest at the rate of 3 per cent a year. The bank is run in connection with the postoffices of Australia, and there are 1,850 branches. Within the last ten years deposits have doubled in amount.

These facts were emphasized recently when a branch of the bank was opened in London, and Sir George Reid, high commissioner for Australia, made a speech explaining why the London branch was needed.

Now it will be possible for the English resident who emigrates to Australia to deposit his surplus savings in the London branch before he sails, get interest on his money from that date until he actually draws it out of an Australian branch, and he will not lose interest during the time of transmission.

With the whole of the resources of the commonwealth behind it, the Australian Government Savings bank is quite safe. There has not appeared any good argument against the payment of 3 per cent on deposits up to $1,500 by the bank, according to Sir George Reid, is not regarded in any sense a competitor of other needed financial institutions.

Over a considerable part of the United States it would be perfectly feasible for the postal banks to increase the rate of interest paid on savings from 2 to 3 per cent. On the other sections, however, suggestion of this kind would meet with strong opposition. And, so far as it can see, there is no present way for the government to adopt such a flexible system of interest payment.

Postal banks ought primarily to act as encouragers of saving, and the rate of return paid ought to be sufficient to serve as a real inducement. Flexibility ought somehow to be provided.

See the Stage or Money Back

(Detroit News-Tribune.)

Paris—According to a recent decision of the Paris courts any person who cannot properly see the stage from a seat which he has paid for can demand the return of his money, and if the management refuses to comply it can be held liable for damages. As about one-half of the seats in the French theaters afford an incomplete view of the stage, this judgment is expected to have far-reaching effects.

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says:

Liverpool's opening after the holidays was significantly low. Bulls had hoped that foreign spinners would show some concern over the buyers' reticence, but no interest developed. Friday last, when the Liverpool market began buoyant and steady, may not be nothing of the kind, on the contrary absence of demand for cotton from those who are the heaviest buyers. Students of the staple say there can be no question as to the existence of a large forward requirement. What, then, is wrong? Spinners now, when, under normal conditions and in order to keep their machinery busy, would be better and spring requirements, exporters busily engage in entering into forward commitments, are not buying. The explanation is not complete. Indications later. Gulf disturbance formation still there; showers and cooler. It may break drouth and give prospects precipitation in south Texas.

The Journal of Commerce says: "Cotton goods remain as optimistic concerning fall trade and many of them are booking orders for the last market. Jobbers are asking for shipment at once of all goods due September 1, with refusal to accept them, and the advantages for better delivery of a volume sufficient to take care of the goods anticipated for immediate shipment.

Forecast—Louisiana and East Texas—Tonight and Thursday generally fair, light variable winds on the coast.

Arkansas, Oklahoma and West Texas—Tonight and Thursday generally fair.

Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida—Showers tonight and Thursday.

Alabama—Fair tonight, showers Thursday.

Kentucky—Showers tonight or Thursday; cooler in west portion.

Tennessee—Unsettled, probably showers in west portion tonight or Thursday, cooler in west portion tonight.

Mississippi—Generally fair, except showers in extreme south portion tonight or Thursday.

11 a. m. bids in New York were as follows: January 10.99; March 11.09; August 11.69; October 11.08; December 11.02.

10 a. m. bids in New Orleans were: January 11.06; March 11.20; August 11.43; October 11.18; December 11.09.

Map complete indicates increasing cloudiness northwestern quarter of the cotton belt; cooler, local showers Oklahoma and northern Texas. Part cloudy in the rest of the belt, except cloudy with probably some showers in the Atlantic district. Gulf disturbance in unchanged position, likely to move inland in the lower Gulf states and give prospects for precipitation in southern Texas.

There were no rains shown in the map, which brought out a fair amount of buying. The selling was largely attributed to covering. Still with cloudy weather. There are some unfavorable private, short being advised, but there is still the absence of rains shown on map, a further rally is looked for.—Anderson.

Austin, Tex., wires: "Farmers in town yesterday complaining plant shedding and recent rains insufficient."

Market advancing on scattering; buying looks like short covering. Very little cotton for sale and feeling seems decidedly bullish. Further advance freely talked of.—Andy.

Liverpool cables: "Market good on reports of drouth damage in Texas and Oklahoma. Manchester reports fair."

New Orleans market steady on buying on bullish advice from Theodore Price faction in New York on high temperatures in Oklahoma. High temperatures there usually the forerunner of rain.—Price.

P. P. Baird company, Little Rock, Ark., wires: "Cotton deteriorating fast; parts of many fields dead with high temperatures."

STOCK GOSSIP

Dow Jones summary: No cash distribution to be made by Union Pacific in connection with offering of three Union Pacific certificates. Union Pacific may declare extra dividend later. The house committee Democrats, by a vote of 11 to 5, indorsed the administrative currency bill, with amendments authorizing national banks to organize state and trust departments without making federal reserve board by-partisan. Treasury officials say last banking statement for deposit in national banks at close of business August 1 will show about $40,000,000 increase. Transit in year ended June 30 earned 9.16 per cent surplus for $40,097,000 stock, against 8.25 per cent the previous year on $37,000,000 stock. Express companies expected to contest rate reductions in courts. American stocks in London advanced ½ to ⅞ of 1 per cent. Twenty active rails advanced 40; twelve industrials advanced .77.

The market exhibited considerable strength yesterday. Public participation is increasing, and stocks have every appearance of selling higher. Bonds are showing considerable strength and firmly believe all securities of merit will advance to high figures before the end of September. Would keep long of the leaders like Union Pacific, Reading, United States Steel and Can Cotton Products.

Market looks very safe on long side. Short trend will continue upward. Would make selections for purchase of stocks which have not yet responded to general advance.—Clark.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Interocean says: Chicago wheat has had a broken, irregular and uninteresting day, and the trade seems more bearish because of the big crop reports. Estimate of good showing by the government report Friday is said to have influenced some demand and the decline in cash premiums. It would not be surprising to see prices drag some lower. What the corn market will do Thursday depends on how much rain is shown on the map. With good soaking rains over the belt, a sharp break is anticipated, but with only light showers and high temperatures, trading may look for prices to hold around present levels, and possibly go a little higher.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. say: Wheat—Weather in northwest clear with seasonable temperatures. Local sentiment is very bearish and the volume of new buying limited. Prices look as though they would drift lower, but look for them to have a sharp break since Monday and we do not care to press short sales on this decline.

Corn—The weather map shows very light scattered showers at a few points in Nebraska and Iowa, and through central Illinois and Ohio. It was a good deal of short corn put out yesterday and locals in anticipation of rains which is likely to be covered today.

Oats—The volume of trade is lighter and there has been good selling on evening up during the few days. Offerings of the crop are moderate, but the demand is rather light. Prices will be influenced by wheat and corn.

Provisions—Packing seems to have been quite thorough again and there was a fair amount of buying on yesterday's early.

Logan & Bryan say: Market bulletins show some rain in Kansas. Maximum temperatures, Kansas, 100 to 108; Missouri, 103 to 108; Nebraska, 100 to 104.

Market bulletins and corn bulletin shows rains: Oakdale, Neb., .34; Broken Bow, .04; St. Joseph, Mo., .02.

From action of both wheat and corn this morning it looks as though liquidation had been pretty thorough yesterday and we believe the market will rule higher.

Chicago Tribune says: Illinois, cloudy, with showers in the north and central portions tonight or Thursday; cooler tonight. Wisconsin, Minnesota, showers tonight or Thursday, cooler tonight in Minnesota. Nebraska, Michigan, generally fair; Iowa, probably light showers tonight or Thursday; Dakotas, cloudy tonight and Thursday, warmer.

Price Current estimates corn crop at 2,652,000,000 bushels and oat crop $78,000,000 bushels.

NEW YORK STOCK LETTER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Looks as if the advance would continue with the usual reactions, but the trend would be higher. Believe that stocks should be bought on fair reactions as the character of the buying this week is exceptionally good, and would indicate that professional interests are friendly to the constructive side of prices.

Investment sentiment is more optimistic, public participation is increasing and general conditions favor higher prices.—Potter.

NEW YORK COTTON LETTER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Liverpool was better than we thought this morning. This in connection with the absence of rains shown on map brought out some good buying, which changed sentiment to some extent, which was extremely bearish yesterday.

Selling was very much scattered and the ring was apparently quite bearish.

There were some telegrams in circulation about the belt stating that there was some deterioration going on in the way of excessive heat and high temperatures. Later when the noon weather report was posted showing extremely high temperatures in the western belt in many places, it started a stampede and caused much uneasiness among the bear forces.

While sentiment is generally bearish there is a feeling that higher prices may be expected just now in the face of these conditions. Whether the advance will be sustained or not depends on weather conditions over the next few days. The bulls contend that another week of hot weather in the west will cause serious damage and a stampede will follow. Some of the leading spot interests have been among buyers today.—Anderson.

DAILY CONVENTION LINE

ISSUED IN THE INTEREST OF THE SOUTHERN MERCHANTS CONVENTION

ROLAND ROWE, Editor — A Department of The Atlanta Journal — J. LOUIS CAMPBELL, Ass't. Editor

ATLANTA, GA., WEDNESDAY EVENING, AUGUST 6, 1913. 15

DELEGATES TO SOUTHERN MERCHANTS' CONVENTION AT OPENING SESSION

The illustration shows portion of the members of the convention photographed at the Auditroium just after adjournment Tuesday.

DELEGATES SPEND WEDNESDAY ENJOYING OPEN WELCOME OF CITY TENDERED THEM TUESDAY

Singly and in Groups They Called at Wholesale Houses and Inspect Atlanta-Made Goods in Process of Making at Manufacturing Plants

Mayor Woodward in his address of welcome to the Southern Merchants' Tuesday morning threw open the doors of the city's welcome and handed the key to the visitors. Today the delegates are using the key.

Convention program and theater party kept them well occupied throughout Tuesday and little time they had for being about the city either to meet their old friends here or to visit the big firms constituting Atlanta's wholesale market or to inspect the manufacturing enterprises that are every year adding to Atlanta's fame.

But Wednesday there was no formal event on schedule, and the visitors proceeded to enjoy the day in their own way as dictated by their pleasure convenience or business.

Throughout the day they were visiting the wholesale houses in groups of three, four or even a dozen, were discussing the crop situation, all agreeing that fall trade outlook is the best, or were examining the big stocks of up-to-the-minute merchandise for which the wholesalers here are famous. Many were giving orders for both their fall stock and for their present needs. All were jolly, optimistic and particularly enthusiastic over the developments of the present convention.

Many, too, were to be found amid the whirr and buzz of Atlanta factories watching in the progress of making the goods which they themselves handle. This is always among the most interesting features of a dealer's visit.

The heads of the manufacturing plants while showing the visitors through their places called attention to the fact that by the time the merchants convene in Atlanta again they will be treated to elegant show rooms of Atlanta-made goods, which will be installed as a permanent exhibit in the new chamber of commerce building.

VISITORS TENDERED BIG THEATER PARTY

Convention Delegates See Vaudeville at Forsyth—Entire Theater Engaged for Them

The members of the Southern Merchants' convention owned the Forsyth theater Tuesday night, just as they have owned the city since their arrival. The entire theater was engaged for them and after the forenoon devoted to hearing the interesting speeches at the auditorium and the afternoon spent in looking about the city, they gathered at the Forsyth prepared to enjoy the vaudeville entertainment.

All those who registered at the auditorium Monday and Tuesday were supplied with tickets, and Secretary H. T. Moore was ready Tuesday night at the theater entrance with tickets for all the late comers.

For some time before the beginning of the first number, the visitors, accompanied by their friends among the jobbers and salesmen, filled the theater lobby and overflowed out beyond the sidewalk. There was much handshaking and much business of getting acquainted. In fact, the lobby was turned into a reception place where the visitors renewed old friendships and made new ones.

The holiday spirit was upon the crowd and it was evident that the 1913 gathering of the merchants was well under way in a manner that assured its complete success.

MANY VISITORS CALL ON RICE & HUTCHINS

Have Had Guests From States of Georgia, Alabama and Florida

Results realized so far have been very pleasing. We have had visitors from Georgia, Alabama and Florida, and have booked some nice orders. There is no particular rush of trade, but a steady stream, which is very satisfactory.

Our end lot department seems to be the Mecca for merchants, who are looking for good things, and as this department contains several hundred thousand dollars' worth of very salable merchandise, it is not surprising that our sample room at times has the appearance of a bargain sale counter.

W. S. Haley, who is here from Lavonia, Ga., is one of the merchants of that town largely responsible for the large trade it is drawing from over the Anderson county, South Carolina. He was responsible for lifting the tolls from the bridge connecting Lavonia with the South Carolina side of the river. And he has the merchandise that draws the trade, too.

CONVENTION MEMBERS WATCH CHECKER MATCH

See Tournament of Southern Checker Association in Progress at Auditorium

Many of the delegates today who enjoy seeing a close match at the good, old game of checkers are spending in large part of their time watching the playing off of the championship match at the auditorium in the Southern Checker tournament.

It is the regular yearly meeting of expert players under the auspices of the Southern Checker association, with sixteen crack players from Georgia, North and South Carolina entered. The playing went on steadily all day yesterday and was resumed this morning at 9 o'clock when the playing of the finals for the championship began.

The finish will come this afternoon and is expected to be close.

F. B. Fishburn, from South Carolina, winner of three of the six annual contests the association has held, will play a special exhibition match tonight against six of the leaders in the tournament, playing blindfolded and making the six games in progress simultaneously. He is the only player who attempts this feat, except Banks, the champion of America.

Players in the tournament are: Class A, for first and second prizes, G. C. Anderson and H. C. McNair from North Carolina; S. S. Hallman and F. B. Fishburn from South Carolina; J. M. Allen, Jr., from Tennessee; W. C. Woodall, J. S. Hall, R. W. Evans, J. L. Bishop, C. M. Farrar, of Georgia.

In Class B, for third and fourth prizes, W. T. Newman, J. A. Carr, T. J. Bennett, F. Mynett, A. C. LaFoy and T. J. Driscoll of Georgia.

Merchants from the territory traveled by J. M. McKibben, of the Dougherty-Little-Redwine Co. sales staff are missing his welcome on their visit to this year's convention. Mr. McKibben is down with typhoid fever at his home on Gordon street.

CATTLE IMPROVEMENT CLUBS, FARMERS' NEED

W. H. White, Jr., Suggests Plan for Improving Southern Hogs and Cattle

The following is the address of W. H. White, Jr., of the White Provision company, delivered before the Southern Merchants' convention Tuesday morning on the subject: "Cattle and Hogs as a By-Product:"

In speaking to the merchants composing this convention, we must realize that we are talking face to face with the farmers' closest advisor—his merchant. So closely are you connected with the farmer that your interest is one and the same. There is not a merchant in the south who is not directly or indirectly dependent upon the farmer for the success of his business. The merchant in a small town even though a retailer in merchandise is a wholesale farmer. Ask a merchant about conditions in his town, and his answer is that crops are either good or bad, at once admitting that his business and the result of his operations are dependent upon the farming conditions of his immediate community.

I presume this subject was assigned to me for the reason that I am a meat packer and the main supply of a meat packer is the farmers' by-product, cattle, hogs and sheep.

FARMERS' SUPPLY PACKERS.

A great many people of the country are under the impression that the large and small packer of the country obtain their stock from large stock farms. This impression is entirely wrong. The large packers of the west, as well as us little fellows, look entirely to the farmers for their supply of live stock. The enormous receipts of live stock daily at Chicago and other live stock and packing centers of the west come from the farmers, and the big receipts reported at the yards each day are only the consolidated receipts from many farmers, and are purely and simply the by-products of the farms. The by-products of the farmer are like that of the manufacturer. The most profitable and therefore the most important part of this business.

The by-products of your farms are in a large measure the foods of the nation, cattle, hogs and sheep, coming under the heading.

To what extent are these by-products developed by the farmers of our southern states?

In the case of live stock in Georgia, I can answer that the development has scarcely started. Cattle and hogs produced in our state today with some few exceptions, are a disgrace to our state, and the kind of live stock raised by the average farmer is a burden and expense rather than a profitable by-product.

Everybody is crazy about cotton, "cusing" it and growing it at the same time, depending on your cotton to pay for your labor, your education, your food and clothing, your mules, stock feed and doctor bills. If the farmer makes a good crop and gets a big price he can possibly pay the bulk of his bills. If the crop is poor or the price low he can't pay, you are stung and can't help it, and the farmer can't help you, for you get all he had except the cotton stalk, and you don't want them. Where are the by-products of that farmer? He had everything in cotton and therefore no by-products.

There is nothing that will bring quicker and more profitable returns than good cattle and good hogs. There is a cash market every day of the year, and it is to your interest to encourage the farmers in the production of high grade beef cattle and good grade hogs as much so as to manifest interest in his method of cultivating his cotton. You should see that your farmers undertake to improve their live stock from year to year, assisting them in securing thoroughbred males to breed to their females, thereby improving their herds. In the case of beef cattle, a good short horn or Hereford or some other thoroughbred beef type male could be obtained for a community of twenty to forty horses, depending on the number of cows in such community to be served. Three to four of these thoroughbred bulls should be placed in each county and changed from one community to another every two years.

CO-OPERATION CLUBS.

Organize your different communities of twenty to forty families into clubs, call it the "Cattle improvement Co-Operation club." I doubt if there will be a dozen farmers in any county in the state who would not join the club, and cheerfully pay their pro-rata part of the cost of the male for their club, and such service fee as may be agreed by the association for its maintenance.

This plan is simple and inexpensive and will bring esults, and I sincerely trust that you will take steps to organize such clubs in your respective counties, with the view of improving the cattle of our state. You understand this does not mean doing away with what we now have, but does mean improving our cattle. This will result in doubling the cattle values of this state in a very short time.

A similar plan might be adopted for improving hogs in sections where pure bred stock is not available for breeding.

Practically every farmer in the state raises some cattle and had just as well have a good 1,000-pound animal in two years as one 600-pound in five to ten years.

LET EVERY TOWN HAVE DEMONSTRATION FARM

Convention Speaker Says Such Farms Would Cause Greater Crop Diversity

The following is the speech of W. A. Brannon, of Moreland, Ga., on crop diversification before Tuesday's session of the Southern Merchants' convention:

For fear of overstepping the time limit I have reduced my remarks to writing while usually I would prefer to talk off-hand. When the all-wise Adjuster of the varying conditions of every clime and country fixed the growing of cotton by climatic conditions in our southland, I believe he gave to us the richest heritage on earth. It is a reflection on our business sagacity as a people that we abuse this great money crop by overplanting and neglecting to raise a sufficiency of staple feed crops, which are equally as well adapted to our climate and soil.

It is admitted by all that profitable farming is the basis of commercial and industrial prosperity in Georgia and her neighboring states. It has also been demonstrated and is now universally acknowledged that diversified farming is by far the most profitable course for our people to pursue. Hence the question under discussion is very pertinent and opportune.

DO SOMETHING.

I believe it is to the best interest of every landlord, merchant and banker to contribute his most earnest effort in this direction. I believe also that it is the patriotic duty of th e business men of the present day, not only to talk diversified farming, but to get busy and do something along this line in every community throughout the cotton growing states. The question then arises. How are we to do it? That is easily answered, and the answer is, let us demonstrate by running small diversified farms in our respective communities. In addition to individual efforts along this line, any town that can maintain a board of trade, can easily organize a small stock company for this purpose, capitalized, I would say, anywhere from $2,500 to $25,000, buy from 50 to 500 acres of land, place a competent man in charge of the enterprise, and by judicious management make it a dividend-paying proposition and at the same time demonstrate to the farmers of the community the correct plan on which our farms should be operated. The diversity of crops—the one thing needed to make every other interest prosper in our God-favored land.

INFLUENCE BY EXAMPLE.

You have heard it said that "talk is easy" and "advice is cheap." The right way to wield influence for good is by example. Demonstration is the correct plan by which to impart and impress a lesson successfully. Understand, I do not mean to run experiment farms but demonstration farms—farms that can be made to pay dividends. Adopt means and methods which have already been tried out and proven successful by experiments of our agricultural stations, by the experts of the department of agriculture of the federal government and others. Have a place near town where you can go and invite your farmer friends to go with you. Gain knowledge of agriculture yourself, for it is a field of unlimited knowledge, and in course of time, I dare say, some of you would become so interested and fascinated that many would no longer be satisfied to remain in the ranks of the consumers only but would gladly enlist in the great army of producers on whose shoulders is resting the burden of feeding and clothing the teeming millions of the world.

In the face of recent progress in agriculture, it is passing strange that every landlord does not make strenuous effort at diversification and rotation of crops. In order that I may not be charged with failure to practice that which I preach, I feel sure that you will pardon a personal reference. While I live in a village (and I think one of the best in the world) I also live on a farm containing about 500 acres. I produce on that farm a good surplus of corn, oats and hay which I sell to my neighbors and customers, insisting all the while that they should raise enough of such crops for their own use. I am glad to say that I can see signs of improvement. I am often amused at their apologies, promises to do better and comments on their crops of corn and hay now growing. I gave them the object lesson last year of raising eighty-five bushels of corn to the acre—better than I had ever done before.

Our fields of corn are now very promising and far more numerous. I am an optimist. I believe we are all doing better in Georgia and I hope it can never be said again of our great state that we spent more money for feed stuff, meat and dairy products than the amount for which our cotton crop was sold as was the case in 1912. If more feed crops shou.. mean less cotton it would not mean less money but it would mean a debt paying people and a prosperous country.

Progress in agriculture we all know has been phenomenal in the past few years. General application of this knowledge and, of the ways and means acquired in recent years will bring wealth and plenty to our people. It is the duty of our landlords, merchants and bankers to put forth every effort, both by precept and example, in this direction, and I trust that each of my hearers will resolve to do so individually or collectively.

THURSDAY'S PROGRAM OFFERS FEAST OF GOOD THINGS FOR ALL CONVENTION DELEGATES

THURSDAY BRINGS RIDE AND RECEPTION

Delegates Will Go on Car Ride in Afternoon and Visit Piedmont Club

A ride and a reception. That's the entertainment feature on Thursday's program for the Southern Merchants' convention. The forenoon will be devoted to speeches, but the afternoon and evening to pleasure. The visitors will be given a car ride about the city which will be followed by a reception at the Piedmont Driving club.

The delegates will assemble at the Equitable building at the corner of Nort Pryor street and Edgewood avenue at 4 o'clock. Street cars will be awaiting them, ten, fifteen or twenty—any number that will be needed for the crowd. About the city the big party will go and then far out Peachtree road and back to the Piedmont Driving club, where the visitors will be tendered a reception and the hours will be pleasantly spent until the evening is late.

Thursday afternoon is expected to be one of the most enjoyable occasions of the entire convention, and every delegate is urged to be at the Equitable building promptly at 4 o'clock and participate in it.

Technical Features of Buying and Selling to Be Discussed, Successful Dealers to Tell How to Dispose of Slow Stock

Every delegate who attended the opening session of the Southern Merchants' convention Tuesday morning and heard the instructive talks by successful merchants and business men on what more crop diversification means to the south, is loud in his praise of this part of the program.

They find that the Atlanta hosts have not only prepared many pleasure diversions for them, but also have arranged a program which evokes information and enlightenment of the pressing problems of southern merchandising. All the visitors express not only their interest in the discussions of the opening session but declare that they do not intend to miss a word that may be said at the second session beginning at Taft hall Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Thursday's program is designed to bring forth discussions that will help the merchant in the conduct of his store, help him to meet conditions that inevitably confront the retailer in the southern states.

The central theme of the discussion will be that of buying, and will be further developed by speeches on selling and on how to dispose of slow stock. Advertising, buying from the home market, and proper ascertainment of costs will also be fully presented.

The program, which is thus so replete with good things is as follows:

THURSDAY, AUGUST 7.

10 a. m.—Convention called to order.

10:05 a. m.—Invocation, Rev. C. W. Daniel.

10:15—Merchandising both as a legitimate means of livelihood and as a developer of character and mental vigor, W. W. Orr, secretary-treasurer of the George Muse Clothing company.

10:30—"When and How to Buy"—R. O. Crouch, of Griffin, Ga. "Benefits of Buying Often and According to Active Needs"—J. M. Roberts, of Willacoochee, Ga. Keeping money at home by giving preference to home manufacturers where all things are equal—Norman Johnson, editor Merchants' Journal and Commerce, Lynchburg, Va.

11—"Keeping Up Sales and Keeping Down Accumulations of Stock"—W. W. Poole, of Hwakinsville, Ga. "Ascertained Cost vs. Estimated Cost"—J. R. Nunnally, of Monroe, Ga. "Disposing of Slow Stock"—J. P. Carriker, of Molena, Ga. "Aggressive Advertising"—Paul T. Harber, editor of the Commerce Observer, Commerce, Ga.

11:50—Open parliament—J. H. McGee, Lawrenceville, Ga.

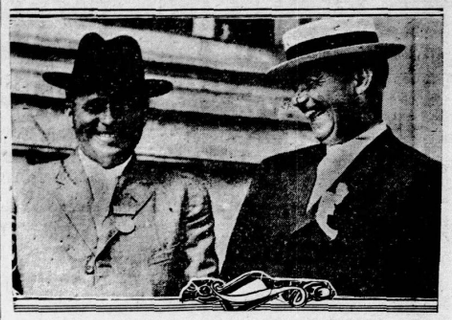
JOLLY TIME IT WAS TODAY WITH VISITORS AT WHOLESALE FIRMS



A. D. Whidden, visiting merchant, on left and Gus Hall, traveler for J. K. Orr Shoe Co., on right, illustrate the spirit of jollity that prevailed Wednesday.

Salesmen and Merchants Meet as Old Acquaintances—Jokes and Hunting and Fishing Stories Make Stay of Visitors Gay With Merriment

They're having big times around at the wholesale houses today.

The merchants are not the only ones that are happy—everybody at every jobbing house is feeling fine from packers to the head of the house.

And the salesmen—they are right in their element and show it. With merchants from all parts of their territories dropping in to see them they are living up to their reputation of being the best of hosts and entertainers.

Perhaps more good salesmen's jokes have been told in the last twenty-four hours around the wholesale section than during the last six months. Every salesman has at least one new story with a big laugh tagged to the end of it and everybody is in such good humor that even the oldest jokes go great.

All the laughter that rings out in the sample rooms along wholesale row is not at their jokes, however, for the merchants have some yarns themselves. There are record-breaking fish stories by some of the brothers from the coast towns, some droll, quiet humor from the members from the north Georgia mountains, and some gentlemen from Mississippi have told some whaling hunting experiences.

The good humor prevailing reflects better than any figures could the feeling of good prospects for fall business with the merchants of the south and the fine crop conditions.

ONE-FOURTH OF FUNDS FOR EXHIBIT SECURED

One-fourth of the $5,000 fund necessary to establish a complete and permanent cotton exhibit in the Atlanta chamber of commerce has been subscribed by the Cotton Seed Crushers of Georgia and allied interests.

This announcement was made by Chairman W. M. Hutchinson, of the subcommittee, appointed from the cotton products committee of the Atlanta Manufacturers' Exposition association, who said that the cotton oil men did not propose to stop there but were seeking now to interest many of the large foreign refineries which they believe would also contribute toward it.

J. D. Price, from Pitts, Ga., who is here for his first visit to one of the Atlanta conventions, is a live merchant who is just now having the largest volume of business he has had in seven years. From general comment of the business outlook heard among the delegates there will likely be others to equal this showing in th enext two months.

DIFFICULT TO FARM AND MERCHANDISE TOO

"Can a Merchant Be Successful and Also Operate Big Farm?" Asks Williams

"The merchant today should devote all of his time to his mercantile business and not try to conduct a live mercantile establishment and run a big farm, too," says J. D. E. Williams, who is here from St. George, Ga.

"The man who has both farming interests and mercantile interests should devote his entire time to one or the other. The big plantation owners who devote much of their time to the small mercantile business run in connection with it are making a mistake. They should stick to the farm. On the other hand, to build up the business of a general store with a good territory to draw trade from is worth a man's entire time."

It has been suggested that some of the delegates to the convention bring up this point of Mr. Williams' in the open parliament discussions, getting general comment from the meeting on the question of how the man with both farming and mercantile interests can best divide his time between the two.

Recent articles in farm journals have dealt at some length with this same matter, particularly the case of the man who gives his time to the small store which is dependent largely upon the success of his big plantation instead of giving his time to the plantation which is the producing factor in his affairs.

PROSPERITY NOW THE POPULAR SUBJECT

"Now is the time for everybody to talk prosperity, for there is the real basis for it throughout Georgia today," says Claude Little, of the Hardeman Little company, of Commerce, Ga., delegate to the convention.

"Though most people are too prone to talk discouragingly of business conditions when there is the slightest thing to warrant their fears, I do not believe in false optimism. But we have th ereason now for real optimism and every merchant here for the convention should act accordingly. Everybody get together and pull for a big fall business."

Mr. Little is one of the livest merchants of progressive Commerce and is as enthusiastic about his home town as about the present business outlook generally. He is talking up the advantages his town offers to those seking a location for manufacturing.

Convention Orator

NORMAN JOHNSON,
Who will speak Thursday on value of patronizing home markets. He is editor of Merchants' Journal and Commerce of Lynchburg, Va.

CONVENTION ECHOES

Doings and Sayings of the Great Gathering

C. L. Smith, who travels for the A. M. Robinson company, wants his friends among the visiting merchants to know that he has a new home where there is real Atlanta hospitality awaiting them.

Florida merchants are coming in good numbers to the convention, and the salesmen in that state have done much toward bringing them. J. F. Jenkins, the Brown, Perryman & Greene Co. Florida man, brought two delegates up with him, and nearly every other Florida salesman arrived in company with one merchant from the Land of Flowers.

J. P. Brown, from Demorest, Ga., one of the stanch supporters of the Atlanta market, was immensely delighted with the display he saw at one of the dry goods jobbers today. "I have never seen a better line anywhere," he said.

J. F. and J. A. Carter ,of J. F. Carter & Son, Cragford, Ala., were at the M. C. Kiser sample rooms very soon after reaching town. They have been customers of the company for twenty-three years.

C. L. Cox ,from Roanoke, Ala., was one of the merchants busy buying his season's goods today.

H. B. Benton, from Monticello, Ga., who will be here all the week, says he has already received enough pleasure and profit to pay for his visit here.

C. W. Porterfield and R. A. Patterson, from Cuthbert, Ga., have been dubbed the Mutt and Jeff of the convention crowd. They're heaving no bricks at each other, as their namesakes do, however, and are together everywhere.

W. W. Scott, the Ragan-Malone company salesman, is having a busy time with visiting merchants and was one of the first of the travelers to take a big season's order.

S. R. Hambrick, of R. T. Hambrick & Son, Fairburn, Ga., has only one regret about the convention, which is that affairs at home prevent his being here for the whole time.

W. T. Knox, from Social Circle, Ga., will return home this week to take charge of his store and allow his partner, C. E. Lloyd, to attend the remainder of the convention.

C. W. Dearlso, who is here from Ashburn, Ga., along with G. B. Gorday, says his visit is a case of little business and much pleasure, but he was busy buying fall goods when he said it.

W. R. Crittendom and J. A. White, from Shellman, Ga., are two progressive merchants who are enthusiastic about the convention and are showing their support of the Atlanta market by spending today buying far fall.

T. E. and N. O. Allen arrived from Lennox, Ga., to spend only two or three days here, but one of their salesmen friends declares he is going to keep them here for the entire session. Let every salesman get busy and keep some of these three-day visitors over until next week.

Justice and Mercy in Georgia

"A bruised reed shall he not break,
"And the smoking flax shall he not quench."
---Isaiah 42; 3.

"I will have mercy"
---Matt. 12; 7

Justice and mercy for the friendless!

The Senate, without a dissenting vote, has passed the bill providing for Probation.

With only three men voting against it, the Senate has also passed the bill providing for the Indeterminate Sentence.

These two bills are now before the House, having been favorably reported by the Judiciary Committee.

And yesterday, Tuesday, CHAIRMAN WHEATLEY saved the Girls' Reformatory from oblivion; he called a special meeting of the Committee on Appropriations to consider the Jones-Mills Bill; the RESULT, it is believed, will be the building of the Reformatory for Girls in Georgia.

Representatives GRIFFIN, GREENE of Houston, and BERRY, members of the sub-committee that considered the original bill and reported it back carrying an appropriation of $30,000 to the committee for action, spoke in favor of it.

Messrs. CONNOR and METHVIN advocated its adoption.

JOHN Y. SMITH of Fulton then moved that the Committee report favorably the bill as amended.

In favoring this motion CHAIRMAN WHEATLEY explained that he had favored the bill from the beginning.

Both the Chairman and the members of the Committee recognize the APPALLING AND IMMEDIATE NEED for the Reformatory for Girls; they unanimously adopted the motion recommending that the bill, carrying an appropriation of $30,000, be passed.

The Prison Commission has urged that the home be built, pointing out that Georgia has no place in which to handle wayward and delinquent girls. And the Penitentiary Committee has also, without a dissenting vote, recommended the passage of the Jones-Mills Bill providing for the home.

Remember! This home is not to deal with the hardened woman of the street, but with children.

Today, if a GIRL OF ELEVEN, TWELVE OR FOURTEEN gets into trouble, there is no place in Georgia to protect or help her.

What will YOU do?

No man has opposed—and it is believed that no man can or will oppose the bill, either in the House or the Senate.

Today Georgia looks to the Rules Committee of the House.

SPEAKER BURWELL, who is ex-officio its chairman, and BLACKBURN of Fulton, its Vice-Chairman, and the men serving with them in the Committee on Rules, namely MESSRS. HARDEMAN, MILLER, NUNNALLY, PAULK OF BERRIEN, REDWINE, RHODES, SHUPTRINE, SLADE AND RAGLAND, are to decide whether or not the State will take care of her delinquent and wayward girls—

Whether or not the State shall have Probation and the Indeterminate Sentence—

Whether or not Georgia will take her stand with her sister states in giving justice and mercy to the unfortunate.

Those who know these men believe that they will NOT KILL, but WILL HELP to pass these measures.

Those who know Georgia believe that the men of the House and of the Senate will gladly give the brief time necessary to make these bills the law of Georgia.

They mean life to many a home in Georgia where worse than death—dishonor and shame, will reign if these bills are not enacted into laws at this session of the Legislature.

What will you do?

Poloist Meet In Big Game At McPherson

Atlantians Have Never Before Had Chance to Witness Polo Match — Other Features for Sport-Loving Fans

Sport lovers of Atlanta have a real treat in store for them on Wednesday afternoon when two polo teams meet in a real game at Fort McPherson. The teams have been practicing for some days and when the game is started at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the rival organizations will be ready to show fandom the sport which is so popular on the other side.

Besides the polo match there will be several other athletic features coupled with plenty of music. Captain Stone, who is in c.. ge of athletics at the government post, has worked hard to make the program a success and there is every indication that there will be a real good polo game, several nice exhibitions of athletic work and excellent music.

Atlantians have never had an opportunity of seeing a polo game, which is called the sport of the kings, and there is every likelihood that there will be plenty of spectators on hand when play is called. All Atlantians have been cordially invited to attend the game free of cost, which is just about the best opportunity ever to witness a real polo match.

The game is to be played between teams from the Atlanta Polo club and the organization from the Seventeenth infantry. The Atlanta four is made up of Captain J. O. Seamans, of the Governor's Horse Guards; Albert Sidney J. Tucker, of Lexington, Va.; E. M. Landrum, of Pensacola, Fla., and Milton Wise, of New York. Four lieutenants will make up the Seventeenth club. All have had experience at the game.

Robert F. Maddox will be timer with Colonel M. E. Carthew-Yorstoun as referee.

CHANGES FOR JUST A DAY

The league leaders again had an off day, remaining stationary for two days in succession before they resume their fight for first place. Atlanta dropped or rather gave away her game and Birmingham by trouncing the Vols came within one-half a game of third place.

The Giants lost to Pittsburg on Tuesday, Drucnbrodt breaking even for the wins. The Rube was hammered from the box in the third inning. Babe Adams turned the trick.

By reason of their defeat at the hands of Cleveland the Athletics are only 6 1-2 games ahead of the Naps.

Coast-Coast On the Court

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—In the greatest exhibition of tennis ever played in the west, Gustave Touchard and W. M. Washburn, the eastern champion pair, defeated Heath Byford and Ralph Burdick, western champions, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 8-7, in the tournament at Onwentsia, Wednesday coast will oppose coast in the finals of the doubles.

In a match noted for contrast for lack of brilliancy, Clarence Griffin and John Strachan, the Pacific champions, disposed of Robert Splaton and J. B. Adoue, who bore the hopes of Dixie, 6-1, 6-4, 9-7.

The eastern pair and Griffin and Strachan will battle for the privilege of playing McLoughlin and Bundy for the national championship at Newport, August 18.

The east-west match abounded in thrills. The superiority of the visitors in the long runs was hardly doubted by the big gallery, but the Chicago men played a desperate game and their battle uphill from the start, kept their hundreds of supporters on keen edge.

Of the eight men who took part in the rounds Burdick and Touchard furnished the most spectacular exhibitions. The eastern man's coolness and confidence made him master of more than one tight situation. His placing on returns was wonderful, especially his handling of the pretty lobs which Byford curved to the base line.

COBB VS. JACKSON

Tyrus Cobb batted .400 for the day, Jackson batting zero. Ty was up five times, getting two three-base hits. Jackson was up three times.

Here are the averages:

Player.	G.	AB.	R.	H.	Pct.
Jackson.....	100	386	78	141	.397
Cobb.....	74	248	75	96	.387

Palmetto Wants Game

The Palmetto baseball team would like to arrange a game with some team in Atlanta for Saturday, August 9, on Palmetto grounds. Will guarantee expenses from College Park and return, so any team wishing to play the Palmetto team can get a game by writing manager baseball team, or call phone 84 after 6 p. m. Wednesday or Thursday, and ask for manager ball team.

HOLLAND LOOKS LIKE STAR TO THE CHATTANOOGA FANS

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 6.—Billy Smith seems to have corralled a real star in Kid Holland, the Georgia Tech prodigy who is covering the three-quarter sack for the Crackers during the sojourn of Wally Smith upon the keystone sack in Whitey Alperman's shoes.

In the games here the youngster is fielding it faultless style and is hitting most opportunely. In the opening game with the Lookouts he topped the fray for the Crackers, smashing a long single to left in the eighth inning with the bases full.

Manager Elberfeld, of the local club, made an attempt to secure Holland early in the season, but the collegian refused to sign just as he had done when made offers by three major league clubs.

Elberfeld was acting upon instructions from Hugh Jennings, of the Tigers, to whom Holland had been recommended in glowing terms by no less a personage than Tyrus Raymond Cobb. The Georgia Peach saw Holland in action when he was barnstorming in Atanta and through southern Georgia this spring.

Hurler Blew And Lost Out

Plate Could Not Be Located and Great Battle Goes to Lookouts

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 6.—Thompson was in the box just a trifle too long. For eight innings he pitched shutout ball, holding the Chattanoogans absolutely safe, but in the ninth he weakened materially, and when Billy Smith refused to take him out in the tenth, his wildness coupled with Holland's error lost the game, by a score of 2 to 1.

In the ninth Thompson allowed one hit, and hit two batsmen, which events coupled with Bisland's boot gave the Lookouts the tying run. It was done thusly: With one gone King poked a double to left. Graff received one of Thompson's benders in the back... Coyle fouled out. Street grounded to Bisland who errored, filling the bases. Graham then went in to bat for Covaleskie, and Thompson proceeded to pink the Cracker cast-off, thereby forcing in the locals' first run.

Atlanta had scored one previously, in the fifth. Long got one on Coyle's muff off Flick's throw. Tommy stole second, and Agler hit one to short which took a bad bound. Then Long and Agler worked the double steal.

Outside of this inning Covaleskie held the Crackers safely during the whole game; he allowed only seven hits, and several times pulled out of ugly looking holes.

Chattanooga took charge of the game in the tenth round. With one man gone Holland threw wild to first, allowing Johnson to rest safely on Agler's station. Thompson then went amuck again pinking Elberfeld. King went out, Thompson then passed Graff, and with two down Coyle got a very Texasey leaguer over Bisland's head, scoring the winning run.

The game was one of the most exciting which has been played on the local diamond this year.

Batting Figures

All the Cracker slugmen suffered a slump of a few points. No change occurred in the standing. The figures include Tuesday's game with the Nooga:

NO USE GIVING AWAY GAME BY WORKING A WILD PITCHER

Had Thompson Been Relieved in Eighth When He First Became Wild Crackers Would Have Won Ball Game

When a pitcher is showing indications of blowing in a close ball game why not yank him at once and put in an old and more reliable man?

Right now this is an all-important question among Atlanta fans. And it all comes about through the failure to yank Thompson in Tuesday's game with Chattanooga when it was admirably evident that he had gone up and would not do to go through any tight places.

Of course it is all over now but at the same time it caused the loss of the game and places Birmingham just that much nearer to third place Molesworth having won his game in handy fashion. By rights the loss of the game should not be charged to Thompson but to the manager, who did not yank him when it was certain that he had gone wild and could not locate the platter.

Until about the seventh inning Thompson pitched grand ball but about the eighth he began to get a little wild. Atlanta had gained a measly 1-0 lead and Covleskie was going like a house afire. It was almost sure that the Dope would not let another tally win over, and with Thompson getting wilder each minute there was but one real baseball move to make. This was not made, and of course the game was lost. It should have been dropped.

YANK THE HURLER.

Baseball of the present day, which is far advanced over the kind played even three or four years ago, called for the changing of pitchers whenever your slabber is getting wild, hit too hard or is getting too high in the air. A game won today is just as good as one to-morrow. There is no use in holding pitchers idle on the bench to pitch tomorrow's game when they could step in and win the battle of today. A game won is a game won, no matter whether it is Tuesday or Wednesday. It counts just as much in the percentage table if you change pitchers and in this case would undoubtedly have counted for more than the one which Thompson tried to weather even though he was getting weak from the sixth round.

First, it would let another heavy walks when good fielding ended the round without a run. Right then was the time to do the yanking, but not so. The flinger was ahead, but only by one measly run, and it would not have worked a hardship on the record of any other flinger to have taken up the burden. He would have just as good a chance, or perhaps even better, than if he started the game.

In the ninth inning Thompson showed to all that he could not locate the plate, feeding in a runner with a fair batsman and yet he was allowed to stay right on the hill. In the tenth his wildness was a bit greater and he finally succeeded in throwing the game away. And all because he was not taken from the box when he first showed he was not in condition.

SOUTHPAWS ARE LOSERS

CHICAGO, Aug 6.—Ten left-handed pitchers figured in seven of the nine major league baseball games played Tuesday, five sustaining defeat, four winning and one retiring without a credit or discredit. The winning southpaws were Pierce, of Chicago, who defeated Rucker, of Brooklyn; Wellman, of St. Louis, victor over Collins, of the Boston Americans in the second game; Leonard, of Boston, conqueror of St. Louis in the first game of the double-header, and Russell, of the Chicago Americans.

Rube Marquard's winning streak was broken by the Pittsburg Nationals after the New York star had achieved nine straight victories. "Slim" Sallee was returned a loser against the rushing Philadelphia Nationals, although he pitched a better game than any of the luckless five, allowing only one run.

More Protection For Base Runner

Connie Mack has a new rule to suggest when the baseball magnates gather in the fall. The sphinx-like leader of the Athletics would have the base runners given more protection and have infielders restricted in blocking tactics.

When an infielder has deliberately blocked the path, Mack believes that the umpire should grant the runner his base. He claims that the use of shin guards by catchers and other protection by infielders makes it next to impossible for a base runner to get the goal sought unless he has sufficient weight to bowl over the opposing infielder.

Much Interest Shown in Big Tournament at Capital City Club

With the first round completed and the defeated eights engaging in a tournament, the golf tournament at the Capital City club is progressing nicely and plenty of good golf is shown. All the players in the tournament, which is for the president's trophy, are showing much interest and matches are being played each day.

The present t urnament is the first held over the Capital City course, which is now in fine shape, and the enthusiasm being manifested assures plenty of future meets. The club has a large membership and with some one taking up the game every day or so, there will soon be plenty of golfers to keep the links crowded at all times.

Here are the results in the first round.

First flight: Bowie Martin defeated P. W. Hammond, 7-6; Frank Adair defeated E. H. Moore, 5-4; R. L. Reed defeated J. T. Jennings, 5-4; J. H. Usher defeated C. M. Scipio, 1 up 19 holes; W. C. Spiker defeated C. R. Aitchison, 2-1; T. P. Hammond defeated P. T. Marye, 2-1; J. D. Osborne defeated J. P. Calhaway, 1 up; Clarence Knowles defaults to P. L'Engic.

Second flight: E. Thornwell defeated F. R. Graham, 6-5; A. Schoen defeated J. R. Gray, Jr., 2 up; Hamilton Douglas, Jr., defeated T. J. Magill, 7-6; Macon Martin defeated R. L. Cooney, 3-2; Dr. J. G. Williams defeated J. R. Dick, 6-5; E. R. Austin defeated J. P. Webster, 2-1; W. T. Gentry defaulted to R. E. Hastings; Keith Conway defeated T. H. Godfrey, 3-2.

Third flight: John Aldredge defeated T. R. Gentry, 1 up; Frank Smith defeated T. C. Tenney, 2 up; Eugene Dickey defeated James J. Ragan, 2-1; W. G. Gregory defeated Jesse Draper, 2-1; A. C. Newell defeated John S. Cohen, 1 up; C. E. Scipio defeated A. S. Watson, 2-1; R. F. Maddox defaulted to J. K. Ottley; J. Russell Porter defeated P. C. McDuffie, 8-7.

Here is the way the defeated eights play:

First flight: P. W. Hammond vs. E. H. Moore; J. T. Jennings vs. C. M. Scipio; C. R. Aitchison vs. P. T. Marye; J. P. Callaway vs. Clarence Knowles.

HOW CLUBS PLAY TODAY

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 6.—Nashville and Birmingham play the last game of the series here today. Hardgrove and Mayer will be the battery for the visitors and Beck and Gibson for Nashville. Weather fair.

TEN MILE RACE A CORKER; THREE RIDERS ALL IN BUNCH

The lightning kept up an almost incessant flashing and cracking that was not at all out of harmony with the sparking and popping of the big motors as they whirled around the board saucer Tuesday night.

The threatening weather kept a large crowd away, but it did not dampen the enthusiasm of those who did attend.

The races were closely finished, well and daringly ridden. A nasty spill was narrowly averted at the finish of the final heat in the Motordome purse race, when Tex Richard's wheel wavered and twisted for a second as he tried to pass McNeil. This race brought out some nice riding, but the spurt between Richards and McNeil in the final was the piece of prize riding.

Harry Glenn got away with another match race Tuesday night when he disposed of Billy Shields in straight heats. The time was far from fast, but the race was fairly close.

The riders warmed up to their work for the Atlanta Sweepstakes. Both heats were run in the same time, so six riders competed in the final ten-mile heat. This was the race of the night and furnished everything but a spill. Harry Glenn rode his best race in those ten miles and held his own with the track speed demons. Jock McNeil created the excitement by his daring riding passing the field time and time again only to have to drop back and finally he was forced to leave the race for good. For five or six miles Glenn, Richards and Renel tore around the track, elbows touching. Richards was too consistent, however, and though only a few scant yards separated the three he went over the line a winner.

In all, the card Tuesday night was as good as any the management has yet put up.

Final Battles With Lookouts; Double Header

Crackers and Chattanooga Now Tied on Series and Two Games Wednesday Will End Last Trip to City

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 6.—For the last time this season the Atlanta club ties up with the local team on the home grounds. This afternoon at 2:15 o'clock the two teams will start a double bill which closes their series.

The weather this morning is ideal. The series at present stands an even break, Atlanta having captured the first and Chattanooga the second, therefore it will take a sweep of the double bill to give the break to either team in the series.

In the first game Conzelman and Dunn will be the choice of the Atlanta manager, while Elberfeld will use Grimes in the box and the ex-Cracker backstop, Graham, will probably do the receiving.

In the second game, Atlanta's southpaw, Price, will probably oppose Kroh, Chapman and Street doing the receiving for their respective teams.

Big Racing Meet

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 6.—Mr. Harvey Granger, the president of the Savannah Automobile club, will go to the races at Elgin, Ill., next month for the purpose of interesting the racing people out there in the Savannah game. He expects to be gone about three weeks. The entries for the Savannah races are beginning to come in and there is much interest being shown in the November meeting.

White Sox Purchase Star Texas Player

BEAUMONT, Tex., Aug. 6.—The sale for $2,000 of centerfielder D. E. Wylie, of the Beaumont, Texas league team, to the Chicago American league club was announced here today.

SOUTHERNERS WHO STARRED

Slim Sallee hurled again on Tuesday, holding Philadelphia to one run but losing.

Dode Paskert received six putouts in center field, playing an errorless game. He failed to get a hit.

Joe Jackson batted zero. He was up three times without a hit or run.

The Brooklyn trio was off color in hitting.

Tris Speaker was successful three times in seven trials.

Yerkes got three out of four in the first and two out of three in the second, giving him 5 out of 7.

Whitney Now Enroute Here

A telegram from Frank Whitney, who boxes Charley White at the auditoriumarmory on Wednesday evening, announces that he will be here Friday morning at 11 o'clock. The local favorite stopped off in Chicago to take a few strenuous workouts in McConnell's gymnasium, which is well equipped and will serve to get him in condition.

It is expected that White will show up Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. A telegram from Manager Nate Lewis announces that White will be on hand Saturday and in shape for a gruelling match. The arrival of both boys Saturday assures the fans that they will get in condition and that there will be no stalling.

Atlantians can put it down that whenever Frank Whitney steps in the ring there is going to be a real boxing match. He always gives the bunch a run for its money and it is safe in saying that a Whitney-White match should be good.

Langdale Gets Away

LANGDALE, Ala., Aug. 6.—Langdale defeated Shorter here Saturday in one of the prettiest games of the season. It was a good game throughout, both teams playing jam-up ball.

THE CLOSING TRAIL.

And the old boy plays the game;
He clouts one a mile when the pinch arrives
As he whirls to the mad acclaim;
But the old boy's wise to the kink,
He knows where the answer's set
When he misses one by a foot or two
That a kid on the bench could get.

Young with the years of life,
But old with the driving play,
He's out there fighting the answer back
Through the gray dusk of his day.
We say he is still a star,
But he knows where the yarn's complete—
Where they nail him a foot on a play at first
That a kid on the bench could beat.

There are two varieties of pitched balls which leave the great Zim sadly bewildered and deeply annoyed. One is the Tesreau variety which he can't reach, and the other is Mathewson's slow ball which rarely ever reaches the plate until Heinie has practically concluded his swing.

The point now is about this—If Murphy fired Chance for only winning four pennants in seven years, what will he do to J. Evers in case the Cubs finish no better than third? The best fate we can see in sight for Johnny is that he will only be disembowel and then burned in oil. And if he should finish as low as fourth—but Johnny is too clever an athlete to be the subject of any such horrible fate.

The Giants open another crucial series in Pittsburg Monday. If they lose all three games and eight regulars by injury, the Pirates may yet make it close.

THE CASE OF T. LEACH.

A good bit has been spoken and written about the wonderful way Wagner, Lajoie and others are hanging on, despite their duration or service. But in this respect we know of no one who can push through an edge by Tommy Leach. Tommy has been reported all in for several seasons, and yet today he is still playing fine ball in every department with his old speed intact. They crowded him away from third where he ruled for over twelve years, and now he is starring at another job on a par with almost any in the game. In the salvos of applause that are scattered about, Leach deserves enough to rack the stands.

Jimmy Thorpe is undecided whether he will make the trip around the world with Giants and White Sox or whether he will put in the frosty autumn season taking back and distributing a number of touchdowns to West Point, Penn and Brown.

"Just what," writes in a bystander, "has Mathewson got?" Enough.

They say there is nothing new under the sun, and yet here comes an August battle for the cellar championship of the National league that doesn't involve the Boston Braves. The Browns emerged last season and if the Braves stay out this year, tradition will be ended forever. There'll be nothing left to the grand old game but memories.

PLAYERS BEST AT 30 YEARS
—HANK O'DAY.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Aug. 6.—"Hank" O'Day, dean of the National league umpires and former manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is taking a course of treatment at one of the principal bath houses here.

O'Day gave a brief outline of his baseball career, eliminating as he went along such portions as referred to Cincinnati. He said:

"I started playing professional baseball when I was seventeen years old. I was living in Chicago at the time and was considered a good amateur player. Spalding was picking up a team composed of the best amateurs in the city, and I had a chance to get into the game.

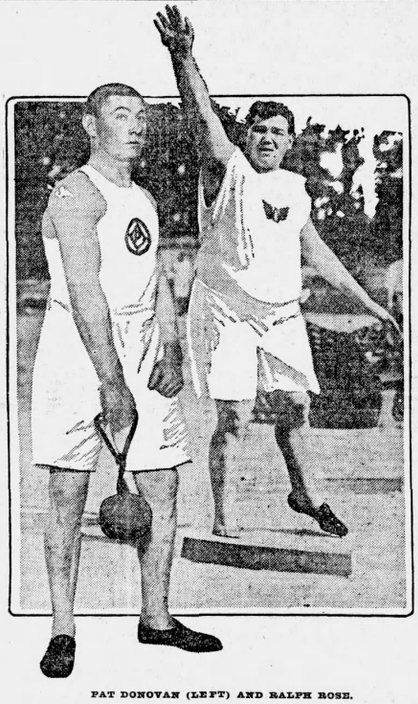
"The public usually believes a player is young if he has just been recruited from the minor leagues. But such is not the case. Some of these fellows are gray-headed before they have a chance to get into the big leagues.

"If a man takes care of himself, he ought to be able to do his best work when he is well along in the thirties. We have some fine players in the two major leagues who are nearly forty years of age."

"Does it take nerve for an umpire to make a decision with 30,000 persons yelling at him?" he was asked.

"No. It takes quick, keen judgment. I make my decisions the instant I see the play, and I am willing to let the grandstand occupants approve or yell their heads off."

TWO NEW WORLD'S RECORDS IN AN ORDINARY CLUB MEET



PAT DONOVAN (LEFT) AND RALPH ROSE.

Ralph Rose and Pat Donovan again inscribed their names on the scroll of fame by breaking the world's records in the 18-pound shot put and 56-pound weight for height, and annual indoor meet held recently at the San Francisco Olympic club.

Rose broke the record of 44 feet 1 1-8 inches made by Pat McDonald in New York last year, and by so doing regained the honor that McDonald took from him. Rose showed that his put was no fluke, for twice during the competition he smashed McDonald's figures. In the first put of the final round the big native son heaved the pill out to 44 feet 2 1-2 inches, or 1 3-8 inches better than McDonald's figure.

Not satisfied with that, Rose came back in his last put and sent out a mighty heave that the galleryites could see had broken all previous records. When measured, the put showed that the local man had smashed McDonald's figure to smithereens, breaking it by 1 foot 5 3-4 inches. This is a mark that will set the easterners thinking, and it will be some time before it is broken.

Pat Donovan sent the 56-pound missile skyward a distance of 10 feet 7 inches, which is exactly half an inch better than his own previous world's record.

Ritchie Will Fight Welsh

Articles of Agreement Have Not Yet Been Signed by Rival Fighters

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—The next lightweight match, with a title of the ring at stake, will be for the championship of the world. Willie Ritchie, the American champion, made this a certainty when he agreed to meet Freddie Welsh, champion of Great Britain and Australia in Vancouver, B. C., for twenty rounds September 1.

Welsh already has one decision over Ritchie, awarded in November, 1911, when Ritchie substituted at the eleventh hour for Ad Wolgast, then the champion, who was stricken with appendicitis on the eve of a match with Welsh. Ritchie had never fought a long distance bout then, and went into the match untrained. His surprising showing won him his chance at the title against Wolgast.

Articles stipulating the weight and division of the purse will be signed as soon as Ritchie returns from a hunting trip in the mountains east of Salimas, whither he left yesterday afternoon.

If Ritchie wins at Vancouver, his next battle probably will be with Leach Cross in New York for ten rounds in the latter part of September.

Except by a knockout, the title could not be in peril in a match with Cross, and accordingly Ritchie feels fairly confident that on Thanksgiving day he will return to San Francisco for twenty rounds either with Harlem Tommy Murphy or Ad Wolgast.

77 Miles an Hour

LEMANS, France, Aug. 6.—Bablot, a Frenchman, today won the automobile grand prize of France, covering 335 5-8 miles in 4 hours, 21 minutes, 50 seconds. His average speed was 77 miles an hour.

CALLAHAN WAS BUNCOED IN THE CHAPPELLE DEAL

Player Reported to White Sox When in Lame Condition, Chance Was Not Treated Nearly So Bad

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Having read Frank Chance's remarks anent the case of Rollie Zeider, who was handed over for Hal Chase and is now in the hospital unable to play, Manager Callahan, of the Chicago White Sox, had a reply ready when he arrived in town yesterday morning from Boston. In fact, Mr. Callahan had many things to say in the course of an interview.

"We paid $12,000 cash and gave up players valued at $6,500 more for Outfielder Larry Chappelle," said Callahan, "and now we find that Chappelle is unable to play with our team because he is suffering from an injured groin and a twisted knee. In fact, when he came to us from the Milwaukee club he was complaining of his knee, although we had been assured that he was able to jump right into harness. We are not kicking, however, for we know how to take our medicine. We are not asking the Milwaukee club to take Chappelle back.

"I saw what Chance had to say about Zeider's case and I was surprised to read that he charged me with bad faith. Why, the proposed deal was called off before we began to play Zeider on third base. Harry Lord was injured on Decoration day and Zeider finished the game. He also played the next two days, when Chance informed me that he would accept our terms. I told Chance that Zeider had played good ball for us in two games and part of a third and that as far as I knew he was fit. If he was spiked by Crawford in one of these contests he said nothing to me about it. After he joined the New York team he played several games before he complained of a bunion.

"We were informed by Chance that Chase was in shape to play, yet Hal did not report to us until four days after the deal was completed because, he said, his ankle was lame. I considered that Chance got the better of the transaction for I expected Zeider would play permanently and that Borton would hit as hard as he did with us. There was no desire on our part to worst Chance in this deal. In fact, we wanted to help him because of our friendly relations in Chicago. We let him have Gossett at the waiver price when we really wanted to keep him, for in our opinion Gossett is one of the best young catchers in the business."

WOULDN'T TY BE THE MAN?

If plans now in the making materialize, Mobile fans will be given the chance to see Charley Schmidt, the husky Gull backstop, in a ten-round ring exhibition with Champion Jack Dillon, one of the cleverest boxers in the country. One of the players on the local club, who is well acquainted with Dillon, has been in communication with him and he is ready to meet Schmidt in a boxing exhibition if it can be arranged.

The big Gull backstop has appeared in several bouts and has proved that he is as handy in the ring as on a ball field. One of Schmidt's ring feats he points to with pride is a four-round draw exhibition he boxed with Fireman Jim Flynn.

If the bout can be arranged it is planned to have the two men appear on the Saturday night before the closing day of the season, or Saturday, September 6. Schmidt has expressed a willingness to meet Dillon if the affair can be arranged, and Mobile fans would welcome the opportunity of witnessing the big catcher in a ring exhibition.—Mobile Register.

Batting Rally Copped For the Waco Team

WACO, Ga., Aug. 6.—Waco and Bremen met in one of the hottest games of baseball Saturday witnessed in the former town in many years. The excitement was intense and it looked like anybody's game for seven innings. In this inning the Waco boys got on to the Bremen boys slants for five runs and when the last man was called out in ninth inning the strong Bremen team had gone down in defeat to the tune of 10 to 3. The features of the game was the all round playing of the Waco team.

The real star of the game was Parker, of Waco, at second, who accepted nine chances without a bobble and got two two-baggers out of four times at bat.

The Waco outfielders, F. Jeter, Berrier and J. Cochran, made very difficult chances look easy.

G. Jeter was in fine form and had the Bremen boys eating out of his hand at all stages of the game. The further he went the better he got and after the third inning not a run was made by the boys from Bremen.

Bremen in order to continue their long winning streak secured a pitcher from the Georgia-Alabama State league to twirl the game. The young gent from Newnan was, however, unmercifully hammered to all corners of the lot.

Batteries: Waco, G. Jeter and L. Cochran. Bremen: Cook, Hood, Baskin and Norton. Umpires. Upchurch and Russell, of Bremen.

Reulbach to Dodgers In Echange for Stack

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Pitcher Ed Reulbach, who helped win pennants for the Chicago Nationals, was traded today to Brooklyn for Pitcher Ed Stack.

Mike Mitchell, outfielder, upon whom waivers had been asked by the Chicago Nationals, has been claimed by Pittsburg.

Washington Wins

WASHINGTON, Ga., Aug. 6.—Washington defeated Madison Tuesday 12 to 5 in the first of a three game series. Madison used two pitchers to stem the tide of Washington's hits.

Olympic Star Quits

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., Aug. 6.—James I. Wendall, Wesleyan, 1913, a member of the American team at the Olympic games in Sweden, announced today that he had decided to withdraw from athletics. He said he wished to retire while "good" rather than to be forced out by declining ability.

He has accepted a position to teach at Pottstown, Pa., next year.

Frank Greer, ex-amateur sculling champion, may challenge Ernest Barry for the world's professional title.

All-Round Champions

TRIS SPEAKER, Texan, center fielder of the Boston American World's Champions, was honored with 59 out of a possible 64 points by the Chalmers Trophy Commission of newspaper men when named as the most valuable man to his team in the American League. An all-round star, he is brilliant in the field, at bat and on the bases. He drove in enough runs to cinch Boston's 1912 pennant claim.

Captain Larry Doyle, New York Giant, was the Chalmers Commission choice of the National League. He won his prize car in a fierce competition with Hans Wagner. The Pittsburgh veteran was just 5 points behind Doyle, who won with a total of 48. Doyle is an Illinois product, from Caseyville, 26 years old—three years younger than Speaker. He is the key to New York's infield, covering second base.

JOURNAL WANT AD Horoscope

AUGUST 7.

All people with this birthdate are surrounded by solar fluids and draw to themselves planetary currents of the greatest power.

At times these people seem to radiate a glow of health and strength and harmony and are very forceful and accomplish their best work.

Writers with this birthdate are often called "inspirational" writers because their knowledge comes from some source which is outside of themselves. Orators of this birthdate are able to influence vast crowds and mould public opinion readily.

People of this birthdate do not care much for detail or organization and like to take things easily. Women of this birthdate are good housekeepers and good providers, a little inclined to extravagance.

The planetary conditions governing The Journal Want Ads for the coming week will be usually favorable for changes of location, finding of lost articles and answering Journal Want Ads relating to change of office positions.

Some Journal Ads are inserted free in The Journal—see first Want Page. For charge ads, ask that they be sent for, or telephone them to Main 2000 or Atlanta 423.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Crop Conditions Throughout Georgia

IN MANY sections of the state crop conditions at present are better than have been known for many years, that is for a full yield of cotton and corn. Things looked very discouraging in the early part of the season but splendid rains have come in most sections and with plenty of water at the right time a bountiful crop is sure to follow. In the northern and western part of the state, also in the eastern part I don't suppose there has been a time in many years when such splendid prospects were so favorable as they are at present, and in many sections of south Georgia the same thing can be said, and the farmers of Georgia should feel congratulated this year that this state of affairs exists. They will be in a position this fall to diversify their farming interests and be prepared to do so better than at any time I have ever known, and every farmer who can possibly find his way clear to do so should add some live stock and poultry to their home. I find a great many sections that no new blood has been added to the thoroughbred flocks of poultry, cattle or hogs as is usually done by many. For the past two years a great many people have neglected keeping their stock up to the standard that they should do. This should not be neglected longer, and with the money in sight this fall everyone should try not only improve their poultry but their cattle and hogs. A great many breeders are now buying good males to use at the head of their herds and flocks and as soon as these can be secured this summer or fall is should be done. Do not put it off as good specimens are sure to be scarce this coming winter and hard to find.

With plenty feed in sight everyone should stock their places to the limit and continue to raise feed and live stock and poultry more than ever before. The day is coming when the southern farmers will depend more largely on feeding their corn, grain and also converting their grasses and hay crops through live stock into cash, and the sooner this is done naturally the quicker the fertility of the farms will be built up and a more equal distribution of cash throughout the year can be had than if the cotton crop alone is depended on. The south is sure to be a great stock growing country some day, and the ones that get started in it first will, of course, be in a better position to furnish a great many breeders with foundation stock than those that wait later. A few breeders see this state of affairs coming and are preparing themselves for it, and I believe this coming fall and winter will see more good live stock and poultry distribution on the farms in the south than we ever have been known before. It is only a matter of a short time before thousands of dollars will be circulating over the south when the cotton crop begins to move. The fruit and watermelon crops have brought a large amount of money to the growers of southern Georgia and Florida and they are beginning to feel the effects of it, and now right on top of it with a good crop of cotton and every indication of a good price to be paid for it it looks like there is nothing ahead but great prosperity for the entire south during the coming fall and winter.

I have recently made quite an extended trip over the state and it is certainly encouraging to see such crops as are now beginning to mature in the different parts of Georgia. It means quite a different state of affairs from what last fall brought to this country, and the country people as well as the city people are sure to be effected in a splendid way by the new crop that is now coming to this state. During the Farmers' crop that is now in progress at Auburn. Ala., there is in attendance one thousand or more representative farmers from that state, and most of them speak in the most favorable terms of the crop prospects throughout Alabama. The College of Agriculture at Auburn is conducting this week an auction live stock sale and a large number of hogs and cattle will be sold at auction at a reasonable price and distributed throughout the state of Alabama. This is a good step in the right direction and will benefit every section that these animals are carried into. Hereafter this will be made an annual affair and those coming with this free summer school and will give many an opportunity to not only see but select the kind of animals that they wish.

There never was so many inquiries coming from different parts of the south for prices on both live stock and poultry as there is at present. The farmers seem to be thoroughly awakened now while they are in a position to add these different things to their farms they seem anxious to do so, and are not only asking for prices but are purchasing live stock and poultry from different parts of the country. One breeder in Georgia during the past few days has bought a splendid herd of Jerseys to be placed on his farm at an average price of about $500 each. This party has been breeding Jerseys for some time, already has a splendid herd and is increasing it every year. He realizes what the live stock interest is to him. This party has one hundred and fifty acres of alfalfa growing in Georgia and knows what it means to him. There are others who are in a small way increasing their herds, and with this bountiful crop in sight many will be able to do things they have never been able to do before. Yours very truly,

Lee Rennie

POULTRY FEED

PROGRESSIVE LIVE STOCK AND POULTRY FARM.

J. N. & J. H. McLENDON, Owners.
Dawson, Ga., Oct. 26, 1912.

Aunt Patsy Poultry Feed Co.,
Memphis, Tenn.

Gentlemen:

Please make us a price on Aunt Patsy's Poultry Feed, the Egg Producer.

About a while we were able to buy your feed from our wholesale grocer here, but they are out of it about half of the time. I have tried to get a supply from them the past week, but they are out and insist on selling me other feed which is not worth the bag it is put up in.

Kindly let me hear from you at once, as my chickens are not laying half as they did when I had your Aunt Patsy's feed.

Respectfully,
J. H. McLendon.

THE PROPER WAY TO FEED HENS TO PRODUCE EGGS IN THE FALL OF THE YEAR

If you want your hens to lay during the Fall and Winter, read what the RIVERSIDE POULTRY FARM has to say:

RIVERSIDE POULTRY FARM,
STANDARD SINGLECOMB WHITE LEGHORNS.
Riverside, Ala., Oct. 31, 1912.

Mr. J. P. Gentry,
Memphis, Tenn.

Dear Sir:

Replying to your letter asking how we liked Aunt Patsy's Poultry Feed, we have this to say, and you can judge for yourself: You remember the day you were here we had just mated a pen of 50 pullets, and it was agreed that we should try your feed on these birds first. We have been feeding these pullets on Aunt Patsy's poultry Feed (dry mash) in a hopper or trough. Have also fed Aunt Patsy's scratch feed in a deep litter so as to make them scratch for exercise. Yesterday we gathered 31 eggs from this pen, and the day before that, 25 eggs, a record breaker with us so far as eggs are concerned, from pullets in the early fall.

Since feeding Aunt Patsy all of my birds are in a thrifty, healthy condition, and I am so pleased with results that I have ordered another lot of the feed.

With personal regards from the writer, we are,

Yours truly,
Riverside Poultry Farm,
E. D. Kimball, Mgr.

FOR SALE

IN THE thriving little town of Smyrna, Ga., the coming suburb of Atlanta, on Marietta car line, and W. and A. railroad, situated on large shady lots, near depot, we have two nice 5-room cottages, with plenty of porch room. We recommend these for either home or investment. See Mr. Eve.

NORTH MORELAND, near Druid Hills, 2-story, 8-room, modern home. Furnace heat. East front lot. Cheap for $6,650. See Mr. Radford.

NICE SELECTIONS in up-to-date bungalows in the desirable residence sections of the city. Reasonable prices and attractive terms. For particulars, see Mr. Cohen.

A VERY DESIRABLE cottage home on Park avenue, overlooking the park. Six rooms; nice elevated lot. Good buy for $4,350. Terms. See Mr. White.

ON ONE OF THE MAIN North Side streets, we have some of the most attractive homes and bungalows that we have ever been able to offer, and nearly all of these are thoroughly modern, and up-to-date. It is needless to comment on the neighborhood, all having fine car service, very convenient and surrounded by the best schools and churches. Houses of this type add a decided attraction a renting list. They are generally owned and occupied by their owners. So this is your chance to get an exceptional home at a very reasonable rent on account of the odd season.

IF YOU HAVE MONEY TO LOAN WE CAN PLACE IT.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Vernon Apartment House at 51 East Cain Street Leased for Five Years at $400 a Month—Lots on Elmira Place and Highland Avenue Are Sold—Bankers Tell Real Estate Men They Are Highly Pleased With McAdoo Offer

The leasing of apartment houses as a whole is getting to be a feature of real estate transactions these days, particularly where the apartment houses are close-in.

Sharp & Boylston have leased for Clark & Bradley to Mrs. Olivia Black the Vernon apartment house at No. 51 East Cain street. The term of the consideration is $400 a month.

This is a three-story building, containing six apartments with an aggregate of 21 rooms. Mrs. Black will open a select boarding house.

SMALL SALES.

Some small lot sales were reported on Wednesday, and quite a large volume of transfers went to record.

Among the transfers Wednesday was a bond for title conveying a lot on West Peachtree street north of Tenth, which was sold at the rate of $100 a front foot.

ELMIRA PLACE SALES.

The J. L. Turner company has sold for the C. M. Morris estate to different clients three lots on the west side of Elmira place and one on the east side for $1,500 each.

Two of these lots will be improved at once with bungalows.

HIGHLAND AVENUE SALE.

Mrs. J. M. Hawkins has sold to Charles H. Black, through Turman, Black & Calhoun, the northeast corner of Highland and Kentucky avenues, a lot 52x200, for $2,600.

WHAT BANKERS SAY.

Real estate men who have talked to bank officials quote the latter as being highly pleased with the offer of Secretary McAdoo of the United States, to lend southern and western banks from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 to be used during the crop moving season.

Bankers say that this will have a double effect. Not only will it provide extra funds at a season when ordinarily money is "tight," but it will force other private individuals to loosen up on their money rates and lend hoarded funds.

Some of the bankers who are so pleased with the McAdoo plan had at the beginning been skeptical about the Wilson administration, so their approval now comes with added force.

The opinion among financial men here is that conditions in the money market will show a decided improvement in thirty days—in fact, they are already showing an easier tendency.

The Wilson administration has the almost unanimous indorsement of the real estate fraternity.

BUILDING NOTE.

A. J. & H. F. West are building two two-story residences on the west side of Williams street, near Tenth street, at a cost of $8,000 each. J. R. Ferrell & Son are the contractors.

DIPLOMATS NOMINATED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—William J. Price, of Danville, Ky., has been selected by President Wilson for minister to Panama.

The name of Brand Whitlock, of Toledo, Ohio, was brought forward prominently today as a likely appointee to an European post.

Major Edward J. Hale, of North Carolina, newly appointed minister to Costa Rica, said good-by to President Wilson and will leave Saturday for his post.

MISSISSIPPI FAMILY ON LONG TOUR

Picture shows E. G. Ham, a wealthy farniture dealer of Greenville, Miss., and his family in the big Cole touring car which is taking them from their home to Hamburg, Ga. In the front seat are Mr. Ham and his two sons, Gatewood and C. M. On the rear seat, from left to right, are Miss Bessie Jean, Miss Edna Bell, Miss Goldie and Mrs. Ham. The lady sitting in the back corner of the rear, on the right, is Mrs. C. D. Knight.

The Hams arrived last week, and spent several days with Councilman C. D. Knight, at his home in the second ward. They will leave Thursday for Bristol.

Brunswick's Welcome To the Boys in Gray

BY ANNIE O'CONOR.

In our little Georgia city,
Framed by ocean's gentle breeze,
Where the cool gray moss hangs thickly
From the great, old shady trees,
They are gathering—the soldiers—
For the great reunion day.
And all Brunswick sounds a welcome
To the boys who wore the gray.

Where the clear blue waters murmur
And the soft green marshes gras bends,
Where the reedy pools are smiling
To the waves the ocean sends,
Where the mockingbirds are singing
At the dawnings of the day,
They are gathering here in Brunswick,
Hail to those who were the gray!

In the quaint old Southern city,
With its grass-trimmed streets of shell,

From each patriot's porch and doorway,
Stream the colors, white and red,
And the folds of Dixie's banner,
Proudly floats again o'erhead,
Float again o'er hearts that love it,
Just as well as on the day
When they swore to die or save it—
They—the boys who wore the gray.

Thinned their ranks, and few now answer,
To the roll at break of day.
Where are all whose hearts once bounded
At the sound of reveille?
In their low green tents some slumber,
"Out on furlough," old pal say?
No; for them have "taps" been sounded;
They are gone—those boys in gray.

"Gone," we whisper, "gone forever,"
To that last, vast, camping ground,
Where there comes no cruel warfare,
And where "taps" shall never sound.
Gone, alas! But still their memories,
Dearer grow as, day by day,
Others join the silent phalanx,
Leaving few, the boys in gray.

So once more beneath the banner,
Dixie's banner, free from stain,
Purified by blood of heroes,
Sanctified by heroes' pain;
They are gathering—the soldiers—
For a hand-clasp—here today,
And all Brunswick kneels to honor
Dixie's boys who wore the gray.

Once again they hear the bugle
Waking them at early dawn,
As they heard it in the sixties
On full many a darksome morn:
But the strains which fell so gently
On their hearts this glorious day,
Tell of love and fame and honor
For the boys who wore the gray.
With its oleander blossoms
And its jasmine, loved so well,
With its ivy vines and crepes,
Mourning for a by-gone day,
They are gathering—the soldiers—
Clad again in suits of gray.

MULHALL LEAVES STAND TO CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Lobby Witness Declares He Has Found Letters Refuting Congressman's Testimony

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Examination of Martin M. Mulhall, self-styled lobbyist of the National Association of Manufacturers, was postponed today by the house lobby committee until Monday at the request of Muihall, who announced that he had discovered in his files in Baltimore some 200 additional letters, stating that some of them contradicted testimony already given before the committee by Representative Fairchild.

Mulhall insisted he needed rest. "Furthermore, I am celebrating my sixty-first birthday today, and have been invited home," he said.

The committee excused him until Monday, granted his request to have counsel during his examination, but withheld decision on his invitation to the committee to send a representative to Baltimore to assist him in going through his files.

"Fire Bug" Confesses

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—John Danies, self-confessed "firebug," today described how he had set fire to the store of W. A. Harris and Max Covitz, who are on trial under an indictment for arson. He said that he received $700 for the job.

RESINOL CLEARS BAD COMPLEXIONS

Quickly, Easily and at Little Expense.

Pimples and blackheads disappear, unsightly complexions become clean, clear, and velvety, and hair health and beauty are promoted by the regular use of Resinol Soap and an occasional application of Resinol Ointment. These soothing, healing preparations do their work easily, quickly and at little cost, when even the most expensive cosmetics and complicated "beauty treatments" fail.

And the best of it is you need never hesitate to use Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. There is nothing in them to injure the tenderest surface. Resinol is a doctor's prescription which for eighteen years has been used by careful physicians for all kinds of skin affections. They prescribe Resinol freely, confident that its soothing, healing action is brought about by medication so bland and gentle as to be suited to the most delicate or irritated skin. Resinol Soap and Ointment are sold by practically every druggist in the United States. Trial free. Dept. 3-P, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.—(Advt.)

"REBEL" VIEWS.

Colonel Eduardo Hay, chief of staff of the Constitutionalist forces in Sonora, gave to the senate foreign relations committee today a detailed account of his views on conditions in Mexico. The Constitutionalist movement, he declared, controlled at least two-thirds of Mexico.

Though he made no recommendations, Colonel Hay insisted that intervention by the United States would make things worse and declared impossible any mediation which recognized the government of Huerta. His idea of the solution of the situation was to lift the embargo on arms so that the Constitutionalists could carry on a more active campaign. Then, he declared, troubles in Mexico soon would be settled.

Huerta Won't Treat With Lind on Mexic Affairs

(By Associated Press.)

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6.—President Huerta last night reiterated the declaration of his policy of "hands off" in the reply to a question as to what would be his attitude in case an offer of mediation should be made by the United States through John Lind who is coming here as the personal representative of President Wilson to act as adviser to the American embassy.

"I have said publicly," President Huerta declared, "that I will not accept mediation or intervention of any kind, because national dignity and honor do not exact it. I have declared also that I will not treat with the rebels, and much less will I do so if the insinuation that I do involves a flagrant violation of our sovereignty.

"The question of dignity admits of no transactions and the present struggle should be conducted implacably until the national aspirations are satisfied. All should be joined in the bonds of peace, rejecting all suggestions of a violation of sovereignty and any insult that may be offered to our national dignity."

HOSTILE TO LIND.

That any suggestion by Mr. Lind or any other foreigner that President Huerta shall resign in favor of a provisional president, or that a compromise be effected with the rebels, will be regarded as unfriendly interference and resented by the government, was the comment of one man high in official life today. As simply a personal representative of President Wilson, this man continued, Mr. Lind might come to Mexico, but if he attempted to interfere with the politics of the country, he must be ignored.

Unless there is a radical change in sentiment it is not impossible that the reception accorded Mr. Lind will be exciting. Already there is talk of public demonstrations of disapproval at his coming.

Lind Does Not Want Ambassador's Place

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 6.—John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative going to Mexico, said here today that he would not under any circumstances accept the ambassadorship to Mexico at this time. Mr. Lind arrived today and left at 11:30 o'clock this morning for Galveston, where he will board the battleship New Hampshire tomorrow.

Mr. Lind said he entered into the work of personal representative of the president with pleasure but even after he had accomplished what he expected to in the southern republic he would not accept a permanent post in that country. He refused to discuss any of the recent statements of President Huerta of Mexico.

VENEZUELAN GOVERNMENT GOES ON THE WARPATH

(By Associated Press.)

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Aug. 6.—It was reported here today that General Leon Juardo, governor of the Venezuelan state of Falcon, who was believed to have been taken prisoner by Castro's adherents when they captured the town of Coro, is marching from the state of Lara to attack the rebels.

A mysterious steamer was cruising all day yesterday outside the harbor here.

Here Was Man as Rich as Morgan Yet the Public Hardly Knew Him

Anthony N. Brady, "Mole of Wall Street," Who Died Recently in London, Is Estimated to Have Been Worth $100,000,000, of Which Several Millions Were Invested in Georgia Water Powers

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Although the provisions o fthe will of the late Anthony N. Brady have given no indication of the size of his estate, unofficial estimates published here today place Mr. Brady's wealth practically on a par with that of the late J. P. Morgan.

A former financial adviser to Mr. Brady is quoted as placing his estate at $75,000,000 as a minimum estimate, and as adding that it might prove to be in excess of $100,000,000. A recent report by a state transfer tax attorney estimated Mr. Morgan's estate at $100,000,000.

Mr. Morgan occupied a so much more conspicuous place in the public eye, than Mr. Brady and many others of great wealth, that the reports of the Brady fortune being on a par with that of Mr. Morgan have occasioned surprise even in Wall street, where he was best known.

Mr. Brady's investments lacked the transient factor which made Mr. Morgan's wealth so well known. It is said that he had over $30,000,000 in tobacco alone. His holdings in Brooklyn Rapid Transit stock amounted to about $8,000,000.

In Tennesee and Georgia power properties he is said to have had investments worth $10,000,000, and during the last few years he had put between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 in Japanese lighting plants, especially in Tokio.

Mr. Brady died recently in London. Though at an advanced age, his death was rather unexpected, as he was apparently in good health when he sailed from New York. He was known as "the mole of Wall street," because he kept his movements largely under cover.

INDUSTRIAL SURVEY OF ATLANTA PLANNED

New Department of Commerce Chamber Will Issue Booklet at Conclusion of Work

The industrial and statistical bureau of the chamber of commerce has definitely decided to make a general industrial survey of Fulton county at an early date. Final plans were discussed Tuesday evening at a dinner at the Capital City club at which were present the following members of the committee that will be in charge of the survey: W. H. Leahy, J. R. Smith, chairman; E. H. Shaw, M. R. Wilkinson, V. H. Kriegshaber, W. T. Winn, A. R. Colcord, A. S. Floyd, David Woodward, W. R. Collier and Wilmer L. Moore, president of the chamber of commerce.

Leahy will make the survey, and the intention is to make it as comprehensive as possible. Card index records will be made of all the manufacturing plants of the county, their output, the scores of raw material, cost of labor and production, number of employes, and the amount of freight rates on the finished goods.

This will enable the chamber of commerce to intelligently plan for attracting needed industries to Atlanta and will conduce to the improvement of the manufactories already located in the county.

Extensive information on truck farming will also be included in the survey; and the entire findings will be published in a pamphlet which will be revised monthly. Other industrial and commercial pamphlets will be issued also and a general plan of boosting Atlanta and the county will be carried out.
